BRIDAL SHOWER

Monday evening, at the home of Mrs. Clarence Rockwell, a bridal shower was given for Miss Frances Belden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Belden of Winthrop, Me. About 25 guests surprised the bride-to-be, and many lovely gifts were presented to her. Miss Belden, recently discharged from the W.A.C's., will be married October 13, to Arthur Rockwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Rockwell, of Antrim, at a home wedding at the Rockwell residence.

ed to hold a party soon and invite the Cubs.

The Brownies met as usual, Monday after school. The three new Patrol leaders are: Dorothy Wolcott, Gail Whittemore, and Carolyn Wallace. They have as projects, being made, book marks, beanbags, costume jewelry, and scrapbooks. (Which will be sent to hospitals.) This week they learned a new song, under the direction of the leader, Miss Jane Pratt.

COME TO NEW HAMPSHIRE NOW FOR AUTUMN SPECTACLE

Reports from observers on the progress of autumn foliage colors throughout the state and in this area, report that sections of New Hampshire are almost at "their height", with other sections "just beginning to turn". Many areas along lakes and streams are at their colorful best.

Even in sections where trees are still largely green, the red of woodbine and other vines colorfully garnishes stone walls and tree trunks.

Vacationists and summer residents who went to see mountain and lake scenery at its colorful best, should come to New Hampshire within the next two weeks.

A heavy downpour of rain, Sunday night, caused many leaves to fall, bringing to an end the annual color spectacle of autumn in many parts of this area. There is, however, plenty of green foliage that will turn soon.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH NOTES

The message for the morning, at the First Presbyterian church, on Sunday, October 6, at 10:30 a.m., will be "Leaves for the Healing of the Nations."

The evening union service will be at the Baptist Church.

The Sunday School of the Presbyterian church is conducting this fall, an interesting "make-believe" Cruise and Travel Tour. Mrs. Nelle Thornton will be in charge and as the "manager" of the tour, will take the Alpha Party and the Omega Party for journeys to the Holy Land, seeing famous places along the way, and hearing each Tuesday, a broadcast, Barbara Bean is assisting as a "cruise conductor".

Monadnock Hospital Drive for $325,000 Oversubscribed

Oversubscription by nearly $60,000 of the $325,000 building fund for the enlargement and modernization of Monadnock Community Hospital in Peterborough, was announced Monday night, when more than 200 team members and committee chairmen held a victory dinner and pushed the total of the fund to $384,150. The meeting was held in the parish house of the Union Congregational church, Peterborough, with Dr. George Stewart of Dublin, chairman of the building fund committee, presiding.

In the final reports of the public campaign from the towns in the hospital's area, Antrim through its chairman, Wallace K. Flood, announced 104 subscriptions for $1,415. Col. Edward C. Black of Bennington reported 86 contributions amounting to $3,309 from that town, and Hancock's total, as given by Charles Turpin, was 43 subscriptions for $1,295.

The program of enlargement and expansion made possible by the completion of the building fund, calls for the construction of a three-story Y-shaped addition to the north end of the present building and for extensive remodeling of that building. The enlarged hospital will increase capacity from 36 to 67 adults and children and from 10 to 20 newborn infants. Rearrangement of present facilities, it is said, will give much more space for all departments and an over-all plan which is expected to result in more efficient operation and better care for every patient.

NEW ENGLAND COLLEGE OPENS IN HENNIKER

With a total initial enrollment of 65 students—most of them World War II vets furthering their education under the GI Bill of Rights—New England college, the state's newest institution of higher learning, formally opened its doors Tuesday, October 1, in Henniker, N. H.

Classes got underway in temporary quarters in the Academy building, leased from the town, and as soon as additional facilities are ready, the college will pick up and move into the Town Hall—also rented from the town.

Dean Charles M. Weber announced that registrations for the first trimester would be accepted for another two weeks in order to give ample opportunity to late comers to enroll. Small classes and emphasis on individual attention to each student, he said, will give late starters a chance to catch up.

Liberal Arts Program
For the present school year the college will offer the first year of the usual liberal arts program leading to Bachelor of Arts or Bachelor of Science degrees. Second year studies will be added to the curriculum next year, and the third and fourth year studies in the subsequent two years until a full scale college program has been put into operation.

The college is also providing a two-year concentrated high school program, covering junior and senior high school courses, for students needing added credits to meet college entrance requirements.

