LONG WINTERS

The winters seemed unending when I was a youngster on the farm. We had no school, usually, after Jan., until mud time was over in spring. We lived in a big house, but only a few rooms were warm enough to live in. The kitchen was attractive when I could help my mother with the cooking, but there were always so many dishes to wash! Frank used to bribe us, Ethel and me, to get the dishes done at night. Sometimes we got two or three pennies apiece, but one night it was only one cent for both of us. There was no use striking so we let the dishes wait and drove the family half daffy while we wasted most of the evening trying to decide how to spend the penny and divide evenly. Most of our time indoors was spent in our grandmother's room. She told us stories and as soon as we could sit still long enough, she taught us to play games which insured the peace of the family for short intervals.

Our one outdoor sport was coasting downhill of which we had plenty of both. We may be justly called old fashioned, but we had the same varieties of weather then as now, only more of it. This slippery crust used to disgust me. We liked to slide from the peach knoll down across the field behind Harvey Jones' barn. If we fell down on the way up, it was just too bad; for there was no time to right ourselves and nothing but rocks and the stonewall to stop us if we once got started.

Of course we coasted in the road at our own risk, but we could hear the jingle of sleigh bells and could always turn off into the snow and dump ourselves. In those days there was a sharp turn before the lowest part of Meeting House Hill. We always turned off a bit until we could see if the road ahead was clear. Now the turns are gone, but coasting in the road is not allowed. "It was ever thus."

The crust we had after a thaw when the snow settled and became frozen, was a joy for we could walk with ease and guide our sleds. The first time I was allowed out after being in with measles, I was told to slide down just once. But the crust was so good I stayed out for two hours and it never hurt me a bit. It seems nowadays coasting parties are being enjoyed by the grownups. I wonder if they walk up all the hills or climb into a car and let the gas do it.

Both of my brothers have criticized me because I contradicted myself when I told about the flour not being raised on the farm. In my remembrance, it was not, but they remember when most everybody raised wheat and took it to Henniker to be ground into flour for family use. Walter says it was darker than flour today, but there never was anything that tasted as good as the bread made from it. James Wilkins took first prize at

SOME HOPE

Some hope, but perhaps more hope than was intended, that the 1947 legislators will not be forced to devise new ways of dipping into the pocketbooks of their constituents; was contained in the report of the Interim Commission on State Finances last week. This release, and Governor Dale's week-end conference with other New England governors possibly on the subject of sales taxes, again made the state's financial situation top news at Concord. And so it will remain, more or less, throughout the current session.

The report contains this statement: "The state can end the biennium with a balance." It admits the possibility, which, in addition to sounding a hopeful note, is something of a novelty as far as official utterances on the subject to date are concerned. But the remainder of the report, 40 pages of it, is mainly concerned with the rocky road the Legislature must hoe if it is to bring about the balance. It is plain that the Commission had no intention of producing complacency on the subject of new revenue.

"IF"

To avoid new taxes, the report states, the Legislature must practice rigid economy, granting no more than already requested by the various state departments, and embarking on no new ventures which involve money; and state revenues must remain at their current level. The latter condition is a probability, according to the report, providing the Legislature does not tamper with current taxes, and in particular does not attempt to milk the race track further.

NEW TAXES

Whether the Commission believes the first condition can be met at present, and whether, in fact, it believes the state would be well advised to cut expenses at the risk of falling behind in competition for vacationists, industry, labor, etc., with its neighbors, it does not say. But it does state that by 1949 the state will need more revenue, and it recommends income and sales taxes. For the present it suggests an admissions tax, a meal tax and a luxury sales tax to foot any new expenses.

Revenue from race track, gambling, beer, tobacco, and the sale of liquor, (which currently furnishes 72 percent of the state's "unrestricted" revenue) is too shaky a foundation on which to depend, the report asserts. It adds that by 1949 a graduated income tax (along federal lines) may be possible through an amendment to the state constitution, which now allows only a flat percentage rate and very low ("poverty") exemptions; in 1949 it will be easier to judge the stability of current sources of revenue; and by that time the probable lowering of federal income taxes will make a state income tax feasible.

Two New England states now have income taxes, Vermont and Massachusetts. The latter's tax is a flat percentage one, such as could be levied in New Hampshire now, without amendment to the state constitution. In the country as a whole, 33 states tax individual incomes and 33, corporates all incomes. Twenty-five states, all outside of New England, have general sales taxes.

