She wore a long veil and a crown of tulle with orange blossoms decorating it. The bridal bouquet was white roses in shower arrangement.

PUBLIC ANSWER CALLED FOR

Paul Scruton, in his column "On The Street" in this week's Messenger, poses two problems, garbage collection and public sidewalks, which call for a public answer.

Lack of garbage and refuse collection will plague our community until we solve it. Though it has been broached publicly several times, the Town Selectmen, as far as we have learned, have not given much time or thought to the subject.

Meanwhile, some civic minded individuals will continue to dump cartons of refuse and garbage over the Mill street bridge into the Contoocook River, which by all appearances is fast becoming an annex to the town dump. Like snow removal, public water, street maintenance, garbage and refuse collection calls for town planning and direction.

Problem number two is the repair and addition to the town sidewalk system. One of the most widely used streets, School Street, for a considerable distance has sidewalks on one side only. Another badly needed sidewalk is one from Park Street to the Community Building property, judging by the number who trespass on private property in using this shortcut.

When thought is given to sidewalk repairs and construction, these two additions should be given priority.

ON THE STREET

By Paul S. Scruton

Have you emptied the old swill bucket in that hole you dug in the back yard or maybe tossed it over the bridge and down the river in a frenzied attempt to dispose of the smelly mess recently, and if so, did you swear and get mad over the deplorable situation. We think most of us would gladly pay at least half a dollar to have the stuff carted away and disposed of in a sanitary manner and the problem of getting rid of the stuff after the ground is frozen and snow is deep, presents another real problem. Of course, today, there is not much left in the smelly old metal container that is even fit for a hog to eat, but there is always an accumulation of this and that to be disposed of. What is the solution, if any, to this problem?

The first edition of The New Hampshire Sunday News failed to arrive in this and neighboring towns because the problem of transportation seemed to have been difficult. We look backward to the days of the railroad and regret that Hillsboro is apparently a forgotten railroad town. Motorized rolling stock will never take the place of the trains it seems, even in this day and age of vitamin pills and atomic energy. The whistles of the locomotives that sounded up and down this valley for so many years were pleasant memories of past and saner yesterdays. The old abandoned depot today stands as a memorial to those trainmen and railroad employees who long served the public day and night, when Hillsboro was a railroad center.

Kenneth Brown, who left Hillsboro when he was about 12 years of age, has returned to his old home town, Hillsboro, after being away for 26 years, and this time he comes here with his family. Residing on the Sherman Brown farm at present, the Browns hope to make a permanent home here. Ken was only a child when he went away with his brothers, but he always liked Hillsboro and was determined to come back someday. Let's welcome him home to stay.

Chicken thieves have been active again about the Flat and one owner of prized poultry conceived the idea of leaving a light burning on her back piazza and has found no truck driving up the side road recently. Funny how thieves prefer the darkness to the light. It might be a good idea to set a man sized bear trap just to be on the safe side.

History repeats and after every war the first of the returning vets are regarded as something pretty special, while the next batch are greeted with "Hello, how's the Boy", and after that the returning vets are regarded as matter of fact or do you and I kid ourselves. Look around and see for yourself. In time of danger, not before God and the soldier you adore, but after danger when the wrong is righted, God is forgotten and the soldier slighted. This applies also to sailors and the marine corps. Those who stayed at home claiming exemptions for this and that, from the gout to working lumbering operations, must chuckle now that Uncle Sam will not reach out his strong right arm and dump another batch of recruits in fox holes. They played their cards well with a matter of five aces. No wonder the ex-servicemen are re-nlisting again after looking around at the sucker civilian public in general. Read, "It's No Blueberry Pie," in a popular monthly magazine and notice the bitterness and disillusionment of the Army and Navy discharged veterans.