College Founder

At 8 p.m., exercises were held in the Town Hall with Howard Humphrey as master of ceremonies and chairman of the general committee. The program was opened by Mrs. Vera Butterfield followed by an address by Norris Cotton of Lebanon, candidate for Congress in this district. An accordion duet was played by John Lindsay and his sister, Miss Anne Lindsay.

General dancing was then enjoyed by all, with music by Lindsay's orchestra.

SHOWER GIVEN FOR MISS MARGARET EDMUNDS

A beautiful shower was given Miss Margaret Edmunds at the Auxiliary Hall on Tuesday night. Peggy was lured there to decorate the hall for her reception which is to follow the Church wedding on Saturday, and so it was a complete surprise. There was an inverted umbrella with ribbon rain drops and a decorated chair directly beneath it. Also a large table decorated in pink and white and the window drapes and refreshment table all were so decorated with tiny umbrellas here and there. The large umbrella held confetti which was poured over Miss Edmunds' defenseless head.

Among those present were, Mrs. Robert Hoffman, Sr., Ora Lindsay, Anne Lindsay, Hattie Edmunds, Bertha Cossette, Mrs. Doe and Effie Black, Florence Dunbar, Ellen Baldwin, Isabelle Barrett, Alice Glenn, Mae Wilson, Ruth Wilson, Marilyn Gammel, Hazel Wilson, Blanche Wilson, Edna Paige, Isabelle Wilson, Margaret Dodge, Nadia Rollins, Phyllis Whynott, Marguerite Smith, Betty Cashion, Mae Sheldon, Dorothy Shea, Martha Parker, Marion Griswold, Mrs. MacDonald, Shirley and Barbara Griswold, Charlotte Taylor, Grace Sargent, Laura Levesque, Florence Newton, Elizabeth Edmunds, Aaron Edmunds, Clarence Edmunds, father and brother of the bride-to-be, and Robert Hoffman, the groom-to-be, made a brief visit.

Best of wishes from the town folks, Peggy!

the old Pemigewasset House, Plymouth, where years before, Nathaniel Hawthorne had died while on a carriage trip to the mountains with Franklin Pierce. We made arrangements with Miss Kate Rounds for me to enter Normal School that September, although her father, Dr. Rounds, was no longer head of the school.

While at Plymouth, I went with Normal students up through Crawford Notch by train to Bartlett, but the trip I enjoyed most was a motor trip years later. I went with Miss Fox, Miss Alice (later Mrs. Cochrane), Miss Lyman. Leon Proctor was Miss Fox's chauffeur at that time. We started on a clear cool Monday toward the last of August, and dreamed about fur coats and blankets. We spent the first night at the Flume House (burned long ago) two nights with Miss Edith Fox at Bartlett; visited the Mt. Washington House at Bretton Woods, then rather new Dixville Notch and came home through Crawford Notch and dined with a friend of Miss Alice's, who lived at the foot of the long hill. The last night was spent at Chocoma. We arrived about sunset and it was the climax of the whole trip to me. The mountain, the lake, and the setting sun was almost too much.

The Rockies are magnificent, but so far away, not friendly and approachable as the White Mts. Maybe it's because they are in my own state where I grew up among the hills, but never half appreciated them until after living on a prairie state. Then I learned why visitors to the Centre Community were always raving about the beautiful views.

Walter used to say, when he told lies they were so big nobody could possibly believe him. I told a big whopper last week when I said the farm produced everything I mentioned in the pantry and cellar. Of course, we didn't raise the flour, sugar, or Keene Crackers. Neither did we ever buy bread or cake or pies and I never heard of a food sale.

Mrs. George Haslet and Mrs. George Hall spent several days in Boston, last week. Mrs. Warren spent the same time with her daughter in the Boston vicinity. Mrs. Kerwin Ellsworth underwent an ear operation at the Hanover Hospital the first of the week. There are touches of color in the trees I see from my windows, but the foliage will probably be at its best a week from now, and ought to last until the holiday week-end. This Monday has been the wettest, rainy day we have had in weeks. Thunder has been rolling among the hills intermittently all the forenoon, ever since awakened me in the night.

Miss Frances Shaughnessy received her Masters Degree from Columbia University, this summer and began the school year as Supervisor of Music in Fall River, Mass. She held the same position in Hillsboro a few years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Burbank of Bellows Falls, Vt., came over on Sunday to see Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gay. Mrs. Gay shows a very slight improvement in health.