CAN WE PAY MORE?

Some light on the ability of New Hampshire to contribute to the support of their state government is contained in these figures on per capita income, and per capita taxes collected by the state. According to U. S. Department of Commerce figures, which many believe are too low in this instance. In 1945 the average New Hampshire income was $971, lowest in New England and more than 15% below the national average of $1,150. Available figures on tax collections, from 1944, show that

Report Progress In Union Negotiations Here

HILLSBORO — An all-day session between representatives of the Hillsboro Woolen Mill and the Textile Worker's Union held at Precinct Hall, Wednesday, resolved two points of differences in the current negotiations.

The question of a 15c general increase in wages was held in abeyance, the mill owners requesting more time for an answer.

It was agreed that split shift worker's would receive time and one half on their second leg of work, and that shift bosses would not work, work if available going to the first man with highest seniority.

Edmund Woods, Roscoe Spaulding and Ronald Buttrick represented the mill at the meeting. The Union was represented by local officers and a committee headed by Harold Daoust, T.W.U.A. director.

Commissioner of Labor William Ryley was present and was active in the negotiations.

The local union wage demand is similar to that already granted by the American Woolen Co. Mills and other major woolen and worsted mills.

After the ceremony of installation the members were served supper followed by a brief program. The next meeting will be on Feb. 5.

Vast Playground In Hillsboro's Back Yard

HILLSBORO — An outline of progress made in various activities of the Dartmouth-Lake Sunapee Region Association was given the board of directors by Executive Secretary Albert S. Carlson at a board meeting Friday night, Jan. 10, at Claremont. Newspapermen of this section were guests of the association at dinner following the discussion. Following the meeting members and guests were taken on a tour through the Claremont Daily Eagle plant.

Considerable discussion centered on the Mount Sunapee tramway development, termed by its advocates the most important undertaking in the history of the region.

All indications point to approval of the project by the Governor and Council.

The possibility of future development as an adjunct to the Mount

Kickoff Dinner Monday For Concord Hospital Drive

HILLSBORO — The public campaign for subscriptions to complete the $1,000,000 building fund for the construction of the new Concord Hospital will start Monday night, (January 27) when 40 team members from Hillsboro and Washington join nearly 800 other volunteers at the opening dinner to be held in the auditorium of Concord High School at 8:30 o'clock. It was announced today by Hiram W. Johnson, community chairman for Hillsboro and Washington of the three-week campaign.

Also included in the army of volunteers which will seek subscriptions in 32 communities for the new, seven-story medical center to replace the Margaret Pillsbury and New Hampshire units of Concord Hospital are 64 men and women of Hillsboro, Bennington, Bradford, Henniker and Wear.

Mrs. Robert Hill left Wednesday, for Chicago, to visit her husband who is ill in the hospital. Mr. Hill suffered a heart attack last week in Chicago, while on a business trip.

About 150 people attended the musical program at the Baptist church last week, which was presented by the Manchester Masonic Temple Choir. Many varied selections, accompanied by Douglas Rafter, were enjoyed by the appreciated audience.

On Jan. 31, at the Antrim Town Hall, a basketball game was played between Antrim and Hollis teams. The Antrim girls won 23-14, and the Hollis boys won their game 44-24, before a large crowd of fans.

ANTRIM I.O.O.F. HALL FOR SCHOOL LUNCHES

ANTRIM — Through the generosity of the local Odd Fellows, who agreed to rent their kitchen and dining room to the Antrim School Board for a very modest daily fee, Antrim school pupils numbering over 100 are now enjoying a completely nutritionally balanced hot lunch each noon in the rented hall.

Superintendent of Schools, Stewart V. McCormack, pointed out that although no one locally denied the great need for the hot lunch program, inertia and lack of proper space combined to deprive the youngsters of their now commonly recognized rights, until trustees of the Odd Fellows offered the use of their Hall with all facilities.

With this arrangement completed, Chairman Carroll W. Johnson met with Mr. Archie Swett and Miss Myrtle Brooks of the Antrim School Board and made the plans which quickly got the program into operation.

