Sergeant Kenneth Warren Weds Miss Esther Perry

A very lovely wedding took place in the Congregational Church on Sunday afternoon at 2 p. m. when Sgt. Kenneth Warren and Miss Esther Perry were united by the Rev. William Weston of Hancock. Many friends of both of the young folks gathered to witness the ceremony for both are loved and respected in this town. Miss Perry made a lovely bride, gowned in bridal satin of princess lines with long sleeves and lace yoke. The finger-tip net veil covered her face and fell from a coronet on her head. The bridal bouquet was of sweet peas and was extremely beautiful. The bride was preceded to the altar by her sister, Mrs. Gerald Call, who was matron of honor. Mrs. Call wore pale yellow chiffon and carried an old fashioned bouquet. The bride was given in marriage by her father, Arthur Perry.

Gerald Call attended the groom as best man. The ushers were Warren Perry, cousin of the bride and Pearl Dunbar, cousin of the groom. The church was decorated with syringas and the vestry where the reception was held for the relatives of the bride and groom was decorated with peonies, iris and syringas and bridal wreath. There was a lovely bride's cake and other refreshments.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Perry, resided with her parents for a number of years on Francetown St. and attended local schools and finally graduated from the Keene Teachers' College. She taught in Milan, Antrim and Rindge. Although Mrs. Warren has been moving about and her parents moved to Peterboro, she is one of our girls and we are happy to have her return to her own church to be married.

Kenneth Warren, the groom, is our own town boy, too. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Warren, who reside at the Dodge Farm. He, too, attended local schools and finally joined the army and went to Rantoul, Ill. to study airplane mechanics. He is now a sergeant in the United States Air Force and is stationed in Altus, Okla., where he will take his bride after they have a short wedding trip.

The mother of the bride was attired in figured blue and white dress with white accessories and wore a corsage of sweetheart roses and sweet peas. The mother of the groom was attired in navy blue with white accessories and wore a corsage of the same flowers.

The double ring ceremony was used. The couple made a striking picture as they stood at the altar, he so tall and dark in his uniform, his bride so fair and stately in bridal white.

Miss Edith L. Lawrence furnished the music.

Best of luck, Esther and Kenneth. Come back and see us all soon.

BENNINGTON

Mr. and Mrs. M. Whitney of Hartford are at their home here for two weeks.

Mrs. Webster Talmadge of New Jersey arrived last week to take up her summer residence at the Whitney homestead.

Miss Marilyn Favor of Concord visited Miss Jean Traxler and Miss Traxler returned to Concord with Miss Favor.

Prof. and Mrs. Reginald Call and son of New York, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Call, have come to spend a few weeks at the lake.

Miss Phyllis Clymer of Connecticut, a former resident here, was guest of Mrs. Horton Glenn also home from Connecticut for a few days.

Miss Phyllis Carroll, recently of Northfield School, is now working in the lab at the Paper Mill. Miss Carroll is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Carroll.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Griswold and son of Walpole, and Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Griswold and children of Antrim visited their mother, Mrs. George Griswold on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Moulton and son of Claremont have visited Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Brown this past week-end. Mrs. Moulton also visited her sister-in-law, Mrs. C. Pope.

Legion Letter, No. 6 to Antrim Boys and Girls in the Service

The Legion Letters are apparently of so much interest to the public that we are giving Letter No. 6 in full:

To All Antrim Service Men and Women:

That last, statistical letter sort of upset the news schedule. It makes a gap of two months and when you add the time it takes to get the mail to and from you fellows, why you can figure out the age of some of these items.

Paul Prescott's father received official notice that Paul was missing in action. The Manchester Union stated that accompanying flyers saw several members of the bomber take to parachutes over enemy territory. It also stated that this was one of the last combat missions to be undertaken by the ship. Probably you Air Force men know what that means, though it's our guess that after a plane has been shot up so many times, it has to be withdrawn from fighting service. Then too, a crew must have to have a long furlough every so often, to unwind from the strain of air fighting. We hope that by the next letter we can report that Paul landed safely among Allied sympathizers.

Due to military secrecy we civilians back here know very little about what action you all see. So we have to guess at what has happened, and we'll pass that guessing on to you.

After Arthur Rockwell completed his primary Navy training, he came home on leave, and said he was going back to take additional gunnery training. The next letter his folks got, he said he was assigned to a tanker, and was running between Atlantic ports and Texas. Said they had to fire a few times, but it didn't amount to much.

In another letter he told some one else they had to lay over in port long enough to patch up a hole in the ship. Now, whether they encountered a sub, or what the hole meant, we don't know. If he did meet a U boat it must mean that he saw action quicker than anyone else in town.

Since that time, he wrote from an Eastern port, and the next day a tanker was sunk, some distance away, in the direction they were headed. Survivors reached shore, but so far his parents have heard no more from him.

Harry Rogers is in England. Says it's just like this country, only they have to pay 50c a pack for cigarettes. Wants a bicycle, as it seems that is the only way of getting any where * * * John and Albert Nazer have arrived in Africa. This makes four of the family overseas, and George thought he was moving out until he ended up in desert maneuvers in Arizona * * * Arthur Holt is in the Engineers at Ft. Belvoir. The heat and work get him, but says it gets the old birds around 38 (of which there are a lot) much worse * * * Frank Jellerson has been in the hospital for seven weeks in Florida. Not very sick, but enough to keep him from going on with his schooling. Condon Carmichael is nearby, but they can't get together, because Condon has been laid up with ivy poisoning. They don't like Florida * * * Neil Mallett has passed his tests for overseas duty.

* * * Helen Auger has joined the WAACS, and the Legion Auxiliary gave her a farewell party before she left * * * Harriet Wilkinson has moved down to New Jersey. She signed for overseas duty, when she enlisted * * * Paul Dunlap is now a corporal. Is doing some good shooting on the range. The Texas heat gets him * * * Morris Harriman is sore because they are trying to make an orderly out of him in the Medical Corps, when he wants to be in some combat outfit. However, he does enjoy the meat which they get three times a day * * * Bob Thibodeau is home from Connecticut. Is going to try to get in the Navy next week. * * * Tom Leonard missed air cadet by 3 points. Went through the whole procedure of joining the Marines, and then they told him the quota was full. ## Salvation Army Drive Continues At Antrim

W. J. LAWRENCE

At the request of Chairman A. M. Sweet of The Salvation Army Annual Appeal for funds, which is now in progress, W. J. Lawrence and Rudolph Hussey will commence a systematic solicitation of funds in Antrim and District on Monday, June 21st.

Mr. Lawrence has held many important positions in The Salvation Army, having been in charge of several large cities and commanding some of its principal corps. He is from a very musical family and two of his children are Salvation Army Officers.

Mr. Hussey is an accredited member of The Salvation Army Public Relations Department, and for sometime has been engaged in this highly trustworthy occupation.

The Citizens who have not made their returns by mail to the treasurer, Rev. R. H. Tibbals, are urged to do so in order that time and expenses may be saved and thereby the greater good be accomplished by the money saved.

PFC. JAMES V. COCHRANE COMPLETES TRAINING

Santa Monica, Calif.—Pfc. James V. Cochrane, son of Mr. and Mrs. Monson Cochrane of Antrim, has qualified as an Army Air Forces technician, recently completing intensive training in Airplane Depot Overhaul at the Army Air Forces Technical Training Command school at Aero Ith. Los Angeles, Calif. Before being assigned to the special technical course the local man received basic military training at one of the basic training centers of the Army Air Forces Technical Training Command.

Mrs. Nina Fuglestad as delegate and Mrs. Dagma George as alternate from the Legion Auxiliary attended the State Convention at The Weirs from Friday through Sunday.

ANTRIM LOCALS

Miss Virginia Quinn of Hancock was a guest in the home of Andy Fuglestad, a few days the last of the week.

Winslow Caughey was at home to be graduated as valedictorian of his class. He returned to N. H. University Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Bartlett of Melrose, Mass. are guests of their mother, Mrs. George Warren, this week. Miss Noreen Warren was also at home for the week-end.

Owing to war conditions, it has been decided to postpone to a later date the observance of the fiftieth anniversary of the organization of the Congregational Church, which it had been planned to have in July.

Miss Amy Butterfield has been at home from Plattsburg, New York for a short vacation. She left Monday for Westport, N. Y., where she will do the Western Union work at Westport Inn through the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Brooks entertained their daughters, Mrs. James Davis and little daughter of Shrewsbury, Mass., Mrs. George Roberts of Chicopee, Mass., and Miss Helen Brooks of Springfield, Vermont over graduation week-end.

It was welcome news to hear Saturday night that Will Prescott had received word that his son, Paul, who was shot down in an air raid over Germany, is now in a German prison camp, instead of a casualty, as was thought possible.

It is becoming quite a common sight to see one or more deer in the fields between Byron Butterfield's and Whiton Road. Tuesday morning one was grazing serenely on the lawn at Bass Farm, later jumping the wall into Mr. Bailey's garden. It required quite a lot of "shooting" to scare it away.

At a meeting held in town hall Monday evening, airplane spotters who passed the examinations at the school recently conducted by Robert Stearns of Hancock received their Ground Observer Corps certificates. The regular observers who did not attend the classes were presented air bands. William Boyce was present and made some remarks. Coffee and sandwiches were served.

ANTRIM LOCALS

The family of John Carmichael have gone to live in Portland, Maine. Pfc. Philip Lang is at home from Camp Kilmer, N. J. on a ten day furlough.

Frances Allison underwent an appendectomy at the Margaret Pillsbury Hospital Monday.

Misses Paasche, Butters and Clark of Chelmsford, Mass., friends of Miss Mabel Turner, are stopping at Maplehurst Inn.

Mr. and Mrs. James Nay of Waltham, Mass. have been visiting their son, William Nay and family, making their headquarters at Maplehurst Inn.

Antrim High School Graduation Exercises

The forty-ninth annual commencement of Antrim High School was held Friday evening in the Town Hall, which had been simply, but very attractively decorated for the occasion. The class of four girls and four boys wore caps and gowns and were marched to the platform by Donald B. Madden, Jr. The program was as follows:

Prayer . . . Rev. Ralph H. Tibbals
Salutatory Address . . V. Carmichael
Class Prophecy . . Smith Harriman
Presentation of D. A. R. Award for Good Citizenship to Beverly Hollis . . . Mrs. H. W. Johnson, Regent
Address . . . Rev. William Weston
Valedictory Address . . W. Caughey
Presentation of Diplomas . . . Carroll Johnson, Ch. of School Board
Recessional

The usual reception and dance followed the exercises, with music by Lindsay's orchestra from Bennington. One member of the class, Edward J. Coughlin, is in the service, but will receive his diploma. The eight members receiving diplomas were Carl Dunlap, Beverly Hollis, Smith Harriman, Veronica Carmichael, Marilyn Miner, Winslow Caughey and Martin Nichols.