ON THE STREET

By Paul S. Scruton

Valley Lodge, No. 43 IOOF will install the following officers in Odd Fellows Hall on Monday evening, October 21. Noble Grand, Paul S. Scruton; vice grand, John Van Hazinga; recording secretary, Bert L. Crane; treasurer, James Ellsworth. Perley Spalding for over 30 years the treasurer of the lodge was unable to continue in this capacity due to ill health in his family. The installing staff from Peterboro will be present for the occasion.

Looking backward to the period following World War I, we find no O.P.A., functioning and we wonder if you and I prefer to pay $1.25 per pound for a steak or $1.00 and go without. Sure we remember high prices, but even at that you could obtain enough nourishment even if you got trusted at the markets and the prize joke of all seems to be that today you just cannot get enough to eat at any price, so what's the difference. If you happen to have a dollar and cannot spend it, just what is the dollar worth? We certainly are living in a fuzzy wuzzy sort of world and it would seem that the only sane people living in this insane world are now found at the institution on Pleasant street, Concord. Either clamp down with the O.P.A., to stay or quit fiddling around and give us some jerked beef or even a hunk of liver or maybe a yard of tripe. These meatless, sheetless, shirtless days are causing sleepless nights and giving us the heebie jeebies. The whole country is mad and the politicians restless.

Martin Palhof, who came here from New York, some six months ago and bought Joseph Leazott's "Breezy Point" Inn on Lake Franklin Pierce, will not keep his hotel and cabins open on a year around basis, but hopes to make Hillsboro and the surrounding area just as popular as a winter playground as it is during the warmer months of the year.

Breezy Point, located under the shadows of Gibson Mountain, has all the natural facilities for a year around sportsman's paradise. A ski-tow is planned for the Mountain slopes and ice boating and skating on the placid surface of the big lake.

Mr. Palhof and others plan to develop this region into a 12 months recreation center that will compare favorably with any in the country. The Hillsboro Community Association is solidly backing the idea of keeping Hillsboro on the playground map to stay, not only from June to October, but for the entire year.

Chesley P. Favor gave up his barbering business about six months ago and planned to do a little more hunting and fishing for the rest of his life, but the urge to return to his shears and razor again proved too strong and he is back again, this time at the hotel shop. For over 45 years, he has served the men of Hillsboro, but he does have an occasional spare hour to operate his 1913 model T Ford, which is painted like Joseph's coat of many colors and has been something like 150,000 miles in the past 32 years. Mr. Favor admits that his repair bill has run as high $5.00 in all the time he has worked the foot pedals and sat behind the wheel. He still gets 22 miles to the gallon and rarely exceeds 20 miles per hour even on the down grade.

Some of the local operators of motor vehicles do not even look backward when moving from a parking space and the middle of the road drivers are too numerous for safety. The most outstanding conflict however, is the deplorable lack of proper parking facilities on the Main Streets of the village proper, and trying to avoid hitting some of the high school students who have no choice but to walk in road in squads.

10:45 A.M.—Sunday School will begin.

7 P. M.—There will be an evening service of song and worship to which all are invited. Rev. E. A. Durham of Goffstown will speak and there will be special music by Mrs. Marie Robertson.

This marks the opening of the evening services that have for so long been discontinued. Many churches are awakening to the truth that they have lost much benefit to their spiritual life in the dropping of the evening service and we are joining a great group of churches in again having this evening service as a part of the Sunday program.

Willie is Bright Enough

But the Light ISN'T !

It is so easy, so inexpensive to have good light—and here I am, Reddy Kilowatt, so anxious to give you good light if you'll just let me.

There are two ways of going wrong on lighting. One way is too little light—not large enough bulbs and not enough floor, table or other lighting units. The second way of being wrong is to permit glare.

Glare comes from bad lamp bulbs or from lighting units that do not direct and spread light properly.

Ask me to recommend right bulb sizes. Ask me to show you properly designed lighting units.

Lower Village

Miss Mary E. Pierce
Correspondent

There is a Mansion in our village. During the early days part of Frontier Town No. 7, Benjamin Pierce, who had served as an officer in the Revolution, came here to live.

In 1804 he built the handsome Georgian house that is known as the Pierce Mansion, for it was the boyhood home of Franklin Pierce, the fourteenth president of the United States.