No wonder summer residents stay in this section as long as possible after Labor Day and this year has been no exception with many cottages still open at Loon Lake, Contention Pond, and along the banks of the Contoocook river. We had some beautiful days in September and this month started off with Indian summer, that is if anybody can tell when Indian summer starts or leaves off. It most certainly does not begin after leaves are off the trees. You tell 'em Jack, you have the eddication.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

The following is an open letter to Hillsboro:

We have just returned from a two weeks vacation in Hillsboro. It was grand to be there again, for Hillsboro will always be our first love.

As we drove by the rail-road station, which we understand is now doing its part to relieve the housing shortage, there came nostalgic memories of our first visit to Hillsboro. It was here we found the stage-coach waiting which would take us to the Lower Village, and to the charming old home of former President Pierce, where we spent two wonderful weeks. Two years later, in October, we returned with the man of our choice, to spend a honey-moon at the Pierce Mansion, which was owned at that time by the Curtis family. And how friendly every one was! No wonder we love Hillsboro.

On our recent visit, as we drove up through the village, (it was "The Bridge" in the old days) we noted few changes. We missed Butler's store where we always received a pleasant greeting from Julia Gibson. The hotel looked prosperous with its smart looking dress shop at the further end... the old Dutton houses were as lovely as ever... And Jim Hudson's garden was lush with good things to eat. We found Jim, at 82, not looking a day over 60, vigorous and active, working at his trade every day, and putting in his spare time weeding and hoeing.

A short distance further on we saw that something new had been added to the enterprising town. A Food Bank! It gives one a sense of security to have money in the bank, but at this time when so many food products are practically unobtainable, to have plenty to eat in a Food Bank must be wonderful.

During our stay in Hillsboro, we visited the Hopkinton Fair. And also drove gay Frank Gay, to the Plymouth Fair. Frank and many others told us all about the recent "Old Home Day". What a gala day that must have been! We have pleasant memories of other "Old Home Days" in the past, when we took part in the parades. Twice Mr. Goodsell won first prize. Once as a scare-crow, another time as the "only half-in-half in town". (Half man, half woman.)

We spent two pleasant evenings at "The Barn" in Henniker, where we enjoyed dancing the "Portland Fancy". "The Martha Washington" (Continued on Page 7)

educated without a certain knowledge of the Bible.

Refreshments of ice cream, crackers, and coffee were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Antoinette Hall, Mrs. Aleda Mason, Mrs. Harriet Grimes and Mrs. Ethel Haslet.

BIRD AND GARDEN CLUB

The Family Party of the Caroline A. Fox Bird and Garden Club was a very enjoyable affair last Saturday evening in Community Hall, although there were not as many present as in previous years. A delicious supper was served at 6:30 by the committee, Pearl Ray, Vanessa Beard, Armande Kern, Ilene Parker, and Barbara Rummell. The good cooks of the club used their ingenuity along with the rather limited supply of desired materials and concocted a variety of most delectable salads and scalloped dishes with plenty of baked beans, hot rolls, coffee, sponge cake, and whipped cream, with more than enough to satisfy everyone's hunger.

A brief business session was held before supper, as it was thought best to push annual meeting two months ahead. Officers elected were, president, Rebecca Kyle; vice president, Edna Perk; sec. and treas. Ilene Parker; music committee, Elizabeth Baldwin; program, Lisabel Gay.

After supper, several spoke very briefly, when called upon but largely in praise of the supper. Ralph Sleeper of Boston, who was his mother's guest at the meeting, was asked to tell about his recent trip to England with others in the interest of Masonry. In several previous trips they had made contacts with the Royal family and had had several interviews with the King of Denmark. Mr. Sleeper travelled by plane. When part way across the Atlantic trouble developed, which made the plane go back to Ireland for another start. This part of the trip was not too enjoyable.

All present enjoyed looking at the baby pictures of those who did not forget to bring them. Eugene Williams, in his mother's arms, was not recognizable, his mother not being known here. Frank Gay seemed to be in another world as he sits tranquilly playing with his shoe.

Many old songs were sung by all, which with the supper, Mr. Sleeper seemed to be really enjoyed by all, er's talk and general conversation, present.