GRADUATION EXERCISES ANTRIM EIGHTH GRADE

Graduation exercises for the eighth grade were held in the school-room Thursday afternoon with Frederick Roberts as Master of Ceremonies. The class history was presented by Robert Allison, class prophecy by Rita Nazer, and the will by Richard Wallace.

Norma Wright presented the school with some sports equipment for the playground.

The history prizes, given by Molly Aiken Chapter D. A. R. were presented by Mrs. Alice Hurlin to Norma Wright, first, and Richard Wallace, second, in the 8th grade. Constance Paige, first, and Barbara Bean, second, in the 7th grade.

Superintendent of Schools Howard F. Mason made some remarks and the diplomas were awarded by chairman of the School Board Carroll Johnson to Howard Humphry, Robert Dunlap, Thomas Carmichael, Frederick Roberts, Robert Allison, Norma Wright, Rita Nazer, Stacia Dziengowski, Kenneth Blood, Janice Brooks, Pauline Brooks, Catherine Furlong, Richard Wallace, and Betty Whittemore. Refreshments of punch and cookies were served.

Mr. and Mrs. James Ashford are spending two weeks with their daughter in Concord.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Winslow of Albany, N. Y. have arrived at Alabama Farm for their vacation.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Mediterranean Victories Prepare Way For New Allied Campaign Against Axis; Essential Production to Be Increased By Simplification of Consumer Items

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.) Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Under the watchful eyes of U. S. guards, Axis prisoners march in internment camp in Camp Atterbury, Ind. Since fighting in North Africa, many of these camps have sprung up throughout the country, the average concentration holding 2,000 prisoners and 500 American troops. Prisoners of war are treated under rules of an international convention.

MEDITERRANEAN: Eyes Turn to Sicily

With Allied shipping reported massed in the Sicilian straits, all Italy awaited invasion.

Preparatory to the expected blow at the "underbelly of Europe," Allied airmen ranged over the Italian islands of Sardinia and Sicily, the Axis remaining bastions in the Mediterranean following the fall of Pantelleria, Lampedusa, Lampione and Linosa.

Airfields at Catania and Gerbini in Sicily were attacked. At Catania, enemy fighters rose in force to challenge the Allied assault.

Although Allied headquarters remained silent on their military movements in the Mediterranean, the Nazis reported that their airmen were engaging in running fights with large convoys off North Africa. The Axis also stated that the Allies had massed invasion barges at Bizerte.

Meanwhile, the Allies kept the Axis guessing about their next move. Strong aerial formations attacked Axis shipping in the Aegean sea, where the Nazis have fortified the islands leading to the Grecian mainland.

SIMPLIFY GOODS: From Cradle to Grave

In an effort to increase production of necessary essentials, the government has ordered the simplification of more than 1,000 manufactured items. Elimination of frills and variety of sizes is expected to result in enough conservation of material to add to production.

The simplification order will affect Americans from the cradle-to-the-grave. Metal will be restricted in baby's cribs, and the length, width and depth of coffins will be limited. Cast iron kitchen utensils will be confined to 12 items, and 40 styles of enamelware have been eliminated.

Wood furniture will be reduced to 24 basic patterns. Whereas 1,150 types of tools formerly were made, only 357 now will be permitted. Production of electric bulbs will be cut from 3,500 types to 1,700. Feminine apparel will be simplified along with children's sportswear and rayon dresses.

AIR OFFENSIVE: Cities in Flames

Bremen's big Atlas shipyards were rocked by a dozen bomb hits as American airmen continued their joint attacks with the RAF over German industrial centers. Results of the U. S. raid on the submarine base of Kiel were unobserved, as swarms of Nazi fighter planes arose to the defense.

While the Americans hammered the Atlas works, strong British units, bolstered by huge four-engined bombers, ripped Duesseldorf and Bochum in the Ruhr.

Blockbusters caused heavy damage in both cities, sweeping fires adding to the havoc. Mass evacuations were reported, and the German radio asked people in other districts to make room for the refugees.

Size of the raiding fleets can be gleaned from the Nazi claim of having shot down 46 planes, 29 of which were supposed to be the four-engined machines. German aerial activity meanwhile was limited to a short, sharp sally over a London suburb, where bombs were dropped.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

SOFTWOOD: Softwood lumber will be made available for essential farm repairs. About half a billion board feet will be released by the War Production board.

TOBACCO: Possibility of a shortage of tobacco, caused by unrestricted buying for export, was voiced when government officials conferred with leaders of the industry recently.

SHIPPING: Shipping losses have been lower in June than in May, in which the smallest losses since Pearl Harbor were sustained, says the OWI.

ARMY: An army of about 2 1/2 million men will be maintained for some time after the war, according to statements to a house subcommittee.

RUSSIA:

Action in the Center

Official announcements pertaining to the Russian front continued to be as confusing as the fighting.

While the Reds claimed to have thrown back German counterattacks in the Orel region in the center of the line, the Nazis reported the continuation of the strong Russian offensive in the Caucasus.

In neither sector, however, did either side claim any major advance. In relation to renewed Russian activity in the center, the Nazis said the Reds were massing huge forces there, apparently to press the initial attacks of a week ago when big holes were punched in the German line.

Bolstered by the addition of American planes arriving under lend-lease, Russian airmen continued sweeping attacks over the German rear. Military installations and transport were bombed.

OIL:

'Situation Worse'

"We are rapidly passing from an exporting to an importing nation in oil."

With these words Petroleum Administrator Harold Ickes forecast an increasing shortage of crude oil. Such a shortage, Ickes said, would not develop because of a lack of natural resources but rather because of a scarcity of labor, transportation and other factors.

While stating that imports of oil would have to be increased from Venezuela, the Caribbean and Mexico, he declared that California will not be producing sufficient crude by the end of the year to take care of the Pacific war theater and her own needs.

Ickes also blasted the Office of Price Administration for its handling of the gasoline rationing, declaring the OPA was too lenient in its allotments. He said home owners could expect fuel oil rationing next winter.

CORN:

Plan Call on Loans

Aiming at loosening the tight situation in corn for processors and feeders, it was reported Commodity Credit corporation planned to call its loans on 57 million bushels of 1942 corn.

Under the proposal, farmers would be allowed 30 days to liquidate their loans. The call would not interfere with the agency's previous move to redeem 35 million bushels of corn on the 1938-'41 crops, effective July 1.

Decision to call the 1942 loans was reported reached after the War Food administration, headed by Chester Davis, turned down proposals for requisitioning the corn. The WFA said requisitioning only would increase farmers and leave the government with the problem of shelling, grading and hauling the corn off the premises.

MEAT PRICES: Down 10%

Answering to President Roosevelt's "hold-the-line" order, retail prices of meat have been "rolled back" 10 per cent, a move that will save housewives an average of three cents per pound.

The "roll-back" will be accomplished by government payment of subsidies to meat slaughterers to cover their costs of livestock.

Although the action will reduce meat prices, consumers will be compelled to eat even less beef. The War Food administration announced that federally inspected slaughterers had been ordered to reserve 45 per cent of their steer and heifer production for the army.

NAZI SPY: Intrigue in Hawaii

In November, 1941, Bernard Julius Otto Kuehn offered his services as a spy to the Japanese vice-consul at Honolulu. In a confession to the FBI, he said he volunteered to supply the enemy with information about the national defense of the U. S.

Shortly after, Kuehn worked out a system of signals to transmit intelligence of American fleet positions to the Japs. According to testimony, the signals were developed through a window light in the dormer of Kuehn's home near Pearl Harbor.

Mrs. Kuehn played a prominent role in the intrigue, according to the FBI. In 1939, her daughter operated a beauty parlor designed to attract "navy business," and in 1940 Mrs. Kuehn visited Japan, returning with geographical literature describing American and British islands in the Pacific. Kuehn, first sentenced to death, was later committed to 50 years at hard labor.

SUPREME COURT: Bans Compulsory Salute

Reversing a previous decision by a 6 to 3 vote, the U. S. Supreme court ruled that the nation's public schools cannot require pupils to salute the flag.

Said the majority: "Compulsory unification of opinion achieves only the unanimity of the graveyard. . . . No official . . . can prescribe what shall be orthodox in politics, religion, nationalism or other matters of opinion."

Washington Digest

History Will Write Details Of Lewis-Roosevelt Feud

Story Begins During 'Roaring Thirties' as the Forgotten Man Is Remembered by New Deal and CIO.

By BAUKHAGE News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, Union Trust Building, Washington, D. C.

Today there came to my desk a mimeographed sheet from the Office of War Information. It was headed "The Nazi Slave Labor Society."

As I read that title, my mind shot back to a very few days before this writing, one of the days when your capital was tense over the coal strike from one end of Constitution avenue to the other, and on both sides of the Potomac. I say "Constitution" avenue instead of "Pennsylvania" (which you and I have come to feel is the main street of Washington) because this coal strike struck deep into a lot of offices and bureaus beside the White House at one end of this historic thoroughfare and the Capitol at the other.

Naturally, Harold Ickes, in his offices looking down the mall from that strange modernistic pile that is the new Interior building, was concerned. He was, at that moment, responsible head of the soft coal mining industry and the industry wasn't functioning.

Naturally the members of the War Labor board were concerned. The board's existence was threatened.

Two Worries

Over across the Potomac in that marvelous architectural achievement, the Pentagon building, where the army is housed, officers paced the floor of their pentagonal offices. They had two worries. One: Will there be a coal shortage that will hold up production of important war supplies? Two: Will we have to go out and push people around with bayonets?

I haven't mentioned what was going on at the Capitol or in the White House. Plenty. Every enemy of the administration, every friend of the administration who was angry at Lewis, everyone who was for 100 per cent prosecution of the war—and they weren't necessarily different people, but people with different ideas—was yelling for Lewis' eyeballs and some of them were threatening the President if he didn't bring them in (on a silver charger) for breakfast.

