A LOWER VILLAGE STORY
by Mary K. Pierce

In olden days the itinerant artist came to our village as to every other village in New England, tarried awhile, then went his way, leaving a group of portraits that today are called "New England Primitives."

This wandering painter usually walked from place to place with his pine boards and paint box strapped upon his back. He knocked at every door and asked for work, displaying as a testimonial of his ability, a portrait painted in the fashion of the day. A lady in a ruffled gown, a gentleman in high black stockings and periwig, or a child with a dog and pony as companions, were pictures that brought forth praises and admiration.

The price was nominal to have one's face perpetuated on a pine board of excellent quality, free from knots and stains, and if the patron was exacting, canvas could be used, but canvas was more costly. "Bed and board," were provided for the painter for as long a time as was required to complete his work.

Many of these early artists were truly gifted and their work has gained importance with the passing of the years. Others, whose creative urge exceeded their ability, have left only painted figures upon a painted background, but ever in those pictures, not worthy of the name of portrait, things of trifling consequences were given much attention. Great grandmother's shoulders are not always even, although her figured Cashmere shawl is faithfully portrayed. Great grandfather's eyes are too infantile in expression for a man of mellow years, but his snuff box is of inlaid ivory with tracing of gold. Children with age and wisdom on their faces wear tiny satin slippers, perfect in design.

Sometimes one finds a jewel of a portrait, but this is very rare. It may be a perfect likeness of an ancestor. This one does not know, but the harmony of composition, the subtle blending of light and shadow, and that indescribable something that gives depth and value to a face, are all depicted by a careful, gifted hand.

"New England Primitives," were as a rule, the work of mediocre artists and almost never signed. Some of these early pictures attained distinction in the world of art, but the greatest number are unknown, although their work has decorative value.

These painted faces of an older generation smile or frown from the walls of many homes. There is a certain homeyness about them, a certain "I belong here" quality that, in spite of poor design, lack of facial expression and carelessly executed craftsmanship, they endear themselves to those who recognize their failings, and perhaps this incompleteness constitutes their charm.

Mrs. Howard Henning, who has been visiting her parents in New York, has returned home.

Mrs. Bessie Bradley has returned from her visit in Bangor, Maine.

Mrs. Alice Gibson and Mrs. Elmar Evans have tomato plants that are producing small red tomatoes that are very edible. These plants are the property of Mrs. Edna Perk, who loaned them to her neighbors when she went to Jaffrey, for the winter. The son of Prof. Hepler of New Hampshire University, a boy of twelve or thirteen years, through patience and experiments, has produced these ever-bearing plants, that have brought him much attention in the agricultural world. The tomatoes are about the size of a small plum, deep red in color, and very accurate in taste.

Our village extends sympathy to Mr. Harold Cate of Lawrence, Mass., in the recent death of his mother.

The late afternoon sun slants through a western window and glorifies familiar objects with a caressing touch. Objects that a month ago were commonplace and lightly thought of become beautiful and cherished. A pewter cup is changed to shining silver and a stained and darkened copper lustre tea pot takes on the color of old rose with traces of burnished gold. The days grow longer and the sun mounting higher in its course seeks other motifs on which to spend its rays, but nothing is so lovely as the transformed cup of pewter and the worn and faded tea pot.

Mrs. Fred Gile, Mr. and Mrs. Mark McClintock, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Severance of Penacook, were in Watertown, Mass., on Sunday to visit the Joseph Murphy family, especially small Linda, who is recovering from polio. She is certainly making progress, even if slowly. The Hillsboro people called on Miss Edna Van Horne who spent many winters at the Fox

Mary Pierce and I did not plan together to write about our trinos of men, although it may seem so. Her Benjamins are more famous than my Franks, but I wonder if they all lived to be as old. I don't know.

Dr. Bruce Dill has severed his connection with Harvard University and is now the scientific director of the medical division, the Edge-wood Arsenal, Maryland, is part of the Chemical Corps, and the one is the Army Chemical Center. Mrs. Margaret White was taken to the Franklin Hospital last Friday, having suffered a stroke.

Mr. and Mrs. George P. Colby and Walter Colby attended the ski races on Cannon Mt., over the week-end. They arrived at noon on Saturday, spent the afternoon skiing. At night Mrs. Colby stayed in the house, but the boys slept in sleeping bags in the cabin. They went up the mountain via tramway, also, by tow-line and one other way less expensive than the tramway. George entered the races from Tufts College, where he is a student. He was the 14th, among 150 in the race and came down in 71 seconds. The winner made it in 61 seconds. Walter was several points behind his brother, but he came down in 87 seconds.

It was 10 below zero up there, and the wind blew any way but moderately. The Colbys arrived home Sunday night.

Give $248.47 In Hillsboro For "March of Dimes"

HILLSBORO — A dance sponsored by the American Legion raised $120.00 for the Hillsboro "March of Dimes," Philip Woodbury drive chairman announced this week.

Other amounts that went to make up the total of $248 collected were from the Grammar School, Hillsboro High School, the Flat School, the Lower Village School and from collection canisters about town.

The Legion committee for this first Annual dance was largely responsible for the success of the campaign this year. They announced that Denver Poland and Bobby Thomas received prizes for the largest sale of tickets. The Capitol Cafe served refreshments at the dance during intermission.

The Legion plans to make the Infantile Paralysis Fund dance an annual affair it was said.

