LEGISLATIVE APPROPRIATION OF $1,500,000 PLUS WILL "STRENGTHEN SCHOOL SYSTEM," FULLER SAYS

State Aid Needed Or Increase In Local Taxes

If the Legislature grants all or a substantial proportion of the additional $1,500,000 plus for state aid to education requested in both major programs to be considered, the state will be able to "hold its own" educationally and, over several years, "strengthen its school system", according to Dr. Edgar Fuller, Commissioner of Education. If the Legislature denies or materially reduces the request, he stated last week, there are two alternatives: Either cities and towns will be forced to raise real estate taxes to provide adequate school appropriations; or, more unqualified teachers will have to be hired, some schools will go out of business, buildings will deteriorate, reputable teachers will move out of state, and fewer and fewer of the state's young people will go into teaching as a profession.

FULLER'S FACTS

Dr. Fuller's reasoning is based on a variety of facts and figures, some contained in his widely-circu-

When good fellows get together the spirit of friendship can accomplish more than any other medium and our Catholic brothers certainly gave a fine entertainment that was not only instructive but the speakers knew what they were talking about from first hand information. The subject of baseball is very near and very dear to many of us who think it's the only game on the sport's map.

The recreation hall at St. Mary's is worth seeing and is appreciated not only by the children of the parish, but the older folks as well.

We hope the committee in charge of last Sunday night's smoker will arrange other entertainments in the future and we understand that they plan to do it.

Talk of a state lottery to raise funds more painlessly than by additional taxation is not taken seriously. Yet it is the logical conclusion of a growing trend.

Call it "income from sin," or call it a painless way to siphon off excess income, the trend exists. The fact that we may not like the trend does not justify hypocrisy when the word "lottery" is mentioned. Only by recognizing the growth of lotteries, particularly of the local variety, can we consider the problem intelligently.

We purse our lips when a legalized state lottery is suggested. We are disturbed when a high school basketball lottery comes to light, as one did in Keene and Bellows Falls the other day. Yet seldom a week goes by when some local organization does not select a lottery as the easiest and most sure-fire way to raise money.

Milford is probably no better, and certainly no worse than other towns in this respect.

Is a local lottery run for charity, good or bad?

We happen to think it is bad. Bad for Milford and bad for the organizations and individuals who take part. Bad in the sense that we believe any effort is bad which, no matter how worthy its object, succeeds only to the extent to which it capitalizes on a weakness in human nature.

We think it is bad for boys and girls to grow up convinced that you can raise more money with far less work selling chances on a stove or a radio or a set of china than you can by rehearsing a play, cooking for a food sale, or by any cooperative community venture which is creative and constructive.

There is a sure-fire formula for assuring a good attendance, or at least a large advance ticket sale, at any local affair. Introduce a possibility of something for nothing... or at least for only the price of a ticket. Offer some attractive door prizes for the "lucky ticket holder." Raffle off some addition "gifts."

To really clean up, sell chances on a radio, a stove, or anything else that is desirable, expensive and preferably hard to get. Financial success is assured. Sometimes the bother of putting on a supplementary entertainment hardly seems worthwhile.

No one knows how many tickets of this sort are sold in Milford in a year. It is certainly in the tens of thousands. The sponsoring organizations are entirely respectable. Usually the money goes for charitable purposes.

There is nothing underhanded about this sort of thing. It has simply come to be an accepted way to raise money, and its growth indicates its success. We have taken part in them, and probably will again. That is true of most people in Milford. Yet let's recognize a lottery for what it is, and not talk about "income from sin," one minute and buy chances at three-for-a-quarter on Union Square the next.

The legal implications of these local charitable lotteries are widely misunderstood.

There is a firm local belief that the words "donation" and "given away" printed on a ticket are a magic formula which removes any stigma of illegality. Best legal advice that we can get is that the pretense of calling it a donation would be set aside by a court as simply an evasion since it is always true that you don't get the ticket or chance without making the required donation.

On the other hand, these local charitable lotteries enjoy a practical immunity. Occasionally there will be a warning by police or the county solicitor, and usually that is sufficient. To our knowledge there has never been a real prosecution in this state of a charitable lottery.