Mrs. Howard Humphrey is in charge of the daily preparation of the large amounts of food needed to feed a hundred hungry boys and girls, and is ably assisted by Mrs. Mary Warren. The menus have been prepared from basic recipes guaranteeing nutritionally complete and tempting meals. Mr. Rodney C. Dresser, Headmaster, has made all technical arrangements and has selected Miss Jeanne Steacie, of the High School faculty, as the accountant. Other teachers will serve in turns as supervisors. Mrs. Rodney C. Dresser contributed much valuable time in helping to organize the dining room procedures during the first week.

This program is particularly beneficial at the present time because of the large number of pupils coming to school on the bus who would be unable to obtain a hot lunch if it were not in operation.

Mrs. Humphrey has issued an invitation to any interested parents or friends to visit the program in operation and to see for themselves the needs that it's filling.

BAPTIST CHURCH NOTES

This Sunday, Jan. 26, in the Antrim Baptist church, the Sunday School pupils meet at 9:45 a.m., and at 10 a.m., there will be a special "Youth Service" with the young folks of the church assisting Rev. D. F. Perron. The Pastor's sermon is entitled "Silver and Gold Have I None," and the children's story is called "Stop Praying." For the morning's music the Junior Male Quartet will sing, "There is a Place For Our Redemption," by Aller, and Mrs. Elizabeth Tenny's soprano solo is "How Lovely Are Thy Dwellings," by Liddle. A missionary story will be related by Mrs. Rose Poor.

At 6 p.m., there will not be a meeting of the Christian Endeavor. This week's evening service will be a worship service in dramatic form, built around the fall study program and lessons learned from them, and presented by the Baptist young people in the church at 7 p.m. Mrs. Evelyn Perron directed the play and Mrs. Alice Hurlin had charge of the costumes and production arrangements. Mrs. Elizabeth Tenny is soloist of the drama, "Out of Nazareth," and those appearing in the play are as follows: Robert Warren, Charles Butterfield, Duane Perron, Norman Wallace, Beatrice Wallace, Pauline Brooks, Viola Gooley, Jacqueline Rokes, Leona Allison, Shirley Miner, Ruth Clark, Marguerite Worth and Eddythe Fournier.

Jan. 30th the regular mid-week prayer service will be held in the vestry.

Monday, Jan. 27, in the vestry of the Baptist church, a social of the Christian Endeavor Society will be held. A "red letter date" to remember will be Feb. 9, when Ernest Johnson, negro tenor from Boston, will present a concert of sacred music. This Sunday evening program of negro spirituals will be open to the members of the community, as well as the church.

HILLSBORO SCHOOL LUNCH PROGRAM WELL RECEIVED

HILLSBORO — Hot noon lunches for pupils in schools of the Hillsboro Special School District, became a reality on January 13th when the newly converted cafeteria atop the Grammar School opened for business, and Hillsboro belatedly joined the vast ranks of schools serving noon lunches to pupils.

On hand for the occasion was Chairman James Ellsworth of the School Board, long an advocate of such a healthful lunch program. Mr. Ellsworth showed his elation at the success of his efforts by helping to serve plates of steaming hot American Chop Suey to the smaller youngsters who couldn't wait on themselves. He was accompanied at the opening event by Mr. Elwood Mason and Mrs. John Hinging on the approval by Governor Dale and his Council the development of the Lake Sunapee tramway would benefit this area immeasurably. Professional authorities who have considered and fathered the Lake Sunapee tramway development, say it would surpass the White Mountain developments in importance. It might possibly become the winter and summer playground of the New England states, having as it does, the necessary requisites, they declare.

Though 25 miles from Hillsboro, the tramway would lead, by example, to development of the Pillsbury Forest, a huge expanse of woods and lake area, and adjacent regions bordered on Hillsboro by both private and state resources.

Located between this vast recreational area and the line of traffic from Boston and the populous area to the south, Hillsboro, the gateway to the Dartmouth-Lake Sunapee Region, appears to be on the threshold of an era of recreational development, both winter and summer.

THE HILLSBORO AIRPORT

News that Hillsboro has been selected as one of the locations for airport development in New Hampshire was received with some surprise. Locally there has been the usual opposition, mostly in the form of mental reservation as to the worth of an airport and the future of flying.

An airport in Hillsboro would be chiefly one used by private and small commercial airplanes. It would be of the inexpensive type as contrasted to those of large towns having concrete runways, etc.