Inside the White House, there were meetings which, because of the presence and absence of certain persons, I would like to report in greater detail but I can't—that will have to be left to history.

As I write these lines, I cannot predict the aftermath of the action which began late one afternoon on June 3 when, contrary to reports circulated earlier in the day, a statement was issued from the White House ordering the men back to the mines by June 7. But between these lines of that statement was the story of "Franklinstein" and the creature which he created, as dramatic, if not as tragic, as the horror tale by the gentle Mrs. Shelly, written early in the 19th century.

Self-Destroyer

A copy of that book ("Frankenstein") is on my table as I write. On the last page are the lines spoken by this strange being which the hero had created, hoping to raise the standard of humanity but which, alas, had found itself heir to the human weaknesses and turned against his creator. The "being," just before it destroys itself, speaks to its creator:

" . . . thou didst seek my extinction that I might not cause greater wretchedness; and if yet, in some mode unknown to me, thou hast not ceased to think and feel, thou wouldst not desire against me a vengeance greater than that which I feel. Blasted as thou wert, my agony was still superior to thine."

(You really ought to read the book—it's far superior to the movie version.) But why do I bandy with this ancient tale? Because I do believe that all of us build, materially or physically, creatures which come back to haunt us.

Look at the record of John Lewis and Franklin Roosevelt. John, born to the pits, a man who won to literacy, yes, to scholarship the hard way.

Franklin, born to the purple. Both endowed with that indomitable something that lifted them, in spite of their respective handicaps, to leadership. Egocentric enough to elbow their way up to the counter; altruistic enough to have something to contribute to the general welfare when they got there. Reader, be fair even if you have your honest prejudices—both these men are gifted.

Pick up the story in the roaring thirties—the New Deal is beginning to strut its stuff. The "forgotten man" has been remembered and he's grateful to Roosevelt.

The forgotten laborer is being remembered; he's grateful to Lewis. I mean the man who couldn't because of the by-laws of the AFL, get into a labor union any more than he could get into the Union League club. Lewis stepped out of the AFL with his miners. The CIO was formed in 1935.

It looked as if John of the eyebrows and Franklin of the amber cigarette holder had something in common. They did. It began by being an ideal—a better deal for the man who hadn't had such a good deal before. Later, the issues became more complicated but we won't go into that now.

Anyhow, the Wagner act was passed in 1935. (Labor's Magna Charter, they called it.) That gave the poor, heretofore outsider, the workman who couldn't qualify, to join the snooty AFL, a chance to be somebody. If there were more of his group than there were of the AFL's in a plant, shop or factory, his outfit was recognized as the collective bargaining unit.

That was a real step forward in economic democracy.

The CIO thrived. It had the blessing of the administration. It gave its votes in return. It also gave the largest campaign contribution in return. Some of the starry-eyed young men in the New Deal (they have departed, most of them, for Puerto Rico and elsewhere on the fringes) dreamed dreams. They told their dreams to Lewis.

"Why not a real labor party, Jawn," they smiled encouragingly, "with you as the leader? We'll get rid of the democrats with imagination. You'll be vice president next time . . ."

The Siren's Song

But then Mr. Lewis made a great mistake. He went to Paris. Other men have erred in that once-fair city before this. (I visited it myself.) But John met another siren when he witnessed the sit-down strike.

Now, frankly, this is hearsay but I am told that it was Lewis brought that illegitimate Gallic child of the proletariat, conceived in a strange moment of aberration, back to America. It did not thrive. It needed a more rarified atmosphere than that which blows across the prairies and once flapped the cover of the covered wagon.

Mr. Lewis went to the White House, jerked the previously welcoming latchstring, and went in. But old man Vox Populi got there before him. Up to then, V. P. had been pretty satisfied with things as they were under the New Deal.

But things had changed.

In a chilly voice V. P. said: "No, Franklin, no John. No dice." Franklin listened. John got mad. That was the end of a beautiful friendship and the rest is history.

Lewis turned against the man who had made his success possible and there is, as we know, no feud like the feud of former friends.

The soldier on the battlefield, utterly unable to comprehend why men strike while he is risking his life for a fraction of the pay the strikers demand, cursed and threatened; the miner, with many just grievances, stood confused, looking for his oracle to speak, but cringing under the sneers at his lack of patriotism. Small-minded bureaucrats, more interested in saving their faces than saving the country, spattered and strutted. Lewis and Roosevelt, the two men who, working together, might move mountains (of coal and coalition) were forced to square off against each other, the public backed the government and, as usual, decided the issue.

Oh yes! That "Nazi Slave Labor Society"—it can't happen here!

NEW YORK.—Maj. Gen. Eugene M. Landrum, who snatched the island of Attu back from the Japs, is exactly the type of man you could readily picture wrestling a hard bitten strip of land like Here Definitely We Have a Man Not of Style but of Action that away from a wily foe. Short, stocky, and firm jawed, he radiates pugnacity and courage. Those who favor the fashion plate genius in their military men would never glance twice at him. If they met him in civies on the street of a small town they would pick him out as the hard working village doctor, especially if he were carrying his battered Gladstone bag and had his well-caked black pipe clamped between his teeth. He is 52.

General Landrum is a man who got to the top the hard way. Back in 1910 he entered the army as a private in the coast artillery. By the time the United States entered World War I he was wearing the silver bar of a first lieutenant on his shoulders. Two months later he had become a captain. In the years following the Armistice he kept moving slowly and quietly ahead. He was not the kind of officer to make the headlines, especially in peacetime, but his superiors knew him as plunger and they approve of him. He was graduated from the Army War college in 1936 and just six months before Pearl Harbor, he received his colonelcy.

General Landrum is a native of Florida and he calls Pensacola his home town. Mrs. Landrum, however, is now in California. Like many another wife of an army or naval officer she likes to look at the same ocean her husband does.

IF IT had not been for the late Kaiser, William E. Lynd might still be practicing law in Idaho instead of being, at 49, a brigadier general in

Attorney Becomes Warrior to Make The Laws Stick the army air corps. He actually started out as an attorney, in fact after earning his degree at the University of Washington. Then he took on military training as a sideline with the Idaho National Guard. In 1916 he went to the Mexican border in the fracas that served as a curtain raiser to the first World War. He had hardly settled back at his law books before the real show started. On March 27, 1917, he was called back to the colors and eight days later was commissioned a second lieutenant of infantry.

Christmas eve, 1917, is one he will always remember, for his outfit sailed for France just as St. Nick hitched up his reindeer. Overseas he was switched to the air service as an observer and he finally reached the front in a plane in August. A few days later he was the proud possessor of a Silver Star, earned in an air battle with the Germans.

Like many another veteran of the AEF, Lynd found civilian life dull and in 1920 he rejoined the army, this time for good. He has another air medal now. He won the second award for a spectacular reconnaissance flight over the Pacific in the first year of the present war. More recently he was at Attu, and the other day he visited the White House to tell President Roosevelt what his fliers had done to lick the Japs there.

WHEN the censors finally released the news that Artemus L. Gates, assistant secretary of the navy for air, had been on a tour of the Pacific fighting front, his longtime friends said in unison, "We might have known it." In World War I his experiences were like something out of fiction. When the war clouds lowered over the United States 25 years ago, Gates was in his junior year at Yale. He had just been made captain-elect of the football team, an honor earned at tackle for two seasons. By April, however, he had abandoned his cap and gown for a naval uniform.

In the summer of 1916 he had had a fling at flying and it did not take him long to get into naval aviation, then still in its infancy. August, 1917, found him in France and long before the Armistice he was commanding the U. S. naval air station at Dunkirk.

While there he was decorated for saving the crew of a British plane which had crashed into the sea. Later the French drafted him for one of their bombing squadrons. In an air battle behind the enemy lines in October, 1918, his plane was shot down. When the Germans rushed up to grab him, they found him calmly trying to destroy his ship. On the way to prison, Gates managed to leap through the window of his train and escape. Just before he reached the Swiss border, he was recaptured, however, and on November 11 he was a prisoner in Germany.

The Japanese-controlled Bangkok radio has issued more advice on good manners to the people of Thailand. "Since the clothing and manners of those who are in private business are not respectable yet, we request that they observe the following principles: 'Be well dressed, be clean, be agreeable to customers, do not smoke or be intoxicated, have good manners, be honest.'

The United States was producing fighting equipment eight times as fast as Japan in the spring of 1943.

A popular joke in Holland deals with the bicycle shortage. So many men's bicycles have been stolen that it is asked what happens to the ladies' bicycles. "Oh, they're being kept for the Scotch Highlanders when they get here."

THE STORY SO FAR: The story of their part in the battle for the Philippines is being told by four of the five naval officers who are all that is left of Motor Torpedo Boat Squadron 3. They are Lieut. John Bulkeley (now Lieutenant Commander), squadron commander; Lieut. R. B. Kelly, second-in-command; and Ensigns Anthony Akers and George F. Cox, Jr. During a raid against the Japs, the PT boats captured a landing barge and took prisoner a Jap captain and one of his men. But Squadron 3 had also suffered the loss of two of their original six boats, and they were planning to escape to China, when all of their torpedoes were gone, unless help arrived.

CHAPTER VIII

"When we went out that night," said Bulkeley, "we didn't dream we were to take our final crack at the Japs off Bataan. I took two boats—Kelly in the 34, riding myself with Akers in the 35—to see if we couldn't bag one of the Jap destroyers which the army could see in Subic Bay. They'd been driven far back, but from the highest ridge of the Bataan mountains they could still look down into Subic with their 20-power binoculars.

"But the admiral had said we weren't to go into the bay. We must coax them outside. The Japs had the bay's rim lined with guns, and it would be suicide. We got outside of Subic about eleven o'clock. All according to plan, Kelly hid his 34 boat in a cove just outside the bay, while I went into the entrance and raised a little hell—fired my machine guns so they could see the tracers, hoping a Jap destroyer would follow me out, whereupon Kelly was to come out of the cove and ram a couple of torpedoes into their engine room. It didn't work. The Japs had had all they wanted of us. But just as I was about to leave, I saw from the entrance the outline of a big ship—tied to Olongapo dock."

"She was a big one," said Akers, "maybe 10,000 tons. A tanker, we learned the next day. So we turned back, sneaked toward her—there was no fire on us yet—and cut loose two torpedoes. By the time they exploded, we had cleared the mouth of the bay. But from the mountains of Bataan the army watched her burn all night, and in the morning there she was, sunk at her dock."