This dignified land mark is the property of the State of New Hampshire, and is open to the public from June until the middle of October. During this season of traveling weather many people of varied types and customs wander through the spacious rooms.

Every once in so often to one who mingles with the public, there comes an unforgettable day. It came to the custodian of the Pierce Mansion the afternoon a small circus passed through our village.

Highway No. 9, leads from Troy, New York, to Portland, Maine. Many a strange caravan may be seen on this long black ribbon of a road that stretches through tiny hamlets, beyond to the great cities.

It was almost closing time on this sultry July afternoon, when a shabby heavily covered truck stopped before the Mansion. Dark clouds hovered over Sulphur Hill. The air grew oppressively warm.

A barefoot boy of about nine or ten years, jumped from the truck and dashed into the big house, for open was the gate and the front door. At once he started to run through the rooms shouting at the top of his voice, "Hey, Rube", the distress cry of the circus.

A tall man with a handsome, but dissipated face, followed by a frail, tired woman, whom he addressed as "Stella", came timidly up the brick walk.

"Dearie, we are circus folks", the man said to the custodian, who beckoned them hurriedly into the Mansion for she sensed the ominous stillness that comes before a storm.

And then the heavens opened. In torrents the rain descended, turned to hail that battered against the windows and the roof. Thunder claps filled the air, and over nature's deafening artillery, the voice of the shouting boy echoed through the house.

The boldness and freedom of the lad disturbed the tired woman. She went slowly into the parlor, let herself down wearily into the Salem rocker and leaned her head against its faded stencil. To the custodian she said, "Dearie, what shall I do with Bub?"

Just then a roll of thunder rocked the Mansion and a lightning bolt struck the transformer on the edge of the road. Nothing was done with Bub. He tiptoed into the parlor and with fear in his white face, placed himself beside the tired woman's chair.

The custodian is a dignified person, with a sense of humor. When George, for such was the tall man's name, and Stella and Bub called her "Dearie", it tickled mightily and pleased her too. It was very nice to be taken into the comradance of the circus.

In earnest began the fury of the storm. The windows rattled with each roll of thunder. Down the chimney trickled streams of water that flowed out upon the hearth. The wind screamed dangerously. With a tearing rendering sound, a huge limb on a maple before the

SPECIAL DISTRICT

In his letter, the Governor said: "In order to focus public attention upon the problems and needs of schools in rural areas, and to bring about constructive co-operation endeavor among the citizens of each school district to improve the local school, I, Charles M. Dale, Governor of New Hampshire, do hereby proclaim October 4, 1946, as Rural School Day; and in doing so I urge that parents, school board members, lay leaders and all other community members interested in education cooperate with the school children, teachers, principals, headmasters, and superintendents in efforts to improve the schools in the rural areas of New Hampshire in every possible way."

The twenty-one pupils in the fifth grade are planning to make a booklet of some of Stephen Foster's songs. It will be correlated with penmanship and each song will be illustrated with either drawings or suitable pictures which the students may find.

Twenty-six pupils are in Grade 6. Martha Campbell is the newest member of the class and she lives with her sister out toward Deering.

EAST DEERING

Kenneth Fales broke his right arm jumping off the swing last week, but attends school every day and is fast learning to make his left hand a good substitute for the temporary loss of his right.

Miss Harris, the school nurse, visited our school last week to record our heights and weights and replenish our first aid kit.

The fourth grade has found the dried cornstalks from their Dad's garden most useful in working out their reading and geography project combined—that of making a jungle bird cage housing a colorful parrot.

The third grade reading project—assembling a mischievous monkey—coordinates beautifully with that of the fourth grade and the sight of the bird cages with swinging monkeys beneath, create considerable cheer for the schoolroom.

The error box was opened Friday for general speech criticism and improvement class and the greatest "bugaboo" at present was found to be the use of "ain't."

Mr. McCormack dropped in for a short visit Friday morning.

Miss Milliken's niece from Manchester, Miss Muriel Caron, was spending a few days of her vacation in East Deering and found participation in school and playground activities most entertaining and refreshing.

LOWER VILLAGE SCHOOL

Visitors to school during the past week were Mrs. Wells, and Mrs. Rasmussen and her daughter.

Miss Bernice Derby, substitute school nurse, weighed all the school children on Monday, Sept. 23. All had made a substantial gain during the year.