Enforcement officials are loath to interfere with a local organization of good standing engaged in raising funds for a worthwhile purpose. The law is there if the situation should develop into a racket. In the meantime, if local organizations overstep a legal technicality in raising funds for charitable or organized work, there is no outspoken objection.

Our criticism is not at the lotteries as such. The morals of the situation we leave to the individual.

We do not object to hypocrisy that is unwilling to recognize a lottery when it takes part in one.

We regret the trend away from constructive and worthwhile civic entertainment as a means of raising money. A community play, minstrel show, food sale, garden party, rummage sale, fair, concert or similar program can contribute a great deal besides money. They are the kind of cooperative endeavors that make for social life in New Hampshire towns.

We are sorry to see a trend towards lotteries, however, they may be disguised, which produce money but only by capitalizing on a human weakness, and which fail to develop the less tangible values which come when individuals work together toward a common goal.

the Legislature, differs in some details from that of the Interim Commission on Education, but both are based on Department of Education statistics and they are in close agreement on the amount of state aid needed.

Some of the facts and figures which Dr. Fuller will present to the Legislature follow:

1. The New Hampshire government now contributes about 5% of the funds expended by local school boards. The national average is 40%. This state is 47th in the nation in this regard.

2. New Hampshire is the only state in the nation which assumes no responsibility for financial aid to high schools.

3. Only 150 of the state's 240 school districts receive any part of the $400,000 currently distributed in state aid. Because of inequities in assessments and for other reasons the current distribution is not always just.

4. The school tax rate, that part of the total tax rate which goes for education, varies in New Hampshire communities from $4 an $33. Generally, however, the communities which put the greatest proportion of their funds into schools have the least to show for it in dollars expended per pupil.

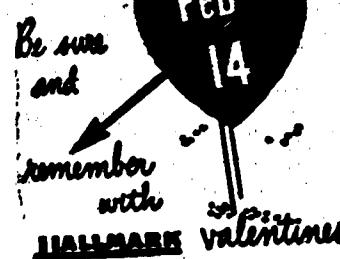

5. Eighty-five percent of the cost of local government, including schools, is carried by taxes on property in New Hampshire. Only two other states in the country depend more heavily on real estate taxes.

6. Of the state's present teaching staff of 2900, 456, the highest total in the state's history, are "emergency" (not fully qualified).

7. Teachers all over the country are demanding and getting much higher wages. New Hampshire must meet the competition. The cost of school supplies and equipment is up 50 percent over pre-war levels.

FULLER'S PROGRAM

Dr. Fuller's program calls for the annual expenditure, over the next two years, of $1,111,000 (instead of the present $400,000) in equalization aid to local schools, the individual amounts determined by an objective formula and after dividing the (equalized) valuation of each community by the number of its pupils; and, something new in New Hampshire, $845,000 in general aid to all communities, $14 per year per elementary pupil and $25 per high school student. The money would have no strings attached and could be used for the same purposes as funds raised locally, including salaries, equipment, transportation, new buildings, etc. Where education is supported adequately at present, the general aid received could be used to reduce real estate taxes. A top limit of $10,000 in equalization aid to any district is set. A minimum of $1,800 for one room school is set. In larger schools the equalization aim is $75 per elementary pupil and $100 per high school student per year.

The Interim Commission report differs in that it calls for equalization aid only; in determining the specific amounts, counts children at the place they attend school, not the place from which they originate as is the case with Dr. Fuller's program; provides specific amounts for transportation; makes all school districts fiscally independent.

HOW MUCH?

Amounts received by school districts currently and allotments under the Fuller program, in that order, follow: Meredith 0-$9,305; Sandwich 0-$1512; New Hampton 0-$2054; Moultonboro 0-$1428; Center Harbor 0-$889; Tamworth 0-$2788; Holderness 0-$1225.

Henniker $1068-$11, 346; Weare $4615-$7853; Hillsboro 0-$624; Hillsboro (Special) 0-$13,892; Antrim 0-$5400.

Acworth $3902-$5606; Charlestown $3184-$15,810; Claremont 0-$32,687; Cornish $4627-$9179; Newport 0-$24,686; Plainfield 4-$40-$10,841; Sunapee 0-$6455; Enfield $4215-$14,410; Canaan $4429-$13,465; Dorchester $1278-$831; Grafton $3263-$5614.

Amherst $837-$7487; Wilton $423-$13,568; Milford 0-$18,988; Greenville 0-$1428.