"They were our last torpedoes fired in defense of Bataan," said Bulkeley. "Since December 7 we had probably sunk a hundred times our own combined tonnage in enemy warships. While we'd lost two of our six boats, neither had been hit by the enemy—both had gone aground in the dark."

"On the way back I realized that we had fired our last torpedoes, except those we would need to fill our tubes for the run to China. And we had just about enough gas to get us there, with hardly a barrel to spare. If we were ever to make the run, we must make it soon. And it was getting plain that we couldn't do much more for Bataan, which was on its last legs."

"I can tell you about the army," said Cox. "I used to get bored at Sisiman Cove and take trips to the front—sometimes up into the outposts. There were a lot of men in uniform on Bataan, but the front-line fighting soldiers consisted, first, of about two thousand Americans, well seasoned and good fighters. Then, about twelve hundred Filipino Scouts—equally well trained and equally good. Lastly, they had in the fighting line about twenty-seven thousand Filipino trainees—young kids who had never worn a uniform until a few weeks before the war started."

"Their officers were equally untrained. Toward the end, it was grotesque. Tough, experienced American Regular Army privates would be giving orders to Filipino generals."

"Those two thousand Americans and the twelve hundred Scouts were the only real fighting men on Bataan, and they were run ragged—every time the Japs punched a hole in the line, these experienced troops would have to be thrown in to plug it—everywhere at once."

"Then there was the item of equipment—no spare parts. They had a few tanks left, with their treads falling off. A missing fan belt would put an entire tractor out of the war—for want of a tread, a tank would be junk by the roadside."

"That's more or less how it looked to us on March 1," said Kelly, "which is a day I'll never forget. It started off in a curious way—it seemed that General MacArthur wanted to take a ride on one of our boats with Bulkeley. We felt honored, but I couldn't just understand why the General would choose a time like this for a pleasure trip. Still, orders were orders, and even the air force got theirs—or rather what was left of it, which was exactly four decrepit P-40's patched together from the pieces of many others."

"This proud American air force guaranteed us air superiority over that area of the bay while the General was out on the water. The area was only four square miles, and the time only half an hour—about all the superiority this pathetic air force was able to guarantee. While the General was having his ride I was worried—suppose something had come up which might upset our dash to China? I could see the men didn't understand it either, and were starting to speculate and gossip.

"But the General explained everything when he returned from the ride, by officially presenting Bulkeley with the order decorating him with the D.S.C. We'd known about it for weeks, but this, it seemed, was the official presentation. He also congratulated the men on the fine work they had done, and handed each a package of cigarettes. It wasn't until that night that Bulkeley told me all this had been camouflage. For that morning the General had called him in and told him of the new plan. China was out for us, all right. Because Washington had made MacArthur Commander in Chief for all the Pacific and ordered him to leave. A submarine had been suggested, but MacArthur had said Bulkeley was the only commanding officer he knew in whom he had complete confidence—he was sailing with Buck. But he'd wanted to make a trial run first, and so added the little ceremony to allay the suspicions of the men. Because we were leaving Bataan in absolute secrecy and very soon.

"Of course to us this means that the China trip—our last hope of seeing America and escaping death or a Japanese prison—was gone forever. Now the MTB's were like the rest here in the islands—the expendables who fight on without hope to the end. So far as we knew, we would now finish up the war in the southern islands, when the Japs got around to mopping up the last American resistance there."

"The minute we knew we were to leave Bataan soon," continued Lieutenant Kelly after a pause, "we got to work on the four boats. We knew the trip would be tough, and the boats were old now. The engines had had double the number of hours' service without their customary thorough overhaul and returning, so they were making half their original speed.

"But the General explained everything when he returned from the ride."

"We planned to scrape the bottoms and overhaul their struts, but this was done for only three. My boat's turn was last, and meanwhile it was used for patrol."

"Overhauling these motors without any replacement parts was a terrible job. For instance, any tank-town garage which overhauls a five-year back in the States always replaces the gaskets with new ones. Only we didn't have any. Or any sealing compound. So those old gaskets had to be carefully removed, handled as gently as though they were precious lace, and laid back in place when the motors were re-assembled."

"How much gas could we carry? We experimented—put down planks on those 3/4-inch plywood decks to strengthen them, and finally decided we could take a chance on piling twenty of those fifty-gallon drums on each boat."

"Naturally the crews got curious about all these preparations. Since we knew so much about what the Japanese were doing across the bay, we assumed their means for finding out about us were equally good. Anyway, Bulkeley and I had decided that there is only one way of keeping a valuable secret during a war: don't tell it yourself."

"But we had to tell the men something. So we said maybe, after we had exhausted all our gas here on Bataan, we would head down for Cebu in the southern islands. Cebu, where there was plenty of food and more torpedoes, and where they had the most beautiful and languorous girls on the islands, and plenty of gasoline."

"We painted it as a golden spot. Only Bulkeley and I knew that when we got to Cebu we would be doomed—there was no gasoline there and only a little in Mindanao. We could never hope to get to Australia.

"But then there were the two correspondents—Clark Lee and Nat Floyd of the New York Times, and also Colonel Wong. They knew about the Chinese trip because the Admiral had authorized them to go with us. So we told them yes, we were still going to China, but we didn't know when—maybe not for a long time—and advised them if they had any other chance to get out, by all means to take it. Meanwhile we kept on the boats all that landing-gear equipment we had assembled for the China trip—so if any hint of it had leaked out to the crew, they would think it was still on."

"Meanwhile MacArthur had told Bulkeley that Bataan would fall shortly, and Corregidor would go soon after—if it didn't get help from the States immediately. No help was being sent. Apparently it couldn't be gotten to us. Then the Japs could mop up the southern Philippines."

"It was a grim picture for us. But here was our last big job. MacArthur was the brains of the organization—the only general who could take that territory back. The whole allied defense depended on getting him to Australia."

"Bulkeley was reporting to him every other day, but MacArthur refused to set a date for leaving—he wanted to stay as long as he could. At this time the boys on Bataan were back in their strongest positions—also their last-ditch defense line—and the Japs had had about all they wanted monkeying with this line, and were waiting for reinforcements. But when news came that their General Yamashita was on his way with many transports, bragging he would capture MacArthur within a month, our departure date was set for March 15."

"But to keep the men occupied and also to keep our secret, we went right on with plans for developing our shore base at Sisiman Cove. We installed a good cook's galley, fixed up the mess hall, screened in everything, as though we hoped to live there for months."

"We even took all our clothes off the boats and moved them into the nipa huts ashore. "On the fourth of March there came a nice break for me. Peggy got me word that she had been transferred to Little Baguio hospital on Bataan, relieving one of the girls who had been working too long under fire, and I got the idea of inviting her down to our base for chow and to spend the evening. Dr. Nelson, who had been looking after my hand, was also on Little Baguio, and I invited him and his girl friend, too."

"You should have seen my ship perk up when I told them. The skipper was going to bring a girl aboard! They had the ship all spit and polish, ready for the big event. My cook, Reynolds, and the Filipino mess boy were tickled pink! They were going to show the army!"

"You see the week before I'd gone over to Little Baguio—I'd had only breakfast and arrived on foot late in the afternoon for my dressing, to spend the night and walk back. But they told me, regretfully of course, of a new ruling: rations were tightening—they were down to dried fish, plain rice, and one slice of bread—so absolutely no visitors could get food at the hospital. So I went to bed supperless, got up, watched them eat breakfast—they said how sorry they were they couldn't offer me any—hiked back all those miles over the hills, and at nine o'clock, sitting at our own mess table, ate seventeen hot cakes as fast as Reynolds could turn them out of the pan."

"Now their one idea was to show the army what real navy hospitality can be. It's true Peggy brought the coffee—we were out of that—but they rustled the rest. It started off with fruit cocktail, then a real pot roast of fresh meat with brown gravy, and in this a whole can of mushrooms, which they'd been hoarding for some big occasion. Then rice and canned peas and beans, a delicious apple pie, and then coffee like only we can make in the navy. There was never such a dinner. Then we sat and talked, while the little waves lapped along the eave."

"I told Peggy I wanted to see her again, and soon. She said they were keeping her very busy, but she might get a night off on the fifteenth or before. There was no way I could call her, so she said she'd get to the signal-corps field telephone and ring me up about six o'clock on the eleventh, when we could make a definite date."

"I asked her if she couldn't make it sooner, and she said of course she wanted to, but didn't see how she possibly could. I wanted to tell her why I wanted it sooner. Then I stopped myself. Because in a war you don't tell anybody. Not anybody. And if they have any sense, and Peggy had plenty, they understand this and don't want to be told."

"So instead we talked about the war, and how they were low on quinine now—just had enough to give the worst malaria cases a light slug which would last only a short time—and how tired the soldiers were, how uncertain everything looked."

"It's uncertain for us in the navy, too," I said. "One of these days even I am liable to disappear, without telling you good-bye."

Kathleen Norris Says:

Those Who Go On

Bell Syndicate.—WNU Features.

Get into work with our servicemen, canteen, Red Cross, or in one of the recreation projects that exist everywhere for our no-less-heroic and necessary factory and munitions workers.

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

WOMEN I do not know and never will see are writing me these days to ask for a word of comfort when the dreaded news comes; when they know that the dear familiar boy who was banging in and out of the house only a little while ago, leaving crumbs and blobs of jam on the kitchen table, leaving books on the stairway and unrecognizable lumps of muddy socks on the bedroom floor, chattering at dinner about scout work, and enthusiastic over nothing but somebody's "twenty-two"—when they know that he is "missing in action," that he isn't coming home again.

Nothing that I can say can help these mothers. But there is help for them nevertheless, firm and unflinching; there is joy ahead for them again, if they will but lift up their hearts and their eyes to find it. Not by looking down into the earth or into the depth of the seas will they find it, but by raising mind and spirit to the blue sky and the stars, and what lies beyond.

To begin with, train yourself to take a comprehensive view of the titanic combat in which the whole great world is involved. Then take a long look at life, at its mistakes and troubles, disillusionments and burdens, and ask yourself if the boys are really to be pitted when they quit this bewildering scene in youth, go out gloriously and swiftly in battle, a battle, which means confusion, excitement, thrill, complete forgetfulness of self. No grind, no drudgery, no disappointment, divorce, worry, for them: no illness, failure, old age, boredom. At the very height of vitality and eagerness and keen absorption in what they are doing, they depart for other scenes, and leave such suffering for us, who cannot follow.