The attendance for the month of September, has been 99.5% and there are no tardy marks to date.

Dorothy Duffield, Joyce Lowe, Doreen Young, Charlotte Cutter, Florida and Rose Cate, James McClintock, Stanley Champney, and Ronald Houlton received 100% in spelling for the week and were excused 10 minutes early on Friday, September 20.

HILLSBORO HIGH

With the basketball season almost here, Mr. Sergius Bernard, Coach of Boys Basketball, has announced the following candidates for the team: Warren, Grimes, Spalding, Dunnington, Clough, S. Zachos, Stamatos, Gilbert, Pierce, D. Smith, Wilson, Gove, Raoul Sullivan, Roger Sullivan, F. Smith, Griffiths, Johnson, Duval, Richard Crane, Robert Crane, Crosby, McClintock, Jurgelewicz, Bonnette, Barrett, Buttrick, J. Boyd, D. Crane, Devoy, Marshall, Daniels, Gee, Thompson, Carew, A. Duggan. Lists are not yet completed for Girls Basketball, according to Miss Margaret Shiel, Coach, but will be ready next week.

FLAT SCHOOL

Edward Johnson and Richard Whitney have learned to write their names. They are members of the first grade.

George Chapman and Robert Bouchard have started a sport scrapbook.

This week the students at Flat School are studying about the United States. The use of a map, which pictures the various industries throughout the country, is most learning.

The eight grade Science group is very much interested in the planets and stars since learning about them.

CENTER SCHOOL

Rosalie Smith, Alice Mordough and Evelyn Mordough have had perfect spelling since the beginning of school.

Our two eighth graders, Cecelia Kulbacki and Kenneth Mordough, are already making plans for Graduation.

Katherine Kulbacki will be the speaker for the Center School for the Annual Prize Speaking Contest.

During the week, Mr. Frank Gay visited the Center School and told the students there of the many interesting and humorous incidents that happened when he attended the school years ago.

Thomas Devoy, a recent graduate, visited on Wednesday.

UPPER VILLAGE SCHOOL

Caroline Strickland was the only one who earned 100% in both spelling words and sentences last week.

Edward Thibodeau and Arline Sweeney have started their second pre-primer.

John French is leading in the second grade arithmetic contest.

The third grade is doing addition and subtraction problems in arithmetic.

The fourth grade geography class is working on heat zones and imaginary lines in geography.

Donald Sweeney is getting good ranks in language.

Jeanette Hersey is leading her class in sixth grade history. She also does the best work in art.

The seventh grade is struggling with decimal problems.

The absent and tardy marks for the month of September, have been unreasonably high.

NEW ENGLAND COLLEGE

signed as head of the Department of Business Administration at Hofstra college, Hempstead, L. I., to establish his own school. His brother, Walter R. Tillett, is president of the college and Henry Cunningham, Jr., is comptroller.

Need for added college facilities in New Hampshire to meet the demand for higher education—made even more acute by the return to school of World War II veterans—led Dr. Tillett to seek a location in this state. Encouragement of the Merrimack Valley Region association and the Henniker townspeople brought the new college here.

GRANITE STATE GARDENER

by J. R. HEPLER

To me the fall season is perhaps the most wonderful time of the year. It means the culmination of the harvest season and what fun it is to bring in the fruits of the garden. I remember one of my youngsters digging potatoes much like a dog digs a hole for a bone and being so proud when he found three, four, five, or six potatoes in that hill. What a thrill it was for him!

I paid a short visit lately to the Agronomy potato plots and found that they had some new varieties from New York that were almost resistant to late blight. Practically all the other varieties in the plot had gone with disease while these resistant varieties were still growing. What a boon this is going to be to the home gardener. He has been told time and again that he should not grow potatoes, that spraying or dusting is too difficult and too expensive for his limited equipment, but with disease resistant varieties available it should be comparatively easy to grow a good crop. Disease resistance does not mean resistance to early blight or to the thousand and one insects that infest the potato plant, but early blight seems to be largely correlated with injury to the foliage of the plant and dusting the plant with DDT or with the new DDT-copper mixture every two or three weeks from the time they have started growing will eliminate the insect hazard. I have followed this plan in my own garden this year and my potatoes will yield at the rate of 300 bushels or more per acre. My conditions are not exceptional at all, in fact I should say that they were inferior to many peoples.

by GEORGE S. PROCTOR

NEW HAMPSHIRE CONSERVATION OFFICER

Wilton, N. H.