The new choir of Smith Memorial Church, organized and directed by Mrs. Mildred Porter, sang for the first time at Sunday morning service. Members of the choir are of High School age or more. They sang an anthem and led the music in the service. Alfred Stanley of Winthrop, sang a solo and also assisted the choir. Members of choir, so far are: Frank and James Boyd, Kenneth Ryder, Whitney Yeaple, Mrs. Marguerite Dutton, Mrs. Alice Baldwin, Lannie Hutchinson, Janet Tasker, Janet O'Connor, Clydette Creaser, and Joyce Avery.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark McClintock celebrated their 24th wedding anniversary on Sunday. A trip to the Mountains had been planned for the family but it so happened that Mrs. McClintock and son, James, enjoyed a picnic lunch near Pierce Lake, and Mr. McClintock took his daughter, Ellen and Virginia Lougee, to the mountains, up through one notch and home the other.

Mrs. Charlie Weber, her sister, Mrs. Alma Adams and son, John, and Mr. and Mrs. Perley Spaulding took a long round about way to Salisbury, Sunday p.m. They tried to call on friends, but like themselves, their friends had gone somewhere.

Students entering the U. of N. H., were enrolled last week, but members of upper classes registered on Monday. J. Douglas Crooks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Porter Crooks, will be one of the new instructors in the Physics department.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Pope and son, John, of Swampscott, Mass., spent the week-end at the Andrews Farm.

Mrs. Bessie Whitcomb is substituting in the upper grade room of Harrisburg school for two weeks.

Mrs. Fred Gile, Janet O'Connor, Mrs. John Tasker, Janet and Jack Tasker, attended a football game in Watertown, Mass. last Saturday.

Mrs. Emma Shepard Gould of New London, and her hostess, Mrs. Speed of Antrim, made us a call

Lower Village

Miss Mary E. Pierce
Correspondent

There are four stores in our village. One dates back to other days when life moved very slowly through the years. The Gilmore store has witnessed the prosperity and decline of the Lower Village. At one time this community was a small business center, but the coming of the railroad to Hillsboro, in the early fifties, attracted nearby industries to settle in the larger town.

Before this old time store, the store hitching post stands idly by, but sometimes even today a horse is tethered to its iron ring. The Gilmore store is full of memories.

Gypsies used to loiter near the counter hoping to pilfer a coveted bit of sweet, or tell one's fortune for a silver coin. Today these Romney people come no longer to our village. Persons less picturesque but more honest, trade with Miss Gilmore and Madeline. It is always pleasant to step into the Gilmore store. Sometimes to purchase, sometimes to pass the time of day, and often times to enjoy, "I Heard a Brown Bird Singing," sung in Madeline's beautiful voice.

Mr. John Moulton's store is in the lower part of the village. It is modern and well equipped. People from many villages trade at "Moulton's Store" knowing they will find excellent commodities and receive most courteous treatment. Should attention be needed for one's car, gas and oil may here be purchased.

It is a home-like store that contains the answer to perplexing food problems of many housewives. It is a place one likes to enter.

In the upper part of the village, Mr. F. C. Leedham and Sons, own a prosperous store. It is enjoyable to wander from shelf to shelf and make a choice of purchases, and so the arduous duty of shopping becomes a pastime. Here, the Whitney Bus stops four times a day, and here, a car may be refueled for greater speed. Minor automobile troubles and injured tires can be efficiently cared for. One likes to trade with the Leedham's.

Dallas Cutter has a traveling store. A huge truck that carries provisions to those who live in camps and in remote hamlets. At home, Dallas, has a stock room, where one may purchase commodities without waiting for the well filled vehicle to stop before the door.

History and customs repeat themselves. In this store that rolls its way through pleasant valleys and over steep and rocky hills, can be traced continuation of the traveling peddler of older times.

On many village shelves, a bit of Sandwich glass, a fancifully wrought iron trivet or a graceful figurine, are eloquent expression of the exquisite choice of some departed ancestor, who in the shade of the village elms, bartered with a traveling merchant.