Future Will Bring Reunion.

But, ask the grieving mothers, will we find them again? Ah, if we KNEW that we would find them again, that they are really safe, and happier and wiser than before, that would take away all the sting of grief.

But we DO know that we will find them again. It does not take mere blind faith to convince ourselves of that; it is not wishful thinking, combined with sentimentality and conventional religious docility. Any woman who will dry her tears long enough to read the written Word, and study the facts, will find so deep and real a consolation that presently she would not change her certainty even for the old joy of the boy's living presence.

It will be granted that only one Voice has ever spoken truth in this world. All other true voices were either prophesying the coming of that Voice, or echoing it after it ceased. There was but one Christ: in the two thousand years following his death there has never been another, and no uproar of voices or change in the world have been able to silence it. It lives still. What the Master said in his lifetime was utterly incomprehensible to the men who were his friends; it didn't make sense to them, and it doesn't make sense to us. But feebly, blindly, stupidly we cling to it, because we know that it is true. We know that a peasant, preaching for but three years, followed by a few unimportant friends, never writing a word, executed as a common criminal—we know that He is still the most powerful influence in the whole world.

All Must Work Toward Religion. And this is to say that He did not deceive us, isn't it? For we could never claim that he told us some

PRAY AND WORK

TO EASE GRIEF

"Blessed are they that mourn, for they shall be comforted." This is Kathleen Norris' message to mothers who have lost sons in the war. She asks them to try to get their minds off their grief by exhausting themselves for the needs of others. She suggests that mothers may find some happiness by being of help to other boys. Solace can be found by taking a comprehensive view of the world struggle and, best of all, by prayer.

truths and some untruths. And we KNOW that His doctrine works because whenever we have the courage to apply it, harmony and peace, fellowship and love follow it. Difficult as it is to visualize a world in which enemies are forgiven, possessions are shared, the hungry and naked are soled, a world in which evil is not overcome by evil, but overcome by good—hard as it is to envision, yet all of us know that those are the conditions of His Kingdom on earth, and that it is for every one of us to work toward that Kingdom. There is no disputing THAT.

But having gone so far, heart-broken mothers, go a little farther, and see what else he told us. That those who love Him—and this means all the splendid boys who are offering their lives today for a new world of safety and freedom—"shall not taste death forever." They are living, out of your sight. The wisest among us hasn't the vision that they have now. "This night thou shalt be with me in Paradise" was said to a poor, wretched stranger, a criminal. Are we to believe these words of a dying Saviour? Or are you going to pick out certain words to believe and others not to believe?

"Blessed are they that mourn for they shall be comforted." That was said for you. The Voice that is divine as well as human said that, the one voice in all the world that speaks the truth. So hold fast to that, for that comfort will be beyond all your imaginings of bliss.

Get in the habit of stepping into a church every day; kneel for a few minutes, asking only the favor that you may be of use and help to other boys. Get into work with our servicemen, canteen, Red Cross, or in one of the recreation projects that exist everywhere for our no-less-heroic and necessary factory and munitions workers. Get tired; get your mind off your own grief in exhausting yourself for the needs of others. And in other boys, just as young, eager, heroic, homesick as your boy was, you will find him again. Give up your own sorrow, fears, your own hopes and will, surrender them all to the unfailing guidance of God, and you will be rewarded in a way that will make you feel that you never were truly living before.

Fighters Think of Home.

Here is part of a letter from a boy who went through the battles of Midway and Coral sea. It was a great comfort to another boy's mother, and, even though your boy may not have had time to write you, perhaps his feelings would have been something the same, perhaps he knew, in the last minute, that the home people were thinking of him and praying for him.

The writer is 29 years old, has been in the navy for 17 months, and is still out in the South Seas.

"Dear Mrs. Blank: I thought you would like to know that Jim never was in better spirits than he was that last morning.

We had breakfast together and he was just his same usual self, at ease and happy. When the crash came he was laughing.

When Your Back Hurts - And Your Strength and Energy Is Below Par

It may be caused by disorder of kidney function that permits poisonous waste to accumulate. For truly many people feel tired, weak and miserable when the kidneys fail to remove excess acids and other waste matter from the blood.
You may suffer nagging backache, rheumatic pains, headaches, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pain, swelling. Sometimes frequent and scanty urination with smarting and burning is another sign that something is wrong with the kidneys or bladder.
There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won country-wide approval than on something less favorably known. Don't have been tried and tested many years. Are at all drug stores. Get Doan's today.

CARE AND ATTENTION WILL MAKE YOUR REFRIGERATOR LAST!

There is no room for waste in wartime America . . . make things you have last for the duration and help save vital materials for the much needed tools of war. The following suggestions will help conserve your refrigerator.

- 1 Avoid overloading refrigerator . . . it stops needed circulation.
- 2 Defrost regularly according to the maker's instructions.
- 3 Try not to set control at colder than necessary, 40 degrees is cold enough for main food compartments.
- 4 Allow hot foods to cool before storing them.
- 5 Plan your needs so as not to have to open door more than necessary.
- 6 When you go away for week-ends turn temperature control to warmest point.
- 7 Be sure the gasket around the door makes a tight seal.
- 8 Remove paper wrapping from foods . . . paper cuts down cooling efficiency.

She has been connected in some way with the college, since its beginning, about thirty years ago, when she went there as a young teacher. She helped establish the courses and was later made Dean, a position she held until she resigned to become a member of the Massachusetts Board of Education. She has been a member of the board of trustees, and has been on the faculty committee at the college since its beginning. Nineteen years ago she was married to Robert Folsom, a Springvale business man and they have one son.

UNION POMONA HEARS INDIAN PRINCESS

A talk on the American Indian and his folklore was given by Princess Metosanya and her mother at the final meeting of the season of Union Pomona Grange held with Stark Grange, Dunbarton, recently. Dressed in her native costume, the princess illustrated her address with many Indian curios.

Willis H. Munsey, master, conducted the meeting at which applications were received and members initiated. The Grange stood a moment in silence in memory of two members who died recently, Mrs. Kate Reuter of Goffstown and J. Fred Garland of Henniker.

A report on the activities of the home and community welfare committee was given by Mrs. Annie L. Holmes. In her review, she told the Grange that the committee has paid the dues of 27 members now in the armed forces, and has donated to the Educational Loan fund, the Crippled Children's hospital, the Red Cross and the Society for the Prevention and Control of Cancer.

Because of the restrictions on driving, the Grange voted to postpone its Go-to-Church service at Goffstown until September.

Mrs. Josephine Merrill presented several members of Stark Juvenile Grange who sang vocal selections, and a cake was given to the master, Mr. Munsey, in honor of his birthday by Mrs. Annie L. Holmes. Other numbers on the program were: Essay, "Our Friends, the Trees," Mrs. Elsa Muzzy; banjo and piano numbers, Mrs. May Hadlock and Fred Jones; vocal solos, Edward Ketcham.

At the close of the evening an auction of canned goods for Stark Grange was conducted by Herbert Leach, auctioneer. Arthur Powell, master of the host grange, extended the welcome, and the response was by Mrs. Anna Tirrell.

Union Pomona's next meeting will be held Sept. 21 at Henniker.

LEGION LETTER NO. 6

took the Marine's word for his physical and picked him immediately. Tom is mad at the Army already, which shows he is practically a soldier before he gets in * * * Bill Brownell has been home on leave. So has Bucko and Eddie Robinson. Bucko has put on plenty of weight, and Eddie has filled out like a foot ball man * * * Hank Stacey has been home. He's in an outfit of regulars, and says he'll match that gang against any Marines or sailors, or what have you. The sergeants have 20 years' service, and it takes 10 years to be a corporal. He's sick of training and says he wants to kill somebody, or get killed so the war will be over and he can come home * * * They kept Eddie Coughlan on the rifle range all one day. He thought it was fun the first hour, but began to lose interest after that. Would like to have seen him examine his shoulder that evening * * * Marvin Cuddihy has moved back to Devens from Michigan * * * Roland Hutchinson was home on leave. He's in administration for the Air Corps and thinks they have forms to fill out if you even brush your teeth. They must have a New Dealer for a commanding officer * * *

Albert Boyer will be home this week on leave * * * Lester Perham has gone to Devens.

We have been posting your letters on the bulletin board, as we said. About the first two were graduation announcements of Albert Poor and Wesley Hills. Both are 2nd Lieutenants, and Wesley got married at the same time. His mother took a trip down to see him graduate * * *

Roger Hill sent a V letter and says that while he wasn't in the fighting he was near enough. Hasn't seen a white girl in three months * * * Merrill Gordon is in John Buckley's squadron of P. T. boats. You may not have heard of him but he was one of the heroes of "They Were Expendable" a war time best seller. Buckley took MacArthur out of the Philippines.

Main patriotic event recently was Memorial Day. The only 2nd World War veteran present was Staff Sgt. Robert Swett; who attended the church services with the Legion and carried the colors in the parade. And it seems there's a little missionary work you boys can do when you get home. Don't know whether the people here are ashamed to acknowledge the flag, or whether they are ignorant, or what it means, but you might as well have a piece of wet wash in front of them, as the colors. If they are lying down, or sitting on the steps they stay there, and about one third along the line of march come to a salute and hold it, and act as if he was proud to do it. We could carry a large placard up front saying: "This is the American Flag, an honored emblem. Would you please stand, out of respect for what it signifies."

Due to a mix up over transportation we had two drum corps. One was made up of local Boy Scouts, and the other the Hancock Girl Scouts. The boys were greatly offended when the feminine opposition blew in at the last moment, and it took considerable diplomacy to keep them from quitting in a body. Eyeing each other like strange dogs, the two outfits were separated by the length of the parade, and it was only when the column made a U turn by Goodell's they could really express themselves. You've heard of music battles, but never between drum corps, and the racket that went up when the two groups came abreast, sounded like a rolling barrage of block busters. But we can assure you that the Antrim Scouts came through, and when you all come back for that home coming parade you'll find a local drum corps beating it out at the head of the column.

Now that school is about to close do not know what we will do about this letter. Miss Freethy, the teacher who gets this out on the school machine, expects to visit here once during the summer, and if the machine is available, will be glad to run it off. However, if there is no way to arrange it, why we will try to continue it when fall comes.