COST

No articulate opposition to the principle of more state aid to education has developed to date. The problem of financing an expanded program remains. The report of the Interim Commission on State Finances says that the Fuller request is among the new expenses which can be covered by current surpluses without new sources of revenue, providing the Legislature appropriates no money beyond present state department requests. Many believe, however, that a permanent method of financing this program should be worked out now, rather than passing the buck to the 1949 Legislature, which may have no surplus on which to fall back. The cost of the fully developed program in 1949 would be more than $3,000,000 yearly.

In any case it is doubtful if any legislative action will have been taken by town meeting time. At least until July, 1947, when the bill would take effect, if passed, the problem of what to do about school finances will remain in local laps.

POLIO DRIVE IN NEW HAMPSHIRE

New Hampshire residents are urged to help combat infantile paralysis by Governor Charles M. Dale in the following statement:

It is my hope that New Hampshire men and women will respond generously to the 1947 fund for the relief of suffering from infantile paralysis through the March of Dimes campaign.

One hundred eighty-seven New Hampshire men, women, and children were victims of Infantile Paralysis in 1946, the worst year in the history of the disease in the State.

Fortunately for them and their families their New Hampshire neighbors voluntarily contributed through the 1946 March of Dimes an Insurance fund of $53,000 half of which or $26,000 was retained in the treasures of the ten County Chapters.

But those Poliomyelitis victims needed care beyond what was raised within the State. $46,000 was obtained from the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis to supplement the amounts in the County treasuries.

The 1947 March of Dimes should mean much to the citizens of New Hampshire for those unfortunate persons the best modern treatment in medical history.

The people of New Hampshire should give careful thought between January 15 and 30 to the opportunity to contribute their dimes and dollars to help their folks who may be afflicted with Infantile Paralysis.

Each of the 23 community groups in the allied towns division has been assigned a percentage of the $80,000.

As one of the principal speakers at Monday night's meeting, Mr. Potter pointed out that residents of the towns represented more than 1,300 of the 4,448 admissions to Concord Hospital in 1945. "Our townspeople," he added, "regard the hospital as theirs, and rightly so, for it serves with equal care and skill all people in this entire area."

Team members from this town will join with their fellow workers in the public campaign at report meeting to be held at the Eagle Hotel on January 30 and February 3, 6 and 10. The closing dinner of the campaign is scheduled for February 13 at the Concord Senior High School.

SPORTSMEN'S COLUMN

by GEORGE S. PROCTOR

NEW HAMPSHIRE CONSERVATION OFFICER
Phone 104 Witten, N. H.

Here we have an un-signed letter 17 hunters from West Virginia went from some one in Boston who wants up into Pennsylvania and were to know about the N. H. laws regarding a revolver. He has a N. H. hunting license and a permit to carry a revolver in Mass. Our laws read "concealed weapons". If they settled, to save a prison term.

If you value the life of your dogs and the contents of your pocket-book to the tune of $100, tie up your dog until the danger of the crust is over. I have had seven deer killed by dogs and Barnard of Nashua has had twice that number. In all southern N. H. the loss by dogs will go over fifty deer in the past two weeks. Up in Bristol, Slim Baker told me, no crust but plenty of snow. Crust is fatal to deer as the deer break through and the dogs run along on crust.

If you don't want to feed the squirrels and the larger birds, put inch mesh chicken wire over your feeding station. The small birds go through the wire mesh, while the larger birds like the jays cannot get the grain. I feed them all. Ray Hutchinson of Mont Vernon has an ideal feeding station for smaller birds.

This is the honor roll for tin foil this week: Melvin Duval, Roland Bean, East Jaffrey, Harry Riel of Franklin and the 3rd. and 4th. grade schools in Dublin. It's for the crippled children.

A lady in Jaffrey has a large male dog to give a good home. He is too large for a crowded street. Would make a great watch dog on a farm.

James Putnam of South Lyndeboro, who is spending the winter in Clearwater, Fla., sends me up a clipping telling that in that place the temperature has gone to over 80 eight times this month. He tells about a five-foot rattle snake but Jim says never has he seen one there.

Arthur Hazen tells us that the Mont Vernon fire department are running a dance every Friday evening at the local town hall. Want more equipment. Worthy cause.