Today, our traveling store, as of old, wheels through the village, and away to the outlying country. Now, as yester year, it brings the fruits of the earth to those who venture out into the world but seldom. Dallas, with his cheery smile, is always very welcome.

There is something very pleasant about a party. Now and then, young and old, take keen delight in brushing aside the duties of the hour, and for a brief space of time, make merry as a holiday.

Miss Doreen Damon last week entertained a party of fourteen, at her Cozy Cove Cabin on the shore of Contention pond. Hot dogs, marshmallows, and coffee, were served amidst much fun and laughter from the young people.

Birthdays are happy sign posts on the highway of life, particularly when their advent is celebrated with affection.

On last Wednesday, the members of the Ladies' Circle, assembled in the school house to wish a happy birthday to the teacher, Mrs. Georgianna Gile. A handsome cake, very much of a confection, was made by Mrs. John Moulton, frosted by Mrs. Irving Jones, and presented to Mrs. Gile by the president of the society, Mrs. John Moulton. Cup cakes and ice-cream were enjoyed by the children.

After the festivities, the guests went to the home of Mrs. Geraldine Bumford, who lives on the road to Sulphur Hill. Here was held the first meeting in October of the Ladies' Aid.

Mrs. Bumford and her husband live in a house that spells contentment. Its setting is ideal. It stands upon a slight rise of land, and commands so lovely a view that it is indeed an earthly Paradise.

There was once a shattered romance that wove itself into the very fabric of this charming cottage. Long ago, between two lovers, there came "a rift within the lute, that ever widening makes the music mute." The music of love was silenced through the purchase of blinds, for the bride-to-be wished her future home adorned with outside shutters.

It was a worthy project for which the young woman earned the money. On the day she bought the blinds, her heart chanted a gay song. Merrier still it rang as she turned old Dobbin toward Sulphur Hill. Dobbin's sure, unerring tread carried the precious burden to the small house so soon to be a happy dwelling place.

Before the door, the old horse stopped. With lilted laughter, the blinds were carried into the front hall. Her work accomplished, this young woman, of many years ago, began to dream. She pictured herself hanging the draperies on the windows, a frame work for the glory of the blinds without.

In almost ecstasy of joy she opened the front door and stepped out upon the lawn, for it was the springtime of the year. Face to face she met the man she hoped to marry. It was his house, his property. The music in the young girl's heart slowed to a pathetic cadence then ceased entirely. She saw the scowl upon her lover's face, heard him say in loud commanding voice, "You'll never put blinds upon this house."

Sometimes it seems there is a little imp on mischief bent within us all. A little imp so different from ourselves forces us to wound the one we love. In vain, this sweetheart wept, pleaded and protested. Bitter words were spoken. In tearful silence, she drove Dobbin down the grass grown road, away from the small home she loved so dearly.

Yet, she felt the quarrel would soon be over, but the imp within her lover's heart, was stubborn and selfwilled. Angry words were never overlooked. The sweetheart went her way and found another to share life's joys and sorrows, but alone the young man rounded out his days. Many years later, when both sweetheart and lover had gone to their reward, the blinds were sold at public auction, to grace the home of a stranger.

After a few wintry days, October smiled again upon the world with all its never failing beauty.

"O sun and skies and clouds of June,
And flowers of June together
Ye cannot rival for one hour
October's bright blue weather."

Grass is on the Move

Out of the sandhills of Nebraska, up from the Chama country of New Mexico... all the way from the state of Washington to Texas, there's a flood of livestock on the move. Feeder cattle and lambs raised in the great grass-growing regions of the United States are flowing into the feed lots of the nation. This movement reaches its peak each October, and its significance is of great economic importance to all of us in the livestock-meat industry.