Considering the money spent on roads $5,875, would be a reasonable outlay for an airport. Serving as it will the towns of Henniker and Antrim, it is possible that some state funds would also be allocated for the Hillsboro airstrip.

Just as the automobile was a novelty in the days of poor roads, without airports there will be no increased use of the airplane or a method of transportation.

An airport in Hillsboro could be a complement to the recreational development of this region, a development which we believe to be in its infancy. An airport would strengthen this town as a business and commercial center.

SUGAR

Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson charged in a recent letter to Senator Carl A. Hatch of New Mexico that a group of New York sugar brokers are conducting a propaganda campaign to end government controls on sugar. Sugar rationing expires March 31, and price control of sugar on June 30 as things stand now.

The Secretary said that the brokers who "itch to get their fingers into a swirling, upward spiral of sugar prices" want controls dropped so that the commodity can be manipulated speculatively.

Mr. Anderson indicated that if rationing and price control of sugar were ended the price would go up to 50c a pound. He attributed this estimate to a corn sugar manufacturer.

Mr. Anderson characterized as "trash" statements that 50% of the 1947 Cuban sugar crop will be released by the Government to foreign countries. He said: "The truth is that the United States did not buy the crop for itself, but bought it for those nations which it has long represented in the negotiations and which need sugar to keep their nutrition at a satisfactory point. They allowed me to buy the crop without competitive bidding by them."

He added that if the United States had not acted as the sole purchaser of the 1947 Cuban sugar crop, other nations would have entered into the bidding and forced up the price considerably above the base price of $3.75 a hundred pounds that was finally agreed upon.

Mr. Anderson said that if competitive bidding for sugar had developed, "We would have run into the same situation that now exists with reference to fats and oils in Argentina." He pointed out that bidding for the Argentine linseed oil crop had caused prices to jump from 13c or 14c to 27c almost overnight. —Bread & Butter

PUBLIC SERVICE COMPANY LOWERS ELECTRICITY RATES

To become effective February first, Public Service Company of New Hampshire is announcing a reduction in the rates for electricity for Domestic and General service users. This change means that customers of the Company, wherever situated, will pay in the aggregate $303,000 less for electricity in the next twelve months than they paid during the last twelve months if the same amount of electricity is used.

The decrease is attributed to excellent water conditions, greater use of electricity by consumers and economies realized because of the increasing size of the Company's operations.

Three Benjamins of our village attained distinction in as many different ways. One came from a neighboring state with the blooming of the late fall asters and in Frontier Town No. 7, rounded out his many years. Another, first saw the light of day in a small cottage on the fragrant pasture road and the third, born by a rushing river, departed early from his home and drew, with merriment and gaiety, the whole world to his feet.

Who has not sat in "Kieth's" and laughed the troubled hours away?

In 1846 a little boy came into the world who was to make a name for himself in the theatrical world and was to bring relaxation and pleasure into the lives of countless people. Benjamin F. Kieth was born on January 26th, when the river was coated over with ice and the Beard brook white with frost. His birthplace was an old-fashioned house that once stood opposite the land now occupied by the Jackman Power Plant. Little is known of his boyhood, except he left home at an early age, and in Boston became interested in showmanship. He was a pioneer in Vaudeville.

A Japanese garden started him on the road to fame and fortune.
The happy idea of placing mirth in an Oriental setting was conceived by Mr. E. F. Albee, a seasoned showman.

It all came about when the "Mikado," one of Gilbert and Sullivan's light operas was being produced in Boston. Mr. Kieth, at that time owned a small museum in a basement opposite the theatre.
Crowds of people went nightly to enjoy the acting and the music of the popular operetta, but no one was interested in Mr. Kieth's wild animals or in the talents of his mediocre artists. The young man from our village became discouraged and appealed to Mr. Albee. This friend's astuteness in using a Japanese background for an entertainment not only attracted so great a multitude of patrons, that extra policemen had to be installed, but placed confidence in the inexperienced showman whose courage had begun to fail. From now on Mr. Kieth's prosperity was assured.

Today in nearly every city, Kieth's Theatres are a monument to a boy of our village, who wandering far from his riverside home, amassed a fortune and attained the eminence of giving to vaudeville an enviable position of its own.

On Wednesday of last week there was no school in our village as the roads were too icy for safe traveling.

He was a supper guest of Mrs. F.