Here is a letter from a little girl who lost her Cocker Spaniel and wants another. Who has one for her?

The other night I ran over to Fitchburg to attend a meeting of the Wachusett Hound Club. This club of several hundred members is doing a wonderful work for the interests of the hound dog. I have been a member of this club for a good many years and they are a swell bunch of fellows.

there! There was everything pertaining to the poultry industry. Thousands of pigeons and as many hens and water fowl. My old friend, Jack Deeter, of Mass., was the sole judge of water fowl and he did a good job. The latter part of the day we spent with Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Sanford, Brookline. Next year it will be a big blow-out, it being the 100th.

Sure the big Sportsman's Show starts Feb. 1 and runs nine days. They tell us over the grapevine that this year's show will be better than ever and all the gun men will be there for the first time since the War. Many new gadgets of all kinds will be on display.

Was reading a far western sporting magazine and was glad to see the answer to a question. A man in the middle west was asking this magazine where he could buy a certain trout fly and the answer came back-Try Philip Morris in Nashua, as they have the most complete line of any firm in America. Boy, was that a boost for the old Granite state and for the City of Nashua and Philip Morris.

Ever hear of Gove's Game Farm in Exeter? Well, here is another credit to New Hampshire. In 1946 he raised many fancy and 900 ring-necks, besides working in a shop. In 1947 he hopes to raise 3000 ring-necks.

There is a big call for small angora kittens. Many people want them for pets.

We are sure paying for the beautiful weather we had last November. Never had such a year for snow, rain, sleet. This is a tough year for the wild animals and the birds. Feed covered with snow and ice.

Would like to know who are feeding pheasants and how many.

If your dog don't come home at night don't blame the dog. It's your fault. He may be in bad company and killing deer. Dogs unlicensed and without a collar can be killed by anyone. But that collar and tag are his insurance policy. Never kill a dog with a collar on.

We see by the papers that Armand P. Morneau of Greenville, won a prize of $5.00 from the Sears Roebuck Co., in Philadelphia Fur Market on a gray fox. This puts him in the running for the grand prize of $1,000 awarded in April for the best handled fur piece.

much it was decided to serve light refreshments at each meeting hereafter.

Mr. and Mrs. George Farwell of Board St., Nashua, celebrated their Golden Wedding Anniversary on January 13. They were married in Hillsboro at the bride's home by Rev. Samuel Eaton of the Centre. Mrs. Farwell was Lula Harriman and born in Hillsboro, Mr. Farwell is a native of Harrisville. Their one daughter, Miss Ruth, is working on a government project in the state of Washington.

Miss Gertrude Janowsky and Miss Ethel Farley, both teachers in Melrose, Mass., came home over the week-end. Miss Janowsky did not return as her mother was not so well on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Bartlett are the parents of a son, Jonathan, born at Parker House of Elliot Hospital, Manchester, on Monday, Jan. 20.

The world was lovely to look at Monday morning, for every branch on the trees must have held every flake of the two or three inches that had fallen during the night. But when the sun ventured out, the trees were soon bare.

Rev. and Mrs. H. L. Cooper of Chesterfield, called on the Nichols Sunday evening. The Coopers brought some young people to the meeting of the Youth Fellowship.

Mrs. Grace Perry has returned to her home on Whittmore street, after spending several weeks with her daughter, Mrs. Raymond Reece, in Melrose.

HILLSBORO CENTRE HAS FOUR WINTER RESIDENTS

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Hadley are living in their new home at the Centre this winter where there are now three other families, the Richard Withingtons, Joseph Cobb, and Clarence Barnes.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Sir:

Although I am no longer a resident, I still enjoy reading about the events in the Old Home Town, and neighboring towns.

I grant that small towns are subject to changes, in keeping with the times, but even though Colleges, Airports and Recreational Centers may be added, never should you lose your friendly touch. A smile, a cheery "hello", or a warm hand-clasp is a treasure that no city can hope to obtain. (You can take the boy from the small town, but you can't take the small town from the boy!)

SUBORDINATE NEWS

On the report of the Subordinate installation unintentional omission was that Chester Durrell was acting Master, Beatrice Johnson acting Chaplain and Florence Lilley, Pianist.

Monday night, Jan. 27, the regular meeting was held with Master Leonard Gray in the chair. The charter was draped in memory of Sister Minnie Weed, Pomona Seely who recently passed away.