These millions of head of feeder cattle and lambs are nothing more than grass turned into meat. True, these feeders will require a certain amount of grain to finish them as satisfactory meat animals. That's why they go into the feed lots. But were it not for these grazing animals, 779,000,000 acres of the land area of the United States would produce little, if any, human food. In other words, 41% of the total land of our nation consists of grass land which cannot be used for producing other feeds and foods. Also taking into consideration the plowable land used to produce pasture, hay and other forage crops, approximately half of our land would produce no food of human value, were it not for livestock.

Of the total feeds consumed by beef cattle, 78.7% is grass, hay and dry roughages. With lambs, it is 95.6%. These are official figures of the United States Department of Agriculture. Thus, the grain that goes into feeder cattle and lamb rations is but a relatively small part of the feed that makes our meat. A minimum of corn is needed to bring feeder steers from 700 to 1,000 pounds when the principal part of the ration is made up of fodder, corn silage, other available roughages and some concentrates.

In addition to utilizing grass which otherwise would be wasted, the production of livestock furnishes the nation with its finest nutritional food—meat. In the great movement of meat from the Western range to the kitchen range, the stop-over in the feed lots increases the amount of meat. It also levels out the fall flood of livestock into a more even year-round marketing. Thus seasonal price fluctuations are not so marked. In the production of livestock, the majority of America's 6,000,000 farmers and ranchers find the chief means of marketing their grass and other home-grown feeds.

MANY ACCIDENTS CAN BE PREVENTED

Every three minutes there is a farm or ranch accident. Unless something is done, 19,500 people may be killed in such accidents this year. Another 1,800,000 may be injured. We at Swift & Company want to help cut down this accident toll. That's why we print the pictures and the questions which follow. Little chances not taken, little repairs made, can prevent big accidents. Do you take the chances shown below? Check yourself.

I never handle animals carelessly

Do you have a strongly built bull pen? Do you lead the bull around on a rope because you do not have a bull-staff? Do you approach horses from behind without speaking and petting their rumps to warn them? Then watch yourself... one out of four fatal farm accidents occurs in handling livestock.

I approach animals without warning

I am never careless around machinery

Do you leave safety shields off power shafts, gears and chains? Wear loose-fitting clothing that may catch in machinery? Operate the tractor on dangerous inclines or banks? Mishandled machinery and equipment are involved in nearly one out of three fatal farm accidents.

I sometimes take chances with machinery.

KEEP DAIRY HEIFERS GROWING

by K. L. Turk, Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y.

How dairy heifers are fed and managed largely determines their future productivity. Too often heifers are left on the same poor pasture from spring to fall, and weigh less at the end of the grazing season than they did at the beginning. Frequently they are penned in a dark, poorly ventilated barn, away from the sunlight and air. Such treatment only reduces the value of the mature cow.

Dairy heifers should be kept growing rapidly, but should not be allowed to become fat. The basis of a desirable winter ration is good quality hay, leafy, fine stemmed and palatable. This should be fed freely and supplemented with enough grain to maintain the proper growth rate. Usually three to five pounds of a concentrate mixture is enough, but the better the quality of the hay, the less grain it is necessary to feed.

Heifers are usually less well fed in summer than during any other season. Those under 12 months of age will not gain properly on pasture alone. Hay racks should be filled with quality hay, and some grain should be fed. Such a ration will help greatly to keep heifers in good condition and growing fast.

TEAMWORK

While we were preparing the "Grass is on the Move" article for this page, a cattleman friend from one of the western range states called to see me. I told him about the article. "It points out," I said, "that lots of food for humans is produced from areas that otherwise would be waste land if it were not for meat animals."

He said, "That's good! There are always misguided people who complain that it's a waste to feed corn and other grains to livestock. They say people ought to eat the grain, instead of turning it into meat. They forget that most of that meat is made of grass, hay and other roughage that people can't eat."