Here is one for the book. Ira Brown of Lyndeboro, set a trap to catch a corn thief and he was surprised to find a bob tailed raccoon that weighed 18 pounds. Mr. Brown said the coon was born that way.

We are still looking for two large fox hounds lost from Greenfield three weeks ago. They were valuable and looks like some one picked them up. Notify Perley Warren of Bennington if you find them.

Dogs that were vaccinated in the town of Wilton can run after Oct. 1, but those that were not must be kept confined for 90 days from Dr. Galloway's first official notice. No dogs are to be on the Main street but other streets in town are O.K., if on a leash. All special permits to train local dogs have been cancelled by the Director of the Fish and Game Dept. Dr. Galloway feels sure that we have got it stamped out but his orders still hold good.

Talk about your people looking ahead. George and Angie Gould, owners of the Valley Hotel in Hillsboro, have given me a calendar for 1947. You can't beat that combination.

Many phone calls last week about the waterfowl open season. It's Oct. 5th, and runs for 40 days. The Govt., notices in the postoffices are wrong and that's why many people have got the idea it started as in 1945, Sept. 20th. Any of the September and October sporting magazines will put you right.

Speaking of snakes, Brownell Wilcox of Lyndeboro brings me a 3½ foot water snake. One of the biggest I have seen this season.

Speaking of cocker spaniels, Rev. Harold Frye of the home town has a litter of six very young. The Falconer Kennels of Milford have a real dog show in the same breed. The Clover Kennels of Hillsboro also have a fine assortment. This will answer many cards received last week.

Want to buy a fox terrier puppy, be ready in a few weeks. Can tell you about it. Price is right.

Speaking of mink, I now have a mink farm in my district that has 750 mink. It's up to date in all ways.

Did you ever hear of a dog having tonsils? Well, they do have and unless removed will cause the dog a lot of trouble. Dr. Tenney of Peterboro removed some from a local dog last week.

Speaking of raccoon, Earl C. Beard of Hillsboro, brought me a nice one Sunday to add to my collection. Thanks.

Speaking of weather prphets, I have a peacock hen with a chick that's living at large. If it looks like rain she goes into the house, if not she roosts on top of the pigeon cote.

Last Sunday I could have attended at least a dozen Field Trials in my district and out over the line in Mass.

Well, I did run down to the clam bake held by Granite Fish and Game Dept., at their club house near Osgood pond. There were over 400 present and all towns and cities were represented at the bake. Mr. Anderson was chief cook and he had plenty of helpers. President Charles Willette was General Manager of the affair. The bake was good.

Have another unsigned letter from a Boston reader but he says he is no fan of mine. I don't usually pay any attention to unsigned letters but this fellow wants me to keep my writing to my state and not butt into his district. He gives himself away when he said he was pounding out this letter from the Press Box at Braves Field. This same fellow says he once saw a snake in Stoddard that was over eight feet long. Now this man is one of those lucky guys who will see the World Series at Fenway Park from a press seat. How about a cardboard fellow for the big games, I will tote my L. C. Smith (silent but ain't) weighs a ton, under my arm and follow you into the press section. I have been writing for the papers for 45 years and that fact alone should pass me. Let's hear what you say to this. I will forgive your peeve and the call down you gave for making a wrong guess on the seating capacity of Fenway Park. Why not sign your name and be a good sport.

One day last week, my day off, ran down to the Benson Animal Farm in Hudson. It's bigger than ever and what a show they put on. His bear exhibit is the best I ever saw. On the way back we stopped at the Marshall Pet Shop on the Daniel Webster Highway. Nice little place. They have a fine collection of pheasants, canaries, fancy fish. Worth a visit.

Another neighborly act. A bushel of nice macks on my doorstep one morning. I know they came from across the street from my neighbor Fred H. Tarbell. Boy, I live in a swell neighborhood.

One day last week I took out of a man's cellar in town, the largest black and white kitty I ever caught. I transplanted him back in the woods. This job of catching skunks is not in my line of work at all, but I do it sometimes to help people remove them to save the life of the animal.