James Wilson, gatekeeper was installed by the Worthy Master Leonard Gray.

It was announced that at the next meeting, Feb. 10, our deputy, George Gilbert, will be with us for spring instruction. There will also be a supper at this meeting.

The literary program was as follows: Roem—"It's tall but short"; Lilla Fales; Contest by Wallace Atwood, won by Hilda Wilson; Essay—"Items of interest on the United Nations"; Charlotte Holmes; Solo—"I passed by your window," Ted Reidt, accompanied by Mrs. Reidt; Reading—"Who wears the pants," by Chester Durrell.

Two members of Hillsboro Grange, Frank Gay and Paul Porter, and 22 members of Wolf Hill attended.

Duane B. Williams Is Clerk, Not Treasurer of Hosiery Mill

HILLSBORO — It was erroneously stated in last week's edition of the Messenger that Duane B. Williams had been elected as Treasurer of the Hillsboro Hosiery Mills, Inc.

At the annual stockholders' meeting of the Hillsboro Hosiery Mills, Inc., held January 20, 1947, the following officers were elected:

President—Dwight S. Williams; vice pres.—Robert D. Williams; treasurer—Eugene B. Williams; clerk—Duane B. Williams.

The Board of Directors, except for the election of Duane B. Williams remains the same, namely: D. S. Williams, R. D. Williams, E. B. Williams, Margaret Kohl, John Childs, and D. B. Williams.

In his comments to the Board, Mr. Dwight S. Williams stated that he could see no reason to expect any slump in business within the coming year.

Master—Scott McLain; Overseer—Frances Rosenburg; Lecturer—Anne Carew (by proxy); Steward—Wayne Wilson; Ass't Steward—Albert Johnson; Chaplain—Robert Johnson; Treasurer—Olive Bent; Secretary—Joan Andrews; Gatekeeper—Harold McLain; Clerks—Kathleen Whitney; Pomona—Violet Andrews; Flora—Jane Grey; Lady Ass't Steward—Alice Dutton.

The retiring Master James Carew spoke briefly of the enjoyment he had taken in being the first Master of Wolf Hill Juvenile Grange, and thanked his officers for their cooperation; also wished the new Master and his officers success in the coming year.

The installing officer presented the retiring Master James Carew, with a Past Master's Jewel. The Patron Bernie Pierce, presented on behalf of the Juvenile Grange, a beautiful Sterling Silver Flower Spray Pin to Ruth Bent in appreciation of her past years work.

There were 47 present, Con toocook 1, Ezekial Webster 5, Wolf Hill Juveniles 23, Honorary 14 and Visitors 4.

The meeting closed at a rather late hour after which refreshments were served by a group of honorary members.

FIRST MARINE DIVISION

The First Marine Division was not only the first Marine force of division strength, it was the first American division to go into battle action in World War II, opening its offensive August 7, 1942, in the Pacific at Guadalcanal, Tulagi, Florida, Tanambogo and Gavutu Islands in the Solomons.

Then in September, 1944, it leap-frogged to the Palau Islands in the Central Pacific, and then these men who began American hostilities at Guadalcanal, took part in the last battle of the war in the Pacific, landing at Okinawa, April 1, 1945.

The First Marine Division was composed of Headquarters Company, 1st Service Company, 1st AAMG Battery, 1st Chemical Co., 1st Scout Co., 1st Guard Co., 1st Signal Co., 3rd Tank

Co., 1st Transport Co., 1st Marines, 6th Marines, 8th Marines and 11th Marines.

In February, 1941, the 1st Division was activated, growing from a nucleus of the 8th Marines, one of the two Marine regiments decorated with the French fourragers in World War I. In the Solomons the division was under command of Major General A. A. Vandegrift, now a 4-star general and commandant of the Marine Corps. On December 26, 1943, this division invaded Cape Gloucester, New Britain, under the late Major General William H. Rupertus.

At Peleliu, September 15, 1944, some of the most bitter fighting of the Pacific developed. On November 2, 1944, Maj. Gen. Pedro A. del Valle took command when the Division landed on Okinawa. After days of fierce fighting, the division stormed and took the almost impregnable Shuri Castle, headquarters of the Japanese 32nd Army.