The air is filled with bird sounds these January days. Blue jays flash through snow laden trees, their strident cries calling attention to the barrenness of winter. Now and then the plaintive "Phoebe" of the chick-a-dee is heard and the knocking of an ambitious woodpecker drilling a hole in maple or elm.
Flocks of snow buntings rise in the air uttering faint calls, then as a drifting cloud descends upon a wind swept spot of earth to feast on dry, brown weeds. A tree sparrow's lively chirp comes from a group of nearby trees and in the distance sounds the lonely hooting of an owl.

HILLSBORO SCHOOL LUNCHES PROGRAM WELL RECEIVED

Tasker of the School Board, who also helped to alleviate any difficulties of service which could have arisen when over 175 hungry youngsters came in for their first school-served lunch.

Meals are being prepared each day by Mrs. Frank Mosley and Mrs. Sadie Hancock from menus which will be prepared and supervised by Miss Helen E. Cassily, instructor in Home Economics at the High School, and who has an extensive background of training and experience in dietetics. Great care is exercised to have the daily diet conform to nutritional needs of growing children and yet conform to the modest non-profit making budget under which the program operates. Equipment for the project has been purchased with School Board funds which will eventually be equally matched with dollars from the State Board of Education.

This vast program in Child Health service and education is rapidly being organized into an efficient, permanent, daily service, which is already serving over 200 pupils daily. Emphasis is planned on the whole meal situation rather than trying just to set up a feeding station. Mrs. Eva Doble is in charge of the bookkeeping and pupil accounting. Lunchroom supervisors will be Mr. Alvin Strong, Principal of the Grammar School and Mr. Bartlett Lund of the High School faculty.

Conversion of the unused rooms to the lunchrooms was done by Mr. Lund, who had many of the tables and benches made in his shop classes. Robert Matthews of the High School supervised the plumbing conversion, and the whole job was finally turned over to Frank Mosley for some painting.

GRAMMAR SCHOOL NEWS

Out of an attendance of 26 pupils in the second grade the following had a perfect attendance for the past nine weeks: Sheila La Montagne, Norma Heath, Fay Poland, Patricia Yeaton, Christine Jordan, Richard Merrill, George Cote, Leo Demag, Lawrence Dunlap, Jack La Montagne, David Sterling and Frank Young.

The second grade is studying about the early cave-men in history, and health classes were devoted to the making of food posters. Every student in the third grade has had one hundred n Spelling for the past two weeks. The class is making a booklet about birds and has already written a story about the Blue Jay and the Chickadee.

The new officers of the fourth grade Civics Club are the following: President, John Olson; vice president, James Perham; secretary, Jane Seymour.

The fourth grade won the cup last week for having the greatest number of civic hours. Jane Seymour, John Olson, Warren Tee, James McClintock, Mildred Powell, and Robert Young have not been absent during the school year.

Finger puppets were made by the fifth grade this week and the class acted out a story from the reading book with them. Among the Thrift Posters drawn by the Governor Dale, 1946 chairman of the Council of Governors of the New England Council, called last week-end's meeting of Governors at the request of Dudley Harmon, NEC president. All of the states need new revenue and several if not all are considering a sales tax. In all probability, however, none would be willing to attempt it alone for fear of losing business to its neighbors. Although there have been official denials, there continues to be speculation that an attempt was made to get joint action to eliminate the danger of restricted finances which lack of cooperation and the attendant delay might occasion. The Council sponsors continuing cooperation in this matter through its Tax Research Council, of which John D. Langmuir, Executive Director of the New Hampshire Federation of Taxpayer's Association is currently chairman.

COOPERATION

ANOTHER BONUS
The new bill which calls for consideration of another $100 bonus to New Hampshire World War II veterans, at a cost of $3,000,000 or so to the state, will probably cause many headaches in Concord. Because most non-veterans, in the Legislature and out will be unwilling to oppose openly legislation of this nature, its fate will rest largely with the veterans themselves. Anything short of loud opposition on their part will give it a good chance of passage.