SPORTSMAN'S COLUMN (Continued from Page 6)

If a skunk is digging up your lawn he is only doing you a favor by eating the grubs which in time would destroy your lawn. Sprinkle tobacco dust over your lawn and the skunks will not bother but the grubs will still operate.

One morning I got an SOS from a fellow who wanted to go to work and was afraid to back his car out of his garage. I must run down at once and remove the objection. I told him to open his doors and the animal would go out himself. "But I don't dare to open the doors", but his wife, a small woman, had the nerve and the animal went out as soon as the doors were open. A skunk will never bother you unless you bother him.

Well, I have a friend in Boston who is a personal friend of the manager of the Braves and if the games had been played on that field I would have been sitting pretty. No such luck.

house fell to the ground, taking with it, a portion of the gate.

The four people in the parlor waited in apprehensive silence. Once the tall man muttered as he stood with scowling brows by the half shuttered window, "I've never seen such lightning", and the frail woman whispered "Will this never end?"

It was the most violent tempest that in years, had swept over our village.

After what seemed an eternity, but was, in reality, a brief space of time, wind hurried the menacing clouds across the sky. The sun came out and with its coming relief flooded the hearts of this frightened little group.

Then it was that the tall man went out to the covered body of his truck. In no time he was back with two young monkeys in his arms. He held them out to the custodian and said, "For you Dearie, you have been so kind."

Now, the custodian felt she had done nothing at all. Fear had almost paralyzed her. Once she had noticed the pain sharpened profile of the tired woman, and had placed a folded coat beneath her head. When she saw the wrinkled faces of the monkeys, a great lump came into her throat. She found it hard to speak, for it was difficult to decline so gracefully a proffered gift.

It was Stella, the very tired woman, who eased the tenseness of the moment. She turned scornful eyes upon the tall man and upbraided him for lacking in discernment. "Couldn't he see that Dearie wasn't used to monkeys?" Why had he offered her two? Wasn't one enough? Only a broken down old showman would think of such a thing.

George, whose face must have once been very handsome, gathered his pets closely to his breast and as a chidden child, went out into the sunlight.

Now that all the danger was over, exuberance entered again the spirit of Bub. He turned a hand-spring on the floor of the stately parlor, and ran from the house singing in a high childish treble, "Do you know a gal named Sal?"

Without a word the tired woman got up from the Salem rocker more wearily than she had sat down and joined her companions.

Soon there was the sound of backfiring and much sputtering, before a stubborn engine throbbed into obedience. The little truck then started down the road.

Dearie stood in the doorway of the Mansion and waved farewell to George and Stella and Bub — and the monkeys.

Whenever thunder clouds roll over Sulphur Hill and lightning darts across the sky, the custodian of the Pierce Mansion thinks of this strangely assorted two and hopes the tall man, the frail woman, and the barefoot shouting boy, are finding shelter from whatever storm o'er take them.

Other charming homes are in our village. Homes that have an appealing doorway, for it is true, the doorway is the heart of the outside of a house, as within it is the fine place. The cottage of Mrs. Frank Cushing has a doorway whose pleasing simplicity is emphasized by an old fashioned honey suckle vine that clambers over it. Mrs. Cushing's son, David, who is stationed at an Army post in Maryland, spent with his mother, his brief August furlough.

Doorways are about the same in a great portion of our country. They tell a story all their own that dates back to the great stone portals of England, but in the new World they were made of wood.

On her journey into the state of New York, Mrs. Frank J. Orser, no doubt passed many a house with a distinctive doorway. Last Friday, Mrs. Orser motored to Millwood, N. Y., where she will spend a couple of weeks with her husband, who is working there.

Sunday was an exceptionally beautiful day. It was a time for happiness. So it must have seemed to Miss Velita Pearson and to Ernest Swett who were united in marriage on that sunny morning.

Rev. Milo Farmer performed the ceremony in the parsonage of the Methodist Church.

For Velita and Ernest, each one in our villages hopes the future may be bright and happy and to their romance, may be ever young.

LOST

HONEST MAN FOUND IN HENNIKER AND BENNINGTON

This week we learned that two recent "Lost" advertisements in this paper paid dividends to their own- ers and proved again the honesty of Henniker and Bennington people in this case.

One advertisement was for a fishing fly rod lost by a Henniker man whose name we fail to re- member. The other was the loss of a ladies' black handbag, etc., lost by guests of C. R. Martin of Ben- nington, and returned by Al Chase also of Bennington.