We got a sample of what some of you may go through down at Manchester the other day. Some crazy pilot, in what appeared to be a dive bomber, came down over the main street in a power dive. We once had instruction on defense against air craft, and one of the points was dispersal and taking cover. We saw this ship about a quarter of a mile away, and talk about taking cover! He was down, in, and gone before you could turn your head, say nothing about dispersing. If we had had six guns going, don't know what chance a foot soldier would have. Or maybe you are saying "Are you telling us?" Well, let's hear from you.

STAGE-SCREEN-RADIO
By VIRGINIA VALE
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

MARY ASTOR certainly started something when she signed up as master of ceremonies for that new Thursday night air show, in which she is starred with Charles Ruggles and Mischa Auer. Within a week sponsors were being deluged with plans for programs on which girls would act as emcees. And just ask John Charles Thomas if the ladies are taking over! He's a placid, composed individual, but he nearly lost his calm recently, at one of his Sunday afternoon broadcasts, when he saw six new girl members of the orchestra.

Penny ("Blondie") Singleton is a very proud young woman. She now answers to the name of Mrs. Major Sparks—her husband was recently promoted, after performing distinguished service as a captain. Penny's more elated than he is!

If it's announced that Capt. Clark Gable will appear at your local movie house in a new picture, "Wings Up," don't expect to see a great deal of him in it. The film's an Office of War Information short subject, and it's certainly worth seeing, but Gable isn't on the screen much of the time. He acts as narrator, and makes an appearance only in the concluding scenes.

Now you'll have to add another Ameche to your list. He's Jim Jr., son of Jim Sr. of the Sunday "Here's to Romance" broadcasts, nephew of Don. The five-year-old appears on CBS in the "Big Sister" serial.

To make the cloud effects for the Heaven scenes in "A Guy Named Joe," starring Spencer Tracy and Irene Dunne, the air must be undisturbed and the temperature even. So an air lock system is being used on the heavy double studio doors, and a watchman's been installed to see that the outer one's closed before the inner one's opened. Of course the cast has nicknamed him Gabriel.

Among the congratulatory wires Bill Stern received when he switched to a Friday night spot on NBC was one signed by George Raft, Betty Grable and Tommy Dorsey. He's slated to make a movie with them some time next fall.

They put Marie McDonald into a wig, for the first time in her life, for scenes in "Tornado," since her own blonde hair was too short. So when she lighted a gas heater in her dressing room, gas which had escaped during the night exploded in a burst of flame, which caught the long ends of the wig. The wig was ruined; Marie would have been badly burned if she hadn't thought fast and snatched it off.

Signe Hasso, of "Assignment in Brittany," has been signed to contract by Metro, and around the studio they are predicting that she will be one of the biggest stars in Hollywood after two or three roles in top pictures.

Anne Shirley, the romantic interest of "Bombardier," has the largest collection of service men's flying wings of any Hollywood star—42. But Donna Reed has a set of flying reports taken from a Jap flier shot down at Guadalcanal, a bomb fragment from London, and walrus tusk sewing needles from Iceland, all sent her by soldier admirers.

Susan Peters and her fiance, Richard Quine, had a bad spill the other day. They were showing off before some friends with a bit of trick double riding, on Susan's new motor bike—it went down and so did they, but hurt nothing but their pride.

ODDS AND ENDS—Humphrey Bogart and Robert Young have made more free appearances for the Screen Guild Players than anybody else—seven broadcasts apiece for the charity. "A Date With Judy," another serial about an American family, will replace Eddie Cantor's "Time to Smile" program for the summer. The day after Phillips Lord blasted tire stealers on "Gang Busters" he started for Maine—and somebody stole the tires of his roadster. George Lothar, writer-narrator-producer of "Superman," says he's never had a fright because he spent three years as cheer leader at New Haven high school, megaphone in hand.

Fight the Forgery Racket!

By FRANK J. WILSON
Chief, United States Secret Service

WHENEVER you pay out your good money for any government check, remember one thing: Have the check initialed by the employee who pays out the money for it.

This will help you to place responsibility if the endorsement on the check should be declared a forgery. Also, it will be of much help when an investigation is conducted in an effort to arrest the check forger.

There is another pointer which is closely associated with this one. Here it is:

Try to write on the back of the check a brief description of the person who presents it, if that person is a stranger. For instance, you might write "WM—50—59"—heavy meaning "White man about 50 years old, 5 feet 9 inches tall, of heavy build."

This will take only a few seconds and may be the means of tracing a forger and recovering your loss, if the check proves to bear a forged endorsement.

Hubby's Caution Seriously Cramped Wife's Efforts

"It's rumored about that Mrs. Grampus hasn't spoken to her husband since she got her First Aid certificate, more than a month ago," gushed Mrs. Giblegaberber.

"You don't say!" returned Mrs. Cackleback. "What seems to be the trouble?"

"Well, before she took up First Aid, almost every day her husband came home from work with a bruise, cut, or other kind of injury," informed Mrs. Giblegaberber; "but now that she has her certificate, he hasn't suffered as much as a scratch, and she's convinced he's being careful on purpose!"

ASK ME ? ANOTHER ?

A quiz with answers offering information on various subjects

The Questions

1. What is the khamsin which was mentioned so often in news reports from Africa?
2. What country flies its flag upside down while at war?
3. What per cent of the numerical strength of modern air armies is in training planes?
4. How do military experts rate the two biggest factors, production and supply, and battle, in winning this war?
5. What is anchor ice?
6. Before Henry J. Kaiser built ships, of what three great dams did he head the construction?
7. When does the vice president have a vote in the senate?
8. What does the First amendment to the Constitution guarantee?
9. What is an atoll?
10. Why is no one allowed to whistle on board a navy ship?

The Answers

1. It is a hot African wind which fills the air with sand.
2. The Commonwealth of the Philippines is the only country in the world that flies its national flag upside down while at war.
3. Approximately 60 per cent.
4. Seventy-five per cent rests on production and supply and 25 per cent on battle.

Greeting Among Arabs

In North Africa, the ritual of greeting among Arabs demands that the man "looking down" should speak first, irrespective of his social status, says Collier's. Thus, the man on a camel greets first the man on a horse, the horseback rider nods first to the man on a donkey, the donkey rider bows first to the pedestrian and the pedestrian first to the man sitting down.

JUST

Without Priorities
"The price of everything has gone up since the war began."
"No, talk is just as cheap as ever."

Don't It?
"Pessimism never pays."
"Oh, I don't know! Look at all the money dentists make by looking down in the mouth."

These Days
"I hear you've been doing very well at school, Alfred," said the fond grandparent. "What is your best subject—reading, writing or arithmetic?"
A look of quiet contempt crossed young Alfred's face as he replied: "Don't be so absurd, grandpa! I produced the best plan for post-war reconstruction."

Not Scented
Girl Shopper—Do you have hyacinth bulbs?
New Clerk—No, just electric.

Understood
A dignified man was taking home a pair of his wife's shoes which he had got from the shoemaker after they had been repaired. No box or paper was, of course, supplied, so he, slightly embarrassed, was carrying them loose.

A man opposite him in the bus watched him closely and said as he got out: "Not going to let her gad about—eh?"

The Question
Mrs. Newlywed—How do you cook pork and beans?
Mother-in-Law—Huh! How do you get 'em?

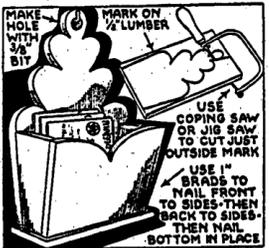

Even though it's true that the way to a man's heart is through his stomach, it doesn't mean he'll swallow anything.

Nothing New
Wife—I see by the paper that women are getting men's wages these days.
Hubby—Humph, haven't they always?

At Ease
She (thoughtfully)—If I do so many women rest their chins on their hands when they are thinking?
He (brutally)—To keep their mouths shut so they won't disturb themselves.

EARLY American wall pockets cut out of light weight pine or scraps of half inch material may have many modern uses. In the kitchen they are just the thing for ration books and a pad for the grocery list.

Originally these pockets were made in a great variety of designs and were used for letter boxes. They are still useful for this purpose or for a leave-a-note pad and pencil. If you enjoy working with wood you may want to cut these pockets out by hand with

Battleship a Menagerie

For over a century, seamen on British war vessels were permitted to own pets, with little restriction on their number and size, says Collier's. The practice was banned a few years ago, when the admiralty learned that one battleship carried an assortment of 1,500 animals, which included large snakes, bears, deer and antelopes.

Penitents Still Wearing 'Tickle Shirts' in Britain

One of Britain's oldest and strangest industries, hair shirt-making, is surviving the war. In female convents, nuns are still engaged in making the shirts for people who wish to do their penance with realism. Monks and very pious people wear the shirts, which are uncomfortable and painful.

The full-size shirts worn in olden days have nearly disappeared, and today a scapula, or a belt in which is woven horse-hair, and in some cases human hair, is worn instead.

When you hear a Marine called a "Leatherneck," it has nothing to do with the epidermis of his neck. Years ago the Marine uniform was equipped with a high stiff leather collar. From that time on, "Leatherneck" has been the word for a Marine. The word for his favorite cigarette is "Camel"—the favorite cigarette also of men in the Army, Navy, and Coast Guard. (Based on actual sales records from service men's stores.) And though there are Post Office restrictions on packages to overseas Army men, you can still send Camels to soldiers in the U. S., and to men in the Navy, Marines, and Coast Guard wherever they are.—Adv.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

From 1907 to 1912, guayule rubber from Mexico represented about 7 per cent of the world's rubber supply. In 1941, it was less than 1 per cent.

More than 86,000,000 motor vehicles have been produced in the United States since 1900, with an average of five tires per vehicle. That gives you an idea of the number of tires that have been made to maintain motor transportation!

A Spanish historian back in 1519 described a bell made of the gum of a tree that grows in "hot countries." He was referring to what we now call rubber.

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS... by Lynn Chambers

Serve Perfect Little Cakes for Garden Party (See Recipe Below)

Keep Cool!
Foods that don't cook the cook and leave a lot of K.P. after the party is over are two golden rules for summer entertaining. If you are baking anything, try baking in cool morning hours, and if there's a warm dish to be served, make it something that doesn't require more than 15 minutes of cooking.