NEW APPROACH TO SCHOOL PROBLEM

The report of the Legislature Interim Commission on Education, which is expected to carry considerable weight in legislative decisions, was being printed over the week-end. Education Department Commissioner Fuller's proposals have been widely known for several months. Last week, another approach to the problem was contained in two bills drawn up by Representative Saltmarsh of Concord. Mr. Saltmarsh would temporarily exempt school districts from certain provisions of the municipal bonds statute and would empower them to borrow money for new school construction or improvements to an amount not exceeding three percent (the present statutory limit is two percent) of the assessed valuation of the school district. The two bills would loosen current restrictions on what and how schools can borrow "for construction and purchase of buildings . . . improvements of a permanent nature, for the acquisition of land . . . etc." They would not, however, solve the major present school problem running expenses and teachers salaries, except in so far as they made more money available for these expenses by decreasing the normal percentage of regular appropriations needed for capital improvements.

Mr. Johnson said that James M. Langley, president of Concord Hospital and chairman of its building fund project, will preside at Monday night's meeting and outline the accomplishments thus far in the fund-raising program which was launched last September.

"Our volunteer workers," Mr. Johnson said today, "fully realize the importance of the new Concord Hospital to the health of every man, woman and child in Hillsboro and Washington. When this campaign ends on February 13, I feel certain that everyone in Antrim will have reason to be proud of their public spirited support of a program which will make such a major contribution to the health protection of all who live in this area."

The new Concord Hospital, which is to be erected on Pleasant street, Concord, at the extension of Franklin street, will have a total capacity of 221 patients' beds and 36 bassinets, 40 percent more than that of both existing units of the hospital. Features to be incorporated include large and modern departments for surgical, obstetrical, maternity and emergency purposes, greatly expanded facilities for outpatient care, an up-to-date and efficient nurses' school and residence and the economies of operation which will result from one new building as contrasted with two separate and outmoded units.

Anyone lost a Springer Spaniel? A party in Peterboro has found one. Here is a man who wants to sell a real German Shepherd female with papers. Also some puppies, Elkhound-Shepherd cross.

Never have we had such a time with dogs killing deer as this past week. Not only my district, but all over Southern, N. H. I lost seven deer in my district in the past week. Six small 1945 does and one buck. One large adult female. These deer were all torn up and the meat unfit for human consumption. We know of three dogs that have been laid away by orders of their owners and we know of 12 dogs that the owners have tied up until the crust has softened. The deer have not had a chance. Dogs run on the crust while the deer break through and are easy marks for the dogs. In all but two cases the deer were warm when found and in two cases the deer had to be shot. All owners of dogs should check, as there is a fine of $100 if the dogs are caught in the act. Last week with the co-operation of many people we have saved the lives of many deer, as we turned the dogs off the track and in three cases we caught the dogs. District Inspector Floyd Cole of Manchester was in town Monday and he reports three killed in one day in his district. If you value your dog and your pocketbook, keep a sharp check on your dog.

The past week we have been indebted to many people for help in getting out of a bad place. Yes, we were stuck many times in the past week.

The loss of the ice house at Greenfield the other night was a heavy loss, not only to the owner but to the town of Greenfield. Mr. Babine has not decided yet as to what he will do about rebuilding.

Last week was tinfoil week and we got a swell lot of it from: Cynthia Richardson, home town. Mrs. Bradley Frost of Milford, W. E. Hall of Warren, Me., Me. E. Eldridge, E. Jaffrey, Miss Genie Eaves, E. Jaffrey, Nancy LaPonsie and Pam Center, home town.

Never saw so many birds as were fed at my stations last week. Plenty of jays.

I guess 1947 is a calendar year. I got a lot of fine ones. New Brunswick sent me down a big one, also Hopkins Bros. of Greenfield. The Transcript Press of Peterboro sent me down a picture of the town hall. D. A. Eaves of E. Jaffrey; Clinton Savings Bank of Clinton, Mass., and the Merrimack Farmer's Exchange.

Did you see the January copy of N. H. Health News? See the article of Malcolm Wilkins on "Carbon Monoxide." He is director of Safety Motor Vehicle Department. Timely notice to motorists.

Ever see the magazine called Small Animals and Fowl? Edited at Bad Axe, Mich.

Well folks, I have looked around a long time for a trap that will catch 'em—I have found it in Haverhart, made by the Alcock Mfg. Co., Ossining, N. Y. I have used one of those traps and without doubt it is the best thing on the market. They make all kinds and sizes from mice to 35-pound turtles. Better send for catalogue.

One day last week I planted in my town 139 snowshoe hares. I should have had 140, but one of them chewed his way to liberty and is somewhere in Concord. These hares came from New Brunswick and were the best lot I ever got. They were peppy.