"Another thing too many people forget," he went on, "is the important job you meat packers do in getting meat to the people who want it. I understand that meat travels an average of more than 1,000 miles from producers to consumers. That must be so because we fellows west of the Mississippi raise two-thirds of the livestock. But two-thirds of the meat is eaten east of the Mississippi, where most of the people live. In a way, we who raise and finish the animals are like manufacturers. And you are our sales and distributing departments. Believe me, we need an organization that covers the nation to get our product into every market in this big country. It seems to me that you and we are in this business together, and neither could get along without the other."

It seems to me that he's right! F.M. Simpson, Agricultural Research Department

Control swine parasites and make more profit. Even fall pigs may be infested with internal parasites. Strict sanitation is the key to control. The following practices have been found effective: clean the farrowing pens and scrub with boiling lye water. Wash the sow's sides and belly with soapy water before farrowing. If the pigs have been farrowed in permanent houses, haul them to clean pasture. Keep the pigs on pasture until bad fall weather sets in.

City Cousin, dressed up slick, wonders, "Where is farming's kick?" He'll find out—mighty quick.

Marketing Dairy and Poultry Products. The same nationwide facilities which are used to distribute meat are ideal for the distribution of dairy and poultry products. All these products are perishable and require refrigeration. Many consumers buy their butter, cheese, eggs, poultry and meats from the same store. So, as you can see, it is more economical to have one Swift & Company salesman who sells 16 or more products than 16 salesmen each selling one product. Further, costs are reduced by having the same trucks deliver these products at the same time to the same dealer. By preparing, handling and selling dairy and poultry products, as well as meat, distribution costs are reduced on all these foods. Our objective is to provide wider outlets for the products of America's farms and ranches. We have a booklet entitled "Dairy and Poultry Products" which we will gladly send you. Just write to Swift & Company, Department A-3, Chicago 9, Illinois.

O yes, I had a birthday last week and the worst feature of the day was when I was asked to cut the cake. It was the most beautiful thing I ever saw in a birthday cake. Made by Rudolph Konecny of the Fountain House and a work of art. They won't let me forget my birthday and most of the family were present to see the Old Man perform. Sure I got a lot of nice things to remember the day by. It's nice to be a grandad.
Are you interested in some nice wood for winter? Here is a friend of mine who has several hundred cords of both hard and soft wood. Just a short ways from the village. Free for the cutting and hauling away.

Well, if we can't find a big black snake, we can find the water snakes. Sen. Erwin Cummings of Lynde-boro killed a huge water adder nearly 4 ft. long and 5 inches around the largest place in the body. He was much alive when he brought him to my place one day last week. These snakes are bad for fish and small ducks. They also have a severe bite but are not poisonous.
Speaking of wild pigeons, Paul Doherty, who is caretaker of a large farm nearby, saw over 200 wild pigeons in one flock a few days ago. He planted some winter rye and that's a great attraction for wild birds. I have only seen one wild pigeon all summer. Mr. Gage, station agent at Greenfield, also has a fine flock that he feeds near the freight house every year.
Went up to Greenfield the other night and visited the new Fish and Game Club of that town. They started off with 42 members with Charles Blanchard president; first vice president, Harvey Goodwin; second vice president, Philip Magoon; secretary, Frank Hopkins; treasurer, Perley Blanchard. On Oct. 17th they are to put on a clam stew supper and give away a $75 shotgun. They had quite a few junior members present. More power to the Greenfield Sportsmen's Club.
One day last week I put out 50 banded hen pheasants. Expect a shipment of males in a few days. These were from Conn., and fine birds.
Are you interested in a female chow, 4 years old, spayed. Nice with children. Owner going away.
Last week I received membership cards from two new clubs, New Ipswich Sportsmen's Club and the Greenfield Sportsmen's Club. Thanks fellows.
My grey squirrel family are indebted to Mr. and Mrs. George E. Emery of Milford, for a half bushel of shag bark walnuts. They sure enjoy them.
Saturday afternoon I ran across a man on route 101 with a bad flat. No jack. I was riding with a man from Mass., and his jack would not jack the car up. We stopped a dozen cars and none of them had a jack or would bother to help us. Down the road came a young fellow in an Olds. We stopped him and he had a he-man's jack and up went the car. Then a nut stuck and back to his car and out came a tool chest and in no time the nut was off, the spare on and the man was ready to go. I did not know the young fellow, one in a million, but I looked him up in my book and found he was Sherman Flynn of Peterboro. Boy, we like to meet such fellows as his middle name was cooperation.