If your table decorations and settings are cool appearing and the food carries this out further, then you will have done a lot toward making your guests comfortable. Refreshments may be simple, in fact, they should be, for then guests and hostess alike can enjoy themselves. Here's a lovely salad that's the last word in coolness and smoothness, thereby filling the order for perfect summer refreshment:

*Orange Ring Salad. (Serves 8)
1 tablespoon gelatin
1/2 cup cold water
1/2 cup boiling water
1/2 cups orange juice
Juice of one lemon
1 tablespoon chopped mint
1/2 cup sugar
1 1/2 pounds white grapes, skinned and seeded
2 cups shredded lettuce
2 packages cream cheese
1 cup sour cream dressing

Soak gelatin in cold water 5 minutes. Add boiling water, lemon and orange juice, sugar and chopped mint. Stir until cool. Mash and form cheese into balls the size of large marbles. Pour a little of jelly into bottom of a mold and place balls at intervals while pouring on thickened jelly. Place in refrigerator and chill until firm. Unmold and fill center with grapes mixed with lettuce and dressing. Surround mold with peeled orange sections. Serve with crackers.

Sour Cream Dressing.
1/2 cup french dressing
1 teaspoon sugar
1 cup sour cream
Mix ingredients well and chill thoroughly.

A lovely combination of citrus fruit juices are included in this salad guaranteed to keep you cool:
Orange Ice Salad. (Serves 6)
2 cups orange juice
1/2 cup lemon juice
1/2 grapefruit
1 slice canned pineapple
1 large orange
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup water

Grated rind of 1 small orange
Cook sugar, water and grated rind together for 5 minutes after coming to a boil. Strain and cool. Add to lemon and orange juice and freeze. Pack into a ring mold. Freeze until firm, then unmold on lettuce. In the center place a bowl filled with mayonnaise, and garnish around outer edge with sections of orange, grapefruit and pineapple.

Lynn Says:
Salad Pointers: Have all salad ingredients as cold as possible. Chill salad bowl and salad plates to assure absolute coolness to salads.

To skin tomatoes: Hold tomato on fork over flame and turn slowly for about 1 minute. Slip off skins.

To flute cucumber. Peel, lengthwise, and run prongs of fork through lengthwise, then slice cucumber thinly.

To sieve egg yolks or whites: This is pretty for garnishing. Separate yolks or whites from hard-cooked eggs, place in a small sieve, and rub through with wooden spoon on salads to be garnished.

To decorate lettuce: Dip edges in paprika.

Lynn Chambers' Point-Saving Menus

- *Orange Ring Salad
- *Hostess Sandwiches
- *Cheese Sandwiches
- *Tiny Tim Cakes Beverage
- *Recipes Given

Tiny little cakes attractively decorated with a cool drink may serve as refreshments for a garden party or evening:

*Tiny Tim Cakes. (Makes 8 cakes)
1/2 cup shortening
1 cup sugar
1 egg
2 cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla

Cream shortening and sugar together until light and fluffy. Add egg, beating well. Sift dry ingredients together, and add alternately to creamed mixture with milk. Mix to a smooth batter. Drop from a spoon into well-greased muffin cups. Bake 25 minutes in a moderate (350-degree) oven. Frost with tinted frosting.

Grapefruit Swizzle.
1 quart grapefruit juice
Juice from 8 limes
4 sprigs of mint
Sugar syrup to taste

Mix lime and grapefruit juice. Stir in syrup. Add mint leaves, crushing them after added to drink. Stir thoroughly. Cool in refrigerator. Fill glasses with crushed ice and pour over swizzle. Garnish with a sprig of fresh mint.

Sugar syrup to keep on hand for cool drinks is made by boiling 3 cups of sugar to 1 1/2 cups water for 10 minutes after it starts boiling. Pour into bottle.

Fruit Freeze.
1 fresh ripe pineapple
2 lemons
1 quart cold water
Fruit syrup to taste

Pare pineapple, remove eyes and core. Run pieces of pineapple through food chopper, add water, lemon and syrup to taste. Chill and fill glasses to within a third of the top and add a scoop of raspberry ice.

Sandwiches using unrationed food for fillings are always a grand way to take care of the refreshment problem:

*Hostess Sandwiches.
1/4 pound mince-meat, packaged
1/2 cup water
3 ounces cream cheese
Whole wheat bread

Mix mince-meat and water and cook until all moisture is absorbed. Cool. Cover thin slice of buttered whole-wheat bread with cheese, softened with cream and slightly salted, then with mince-meat and another slice of bread covered with cream cheese. Cut in strips or fancy shapes and decorate, if desired with candied fruit.

*Cheese Sandwich Filling.
1 package cream cheese
6 chopped olives
3 pieces finely chopped parsley
3 strips cooked bacon, chopped fine
1 tablespoon horseradish
1 tablespoon mayonnaise

Mix all ingredients together, add salt and pepper to taste, and spread on buttered bread.

NAME IN A CASUALTY LIST

In Africa, Wilbur Smith, Willow Falls, Mass.; next of kin, mother, Mrs. Charles Smith, Willow Falls.

Somehow that entry in the casualty lists brings the war home. Wilbur Smith... why, he was "Red" Smith's boy... the Argyle Road Smiths!

Wilbur was just a kid romping around the fields of Willow Falls... fishing in the Wepawaug... playing "catch" on the school ball team... taking off gates on Hallowe'en night... and swiping loose wood for the Fourth of July bonfires!

He was such a good-natured, pleasure-loving youngster. He could take care of himself in a scrap, but he was the easy-going, tolerant, hard-to-arouse type. He was always grinning.

I remember running over to the Smiths on a Christmas Eve once and helping trim the tree, the first one Wilbur was old enough to comprehend... There were all sorts of presents, but I remember a set of toy soldiers most of all now!

It seems only a few days ago that he was toddling around the Smith porch, just learning to walk... falling down... getting up... tumbling over again, but always getting up laughing. I got a picture of Wilbur on his first three-wheeler, tearing up and down the street, making a noise he seemed to think was like a siren.

Then one day I saw him in a football uniform, looking a little ridiculous, but coming back from practice. He had a shiner. And it sort of disturbed Mrs. Smith. But Wilbur kept saying: "Aw, mom, it's all in the game. Y'gotta expect to get hurt a little now and then."

Then there was the time a big, gangling boy came to cut the grass. It was Wilbur, but I didn't know him, he'd grown so. He used to deliver the paper and sell us the Post, too... I can see him now, dropping the lawn mower at the tinkle of the Good Humor cart... or forgetting all about the grass while he followed the flight of a robin to a nest in the fir... and climbed up to get a look at the young ones.

He kept pigeons and bantams and liked to hunt squirrels... He was the typical barefoot boy with cheek of tan. With thy turned-up pantaloons, and thy merry whistled tunes; With thy red lips, redder still Kissed by strawberries on the hill; With the sunshine on thy face, Through thy torn brim's jaunty grace...

It couldn't have been longer ago than last year that I saw his picture in the village paper as the boy voted "the best liked in his high school graduation class."

I remember seeing a crowd at the station one fall morning and asking, "What's up?" "Big crowd of boys going out today," said Eb Hill. It was another group of lads off for the draft camp... Wilbur was there...

I hadn't seen the Smiths in a long time. I'd forgotten about Wilbur. And now... "In Africa, Wilbur Smith, Willow Falls"...

SHOCK TREATMENT

Some mental patients receive home care, as the family do not want it known that such a thing as "insanity" is in the family. Fortunately, in most cases the family physician is able to persuade the family that mental illness is the same as any illness of the body and can be due to the same causes— infection, anxiety, shock, injury and others.

Further, at the mental hospital today treatment to remove any cause of the symptoms is given; dentists, throat specialists, women's specialists, are on the staff or make regular visits.

One of the most effective methods of treating certain types of mental illness is by producing shock in the patient by insulin, metrazol and, more recently, by electricity. Because of accidents that occasionally occur during shock this form of treatment has heretofore been given in mental hospitals and sometimes in the ordinary municipal hospitals.

What should mean much to a patient and family is a recent report by Dr. A. Myerson, Boston, in the New England Journal of Medicine. Dr. Myerson reports the results obtained by the electric-shock method in the treatment of 123 patients, 74 by the outpatient method. The patients reported at a place fitted out in hospital fashion with nurses and a physician in attendance. They were given the shock treatment and usually went home within one or two hours. In cases where the patient was too upset after the treatment he received further shock treatment at a mental hospital.

Compared to the risk of other methods of treatment of the same kind of mental ailments, the electric-shock treatment is much safer as to mental or physical injury.

The big point about being able to go to other than a mental or municipal hospital, receive the shock treatment, return home and continue the treatment for the weeks necessary, is that the family and patient have no feeling of shame or humiliation. To get this latest form of treatment so easily is certainly a real change from former days.

Nursing Along 'Heart Condition' by Resting

A few years ago a physician visiting a southern city made the acquaintance of another visitor who appeared to be "resting" all the time. He informed the physician that he had undergone a serious operation three months previously and as he has a "heart condition" he wished to consult a local heart specialist and asked the physician if he knew of one he could recommend. The physician, being a stranger, was unable to refer him to a heart specialist but asked him the nature of his heart condition.

"I have a heart murmur and after having this operation I was told to be careful of my heart."

"But a heart murmur is not serious nor was your operation of a serious nature." Operation for rupture or hernia is just changing the structure of the tissues in this region; there is no pus, no inflammation, and little or no shock. "This should not have taken much out of you."

A short examination by the physician revealed no enlargement of the heart, the murmur likely present when patient was born, no history of rheumatism. The patient walked slowly up and down stairs; the increase in the heart rate was about 10 beats and the heart was back to its normal rate within one minute. He walked slowly up and down stairs twice. The heart rate increased 16 beats and returned to normal within one and a half minutes. He was told that his heart was strong and exercise, not so much rest, was needed.

About 10 minutes later, he took his own pulse, walked up and down stairs twice, took his pulse again, waited the minute and a half and found the figures for the heart rate exactly the same as those found by the physician. He was therefore advised to take his daily rests but to take two walks daily, lengthening the walk one block every two days.

The point here is that while a heart murmur was present and he had undergone an operation three months before, his heart already had had all the rest needed and was ready for work or exercise.

HEALTH BRIEFS

Q.—What causes dizziness in the head?
A.—Dizziness may be caused by (a) liver disturbance, (b) ear disturbance, (c) blood pressure disturbance and other causes.