It won't be long now to the big show in Boston. The annual Sportsmen's Show is from Feb. 1 to 9. The 99th annual poultry show at the Garden is from Jan. 15 to 19. Going down?

Oregon had an open season on elk, and early returns total 1827, with more to follow.

Are you in favor of a big boost in the prices of hunting and fishing licenses for the coming year? Well, such a bill is now in the hopper. See your representative and senator and tell him your views.

Out in the Michigan woods a doe was shot with legal size horns. Some freak!

No one has been reported taking the albino deer in Antrim and Lyndeboro Center.

Well folks, things are not what they were a few years back, when basketball was basketball! Now the other night I sat in at a game in the local gym and it was a rough and tumble—more like football! Too many fouls. That referee was blowing his whistle all the time. As one fan sitting behind me said, "I hope he swallows that whistle." I felt the same way. Joe Parrault and Pete Edwards sat beside me and I got the real dope from them. Joe is an old time player and Pete is now playing on the Legion team. They both agreed with me that it is too much fouling. Joe said it was the fault of the new rules. We would like to see the oldtime game.

Why now if a fellow looks cross-eyed at the other fellow its a double foul—two free shots.

Fellow out in Illinois pulled in an old pair of pants while fishing. He gave the pants a kick and got stabbed in the leg by a ten-inch pout-out there they call 'em cat fish—A kick in the pants!

Got to hand it to Dick Meyer. He went out after dark on the Souhegan river and chopped out a mallard duck that was frozen in the ice. This is the second duck he has rescued for me on the river.

Walter Kuusisto of New Ipswich, Hobert Phillips and Bernard B. Howe of Wilton made a long trip to New Ipswich the other day to get a deer killed by dogs. Ten miles on bearpaw snowshoes is no cinch.

One day last week Chief of Police Philip Magoon of Greenfield was fishing Otter lake and caught a square tailed trout a foot long. Phil said the trout would go at least a pound and one-half. Many men on the lake saw the fish before Phil dropped it back into the water (under the ice, and it's still there!)

Thanks for the many tips I got last week. Most of them were 100% correct. Saved a few deer by these tips.

Speaking of tame crows - you should see the crow at the home of William Wilder at E. Rindge. Tamest bird I ever saw. Lives in the house and does not like the cold weather. Was behind the stove when I saw him the other day.

Not a yip out of the black panther for some time. Guess it has gone for the winter.

Up in Greenfield lives Philip Magoon. Now Magoon is Chief of Police of that town and it has bothered him to see the boys and girls coasting on the Main street, which was dangerous. So Phil got a tractor plow and going up on the Frances-town road built a slide for the youngsters and now they can coast without danger of being picked off by a car or truck. More power to Magoon and his tractor plow!

Did you send in your deer tag? I heard a fellow say the other day he forgot all about it. Well, there is a fine for such tardiness.

It's a wrong impression to think that you can save wild life by posting your acres. The parties you want to keep off will go anyway. Then vermin of all kinds go to live in such a place and are protected from the hunters by the No Trespass signs. Vermin kill off the game and the wild bird life. Several refuges out West that have been closed to the public for many years have been opened to public shooting and all hunters found was vermin.

How did your venison taste this year? Inspector Floyd Cole from Manchester, while investigating deer killings, found a deer yard, and all the deer had been feeding on spruce and hemlock. Such a diet would make the meat taste strong.

How much do you know about your dog's habits? One man was asked where his dog was and it was behind his stove. But, his wife piped up and said he was not there, and had not been there for three days. If your dog is absent from home hours at a time, it's ten to one he is in bad company. Better check up and save yourself a big fine.

Would you be interested in a spayed female collie? Would make a fine cattle dog, a great boy's dog or a good dog around the home. No strings attached.

A small collie dog with number 188, Framingham, Mass., on the collar has been found. People have moved from the city.

Sunapee project was also stressed. This area and the sixty surrounding lakes are located in the back-door of Hillsboro and would be of immeasurable benefit here if developed.

Submitted and approved at the meeting was the 1947-$18 budget, calling for a total of $10,570. This budget is based in part on town appropriations totaling $4,800 and sustaining memberships providing $2,620. Secretary Carlson pointed out that most small towns in the region are contributing their full share, based on the standard appropriations of one-hundredth of one percent of valuation, and that the larger towns must be relied upon to increase the grand total.