My second son, Donald, was one of the four lucky ones in town to draw two tickets to the World Series. They came on his birthday, making a nice little birthday present. Several hundred others in town drew blanks.
In the past week the grey squirrels have begun to come back into the towns for protection. They well know that the "open season" started Oct. 1st and runs to Nov. 1st. Dale street, where I live, is well populated with them. I saw six in the front yard of Dr. Rice on Friday. She has a large horse chestnut tree that they are interested in. You cannot shoot them in the compact part of towns, parks, cemeteries.
No, you cannot purchase a trapping license from an agent. This license must be purchased at the Concord office. I have a few application blanks if you need one.
Box traps are out. You cannot use one, except by special permit of the Fish and Game Director.
Your license must be prominently displayed on the front of the outer garment while hunting, fishing or trapping.
Don't shoot from a car if you want to keep your hunting license for the rest of the open season. Also don't carry a loaded gun in a car or boat, or any craft propelled by mechanical power. Resident trapping license $5.15. Non-resident trapping license $50.15.
All dogs in the town of Wilton that were vaccinated by Dr. Tenney and Dr. Loring by orders of Dr. Galloway, health officer, can now run after Oct. 1st. All dogs in the town that were not vaccinated by any doctor (Vet) must be confined till Nov. 15. All dogs found running at large that have not been vaccinated will be taken care of and the owners brought to court.

Reel" and many other square dances.

I should like to mention in passing the joy we experienced when Morris White drove us up Bear Hill, and we stopped to look down on the peaceful valley which is Hillsboro. Here was peace and tranquility. These pioneers, who blazed their way along the banks of the Contoocook River, and be-held the rolling hills, and the open fields, must have gasped at the beauty and green freshness, of this American paradise. We love it.

Sincerely yours,
Edna E. Goodsell

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Bert Childers and the Melon Patch

Bert Childers put an ad in the Clarion the other day. Here's what it said:

"Planted more melons than I can eat this year. Stop by and pick as many as you want. All free."

As you can guess, plenty of folks sent their kids over and plenty of the parents came too. Stripped Bert's melon patch in no time. And as they went away, Bert treated the kids to lemonade, and offered the grownups a glass of ice-cold sparkling beer.

Naturally it puzzled some folks . . . but Bert explains: "It gives me a kick to share things when I can afford to—whether it's the melons, or the lemonade, or beer. I guess I just like to indulge my whims."

From where I sit, if we had more "self-indulgent" people like Bert—who believe in share and share alike, live and let live, this tired world would be a whole lot better off!

Dept. of Agriculture Forest Service, is worth a second reading. Send for your copy, Washington, D. C.

Several homing pigeons have been brought to me lately marked U. S. Navy. We are unable to find their home station. Contacted several Navy Yards without success. Can you tell where these birds belong? The "A-U" and the "I-F" are also unable to tell us.

The open season is now wide open on Grouse, gray squirrels, hare and rabbit, raccoon. No trapping in this section of the state till Nov. 1st. See game laws for bag limits.

Got a letter from Judge Harold D. Cheever from Mt. Vernon, Iowa, who with his wife are visiting their daughter and family. The judge sends a clipping telling about a wild monster that has been seen in Mokense, Ill., and other near by places. Hundreds of men armed to the teeth are still hunting this big animal.

The State Planning commission tells us that we are calling many birds and animals by wrong names, for instance, the brook trout is not a trout but a Charr. The shad is not a shad but a white fish, the white perch is not a perch but a true bass. And what we call bass is of the sunfish family. The partridge is a grouse. Snowshoe rabbits