Q.—Is there anything that can be done for high blood pressure?
A.—Hypertension (high blood pressure) is just a symptom. Have your physician try to find the cause. May be caused by nervousness or by some disturbance of blood vessels.

Household Hints

So that they will not appear spotted, iron shantings and ponges dry.
No job is so important that you cannot take time to do it safely.

Start root vegetables in boiling, salted water, about one teaspoon of salt to a quart of water.
Baked ham is glorified by pouring honey over the ham before browning. It gives a delicate brown color and a delicious flavor.

Never, never put electrical appliances into water to clean them. A damp cloth and a mild abrasive are sufficient in most cases. Guard wires against dampness.

A cushion or pad underneath a rug not only makes it feel softer and warmer but will also make the rug last longer.
Gilt frames can be cleaned by dipping a soft cloth in milk and rubbing gently over the soiled spots. Repeat several times if necessary.

Hillsboro

Mrs. Lucy Macalister of Peterboro, a former resident of this town, was a guest of Mrs. Minnie Morgrage at her home on Summer Street in Goffstown, last week.

Miss Marion R. Lundberg, a member of the graduating class of Mary Washington College at Fredericksburg, Virginia, has arrived at her home on School St. for the summer.

More than 100 girls from all parts of the country have arrived at Hillsboro Camps on Peace Lake. Miss Mildred Humphrey, riding instructor from Maine, will be at the camp again this summer.

Mrs. Frances Murdough, who has been employed at the home of Mrs. Edgar J. Liberty at Wilton for the past year, has completed her labors there and has gone to Goffstown where she has secured employment.

George Colby, E M 2/c of the U. S. Navy, has passed his examination and will enter the Officers' Training School at Holy Cross College on July 1. This college has been taken over by the Navy.

Mrs. Frank D. Proctor spent the week-end at Mr. and Mrs. Howard H. Proctor's, coming from Muskogee, Okla. On Mrs. Proctor's way east she saw the damage the flood did in many places. She thought she saw floods here, but they can't be compared to the terrible floods of the middle states. Lt. Frank Proctor has gone to Fort Benning to take the officers' basic training course.

VICTORY GARDENS

We cannot allow your "Victory Gardens" paragraph to go unchallenged, because though not syndicated by outstanding citizens—we humbly believe that the garden at Boulder Brook farm in the Upper Village is worthy of attention and we welcome competition from any quarter.

Card of Thanks

I wish to very sincerely thank all the friends who sent us cards and flowers in remembrance of our birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Dow

Card of Thanks

I wish to thank the many friends and neighbors who were so very kind in remembering me with cards and flowers while I was in the hospital. Also I wish to express my gratitude for the kindness shown my family while I was away.

Hillsboro

Wild strawberries and some cultivated ones are being picked in this vicinity.

St. John's Day was observed by Harmony Lodge, F. and A. M., and Portia Chapter, O. E. S., at Smith Memorial church on Sunday.

Stewart Thompson, headmaster of Contocook high school for the past two years, called on Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Parker on Monday. Mr. Thompson will teach in Bristol, Conn., this next year.

Frank Smith, retired fireman at the local woolen mill, fell down stairs in the Rumrill block as he was going to his room, sustaining serious injuries, which necessitated his removal to the Hillsboro County General hospital. Mr. Smith is 80 years old and little hope is held for his recovery.

MORTGAGEE'S SALE

Pursuant to a power of sale contained in the mortgage deed given by Emma J. Warne, of Hillsborough, in the county of Hillsborough and State of New Hampshire, to Stephen H. Moore, formerly of New Haven, in the county of New Haven and State of Connecticut, under date of October 30, 1931 and recorded in the Registry of Deeds for said county of Hillsborough, Vol. 907, Page 527, to secure the payment of a certain promissory note for the sum of Three thousand and five hundred Dollars, and interest thereon; and pursuant also to a power of sale contained in the mortgage deed given by the said Emma J. Warne to one Louis Pampel, of Manchester, in said county of Hillsborough, under date of September 5, 1928 and recorded in said Registry of Deeds Vol. 886, Page 449, to secure the payment of a certain promissory note for the sum of Seven hundred Dollars and interest thereon, and for a breach of said mortgages and for the purpose of foreclosing the same, there will be sold at public auction on the premises as hereinafter set forth, on the 24th day of July, 1943, at eleven o'clock in the forenoon, the premises and estate described in said mortgage deeds.

The interest of the said Louis Pampel in and to the mortgage and indebtedness created by the above named Emma J. Warne was, on the 21st day of July, 1937, assigned and transferred by the said Louis Pampel to the above named Stephen H. Moore.

The interest of the said Stephen H. Moore in and to both of the above described mortgages, and the debts thereby secured, was acquired by one Florence M. Moore under and by virtue of the will of the said Stephen H. Moore.

Said mortgaged tracts are bounded and described as follows:

A certain tract of land with the buildings thereon, situate in Hillsborough Bridge Village, in said town of Hillsborough, and bounded and described as follows, to wit:

Commencing at the southeasterly corner of said premises at the intersection of Main Street with Church Street; thence northerly by said Church Street to land formerly owned by Fred L. Nelson, now owned by Turini; thence westerly by said Turini land to land formerly of the heirs of Jason H. T. Newell, now owned by Yeaton; thence southerly by said Yeaton land to said Main Street; thence easterly by said Main Street to the place of beginning.

The above described tract is the same tract described as the First Tract in the deed from Nathaniel E. Martin and wife to the said Emma J. Warne, dated April 24, 1925, and recorded in the Registry of Deeds for said County of Hillsborough, Vol. 843, Page 215.

Also the Fourth Tract as set out in the aforesaid deed from Martin to Warne as follows:

Easterly by land of Kate Marcy; northerly by land of Harry B. Burbank and land of Michael Whelan; southerly by land of Warren Tripp and James B. Tennant; and westerly by land of James F. Grimes, formerly owned by Harvey Jones.

Also the Fifth Tract as set out in the aforesaid deed from Martin to Warne as follows:

Westerly by land of Ellen Lovren, land of Herman G. Brown and land of Amos J. Proctor; southerly by land of Ira Appleton; easterly by land of James H. Brown, and northerly by highway leading from the stone bridge to the Hiram Grimes place so called.

All of the above described tracts are included in each of the above described mortgages.

Each of the above three lots will be sold separately and will be upon the premises sold. The sale of lots will be in the order in which they are above set forth.

Terms of Sale: On the day of the sale, the purchaser shall pay a deposit of 10% of the purchase price. The balance of the purchase price shall be paid on the delivery of the deed, which shall be within fifteen days from the day of the sale at the office of Ralph G. Smith, in the town of Hillsborough. Said premises will be sold and conveyed subject to all taxes assessed on said premises and remaining unpaid at the time of the sale. Details of such taxes will be given at the time of the auction.

Dated at Hillsborough, N. H. this 18th day of June, 1943.

GRADUATION EXERCISES OF THE DEERING SCHOOLS

On the evening of June 14, parents and friends of the pupils of the two Deering schools gathered at the Town Hall, made attractive by flowers banked in green on the platform and festoons of green and gold crepe paper in front of the windows. The class motto in the same colors above the stage completed the decorations.

The audience was aware that the exercises had begun when the graduates, six girls dressed in white and two boys marched to the platform where the school superintendent, Mr. Mason, and the two teachers, Mrs. Nelson Davis and Mrs. William Sipe, sat.

The graduates were, from West Deering, Priscilla Clark, Irene McAlister, Omar Normandine, and Gladys Wheeler; from the East Deering school, Arthur Griffith, Elizabeth Olson, Jean Titcomb and Doris Wheeler. They were led to the platform by the marshals, Loraine Clark and Robert McAlister. Graduates and marshals wore corsages of white carnations and asparagus fern presented by Mrs. Archie McAlister.

Rev. William C. Sipe opened the exercises with prayer followed by the singing of "America." The first essay was by Priscilla Clark on "President Roosevelt" and was a worthy beginning to an ably given program. The other essays were "General Pershing," Arthur Griffith; "Colin Kelley," Omar Normandine; "General James Doolittle," Elizabeth Olson; "America's First Lady," Irene McAlister; "The Women's Army Auxiliary Corp.," Doris Wheeler; "Eddie Rickenbacker," Gladys Wheeler; and last, as a fine and fitting ending to the graduation "The World We Must Create after the War," Jean Titcomb.

The graduates deserve great credit for the essays which showed the thorough work done in their lessons throughout the year under the teaching of Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Sipe.

Several times during the program the audience enjoyed the singing of folk songs of the United Nations. These songs were perfectly rendered by Elaine Lovren, Marjorie Mitchie, Elizabeth Olson, Ida Olson, Jean Titcomb and Doris Wheeler as a result of Mrs. Stuart Michie's thorough training. Mrs. Michie accompanied them at the piano, and at the close of the last group of songs was presented a beautiful bouquet of carnations in recognition of the time and strength she had spent on this part of the program.

In his address to the graduates, in presenting the diplomas, Mr. Mason ended with this good advice—to make the most of their lives in whatever lot they were cast.

The exercises closed with the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" by all and the benediction by Mr. Sipe.

The graduates then received the congratulations of their friends.

LISABEL GAY'S COLUMN

Mrs. George Crosby is visiting her father in Groveton for a few days.

Miss Leslie Allen has been visiting her brother Warner and Mrs. Allen in Fitchburg, Mass., for several days.

Mrs. Harrie V. Dunsmoor of Boston and Miss Lena Bachelier of Lynn, Mass., are spending a week with Mrs. Pearl Flint and family.

Miss Elizabeth Bristol of Cohasset, Mass., was in town on Thursday to attend the H. S. graduation exercises as her friend Miss Eleanor Jackson was a member of the senior class.

Miss Laura Boyd of Canton, Mass., was the Wednesday overnight guest of her nephews Jimmie and Bobby Boyd and attended the graduation exercises of Jimmie's class from Grammar school.

This must be peony week for most everybody's garden shows a few or many of pink, white or red. They seem larger than usual this year, perhaps because of so much rain. To me none are more beautiful than the old fashioned dark red ones our grandmothers called "pines."

West Deering

Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Locke were visitors in this section on Sunday.

James McQuinn of Cambridge, Mass., is at his home, Strawberry Acres.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Stimpert and friends of Newton, Mass., are in town for a few days.