ON THE STREET

By Paul S. Scruton

We were thinking today of the airplane watcher's lookout posts and the men and women who served so faithfully during the period of emergency, first in the post at the Upper Village, then on the Flat, and wonder what became of the log books which were kept? So many of the observers have now passed on as we look back to the days and nights of watchful waiting in the heat of mid-summer and the winter months of below zero. They also serve who watch and wait. We recall one cold night when hot buttered rum was served by an assistant and even the lone cat had a nip and acted the part in a kittenish manner. We also recall another frigid 4 a. m., when our watch came after 8 a.m. Lots of anecdotes could be recalled by those observers who saw everything from chimney fires to air-planes and the far distant calling of a motor truck often called us out to see what was going on.

Solar heating may be the result of experimentation during the winter months in our locality as from observation and firsthand information we step into some of those nicely glassed-in porches and note the decided difference in temperature when the sun is shining outside. A house of glass, nicely insulated would solve some of the fuel burning problems, at least during the sunny days. No wonder Mrs. B. called me a Screwball. She also added that everybody else thinks so too. Dan Webster we find had no definition for Screwball, but its nice to have recognition from authority outside the proverbial dictionary, contrary to fact. All we can say is "Nuts to you, too."

We drove the ice 50 miles last hill with a sprinkling of sand. We did not meet a single car during the day, coming or going, but an informer did say that the mailman was just ahead. If any Blue Angel made the route he certainly would have a devil of a time repeating.

The Loyal Order of Moose now in its comfortable quarters in the former Lena Rumrill house on School street certainly picked a fine location for its future home and it has all the prospects for a bright future and prosperity.

The worthy organization should boost the morale of the town and is a power for good in the community. It now has a membership of well over 200 and a list of worthy officers.

We would like to see among other projects, a post office building and a town hall, but most of all a Hillsboro Hospital. The next best thing is an ambulance drive to Concord or Peterboro. What has become of those sponsors who were so enthused over a hospital for this community? Why let such a fine idea be strangled in its infancy?

Why not make it a law that every home owner should shovel out his own dooryard and keep the walk in front of his home at least passable? If everybody did just that much it would be less difficult for the milkman, the groceryman, the bill collector, the sheriff and the minister to get into a house without the risk of breaking his neck. From what one hears on the street some citizens already plan to leave their will by the side of the road and let nature take its course instead of clogging the Contoocook river with the refuse.

People have gone without so many things for so many years that they will continue that way until prices of necessities come down, but the sugar situation continues to be a damned sweetener and there is no substitute to sweeten the condition. With storehouses bulging with the commodity it is apparent that the sugar trust is due for a bust before long or are we just kidding ourselves and getting too fat on pies and cakes and ice-cream, soft drinks and candy? It all adds up to dollars and sense.

Hillsboro Hosiery Mill Has Annual Meeting, Monday

the World's Fair in 1893 on what raised on his farm, now "High-mountain."

Frank Gay and Paul Porter from Rosewald farm ought to know how to install officers of any subordinate Grange. They watched the proceedings at Wolf Hill Grange, Tuesday, on Monday evening and Tuesday evening they went to see installation at Bennington Grange. On Friday evening they went to Sunapee, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Warren Crosby. They saw a triple installation there, for the town has two Granges and a Juvenile Grange and all officers were installed three at a time. They had already seen the installation of Hillsboro Grange and nobody knows how many more they may see.

It takes only a little to give some people a great deal of satisfaction. Some time ago, the roadmen took away the snow from corners or intersections of Walnut. I can see only one, at Walnut and School. They do not make a right angle, so one is a very acute angle and I've seen scores of cars head directly for Baldwins' front stairway before it could turn. Now with all the snow gone, it's easier to get around the corner and cars have an easy chance to turn around there, too.

them with his cane. The old bridge is at the foot of Barden Hill and my father came into possession of the house and several acres of land at the top of the hill. He remodelled the house and the carpenters found a place in the floor of a small room on the second floor where there was a square cut out. Underneath they found pieces of counterfeit money. The rats chewed it, but I think there are a few pieces in the family now.

I crossed the bridge hundreds of times, but never heard any groans or anything else spooky, except once. I saw a large checkered adder lying on one of the rocks. It was the first and only one I ever saw. This all happened many years ago, but I could pick out that stone today.