Got down to the Statler at 11:45 by the courtesy of my son, Roy. Sat down with 100 members of the Outdoor Writers Association to a luncheon given to us by the management of the Campbell Fairbanks Show Corp. It was a swell dinner—pardon me luncheon. Every member was presented with a pipe lighter with the compliments of the show; also a two-day pass to the big time. Well, we then jumped over to the big show and when I say big, it's just that. It covered more space than ever before. I have been going down to this show for many years, and this is my first attempt as a free-lance. No uniform, no gun. I met many of the old boys from all over the country, but many passed me by, for they did not know me out of uniform. At the luncheon I sat between two men from Connecticut. One was Ralph Minard of the Hartford Times and the other was Edward Barclay of the New Haven Register, but who lives in Westerfield. I got to talking with them and what do you suppose they told me—both had lived in Peterboro. A couple of swell guys. I sat with them later at the banquet. Well, I tramped around the big show until my dogs began to bark, so I crawled into the tent of the N. H. State exhibit. This was in a swell attraction. One man Scott. The pool with the big fish charge of Stockbridge and Jessie asked me why they whitewashed two of the trout (big albinoe) from New Hampton Hatchery. About 6:30 I went over to the Lenox hotel where we met the same crowd and sat down to a real old fashioned Maine fish supper—clams, lobsters and all that went with it, with the compliments of Commissioner George Stobie and the State of Maine Dept. It sure was a swell banquet. At 9:30 p.m. Miss Nancy met me at the hotel, and we spent a few minutes with the Sanforats at Brookline and then home. Got home quite awhile before the clock struck for Sunday. It was a big day and long to be remembered. Sure, I am a charter member of the N.E.O.W.A.: New England Outdoor Writers' Assn. The floor show at the big time they said was great, but I couldn't get within 100 feet of the pool. The exhibit of Phillip Morris of Nashua just showed 'em all that New Hampshire is still on the map and one jump ahead of some of them. Sorry to have missed the good time, supper and meeting at Merrimack, of the N. H. Hillsborough County Forest Fire Warden's Association. They always have a swell supper and meeting. But let me tell you one thing—if you ever hear of the Red Men having a supper—don't miss it. They sure can put over a wonderful feed. Monday night we sat in with the Mrs. to a chicken pie supper at the town hall—it was O.K. Here we have the 1947 program of Mowglis, a boys' summer camp at East Hebron. This is a real he-boys' camp. This Club sure knows how to put over a real time. They have over 450 people in the hall and they give away more presents than any event I ever attended. Hope the weather man is good to us that night. On rural routes everywhere in America, on snowy highways of the north, on sunny by-ways of the south, live the 5,500,000 ranch and farm families who produce America's supply of food. It's a big supply, too, the greatest in the world. From your farms and ranches in 1946 came livestock, dairy and poultry products and crops to the value of about twenty-three billion dollars, according to latest available government estimates.

Of all your cash income last year, $981,660,783* came from Swift & Company in payments for livestock and other agricultural raw materials. We purchased your livestock and other products and converted them into millions of pounds of quality meats, valuable by-products, other foods and products. Part of the money you received from Swift came from our meat packing plants, dairy and poultry plants and buying stations. Another portion of the money paid out by us was for soybeans, cottonseed, peanuts and other raw materials.

Swift provides a wide, ready, year 'round market for your livestock and other products—and out of every dollar we receive in a year from sales, we return, on the average, 75¢ to you. Last year, 1.3¢ out of each dollar of sales was profit. Part of this amount was paid out as dividends to the 63,365 shareholders as a return on their investment. Part was retained in the business for future needs.

*The actual amount paid for livestock and other agricultural products is greater than shown by the amount of the subsidies paid by the Government.

Returns for Savings. It is not the investment of a few rich people that has built Swift & Company, but the pooled savings of 63,365 people. Among them you'll find farmers, ranchers, lawyers, doctors, mechanics, business people—folks from every walk of life... including 29,941 women.

The savings these shareholders have invested in Swift & Company provide the plants and facilities—the tools with which we handle your products. The return for their thriftiness comes to them as dividends paid out of the company's profit. In 1946 that dividend amounted to $1.90 a share.

Soda Bill Sex: ... what's wrong with people is not their ignorance, but the number of things they know that aren't so.

For People . . . By People

We at Swift & Company think of our business as being owned by 63,365 people, the shareholders and their families, and operated by 66,000 employees. We provide essential services for agricultural producers and many other large groups of people. Employment is created for other thousands who work for railroads, trucking firms, livestock commission houses, stockyards companies, and the suppliers who furnish us salt, sugar, boxes, barrels, machinery and a thousand-and-one other things.

A part of the business of thousands upon thousands of retailers everywhere in the nation is in purveying Swift's quality meats and other products to millions of American families.

In return for all the effort that made these services possible, the folks who work for Swift earned $164,013,099 in wages and salaries in 1946. This sum is 88% of the total remaining after all bills except taxes were paid, and is ten times more than the company's total net profit.

FEED VALUES ARE SOIL VALUES

by Wm. A. Albrecht University of Missouri

Wm. A. Albrecht

Recently a farmer friend of mine told me, "I've moved to another farm where I get bigger yields in all my feed crops. But even though I shovel much more corn and pitch a lot more hay, I can't get my calves to market as early. I'm just not growing as much meat per acre."

This man doesn't realize that feed bulk is no indication of feed value. Livestock will not gain more on larger rations unless the feed value of any crop is derived from the basic plant food elements found in the soil. The crop must first build up the woody structure that makes up its bulk. Then, if soil conditions are right, the plant will store up a supply of the raw materials of protein, vitamins, and mineral compounds. Thus, whether a crop offers anything more than bulk and fattening power depends on the condition of the soil on which it grew.

Livestock may be fed great quantities of feedstuffs produced on poor soils and still fail to gain weight. It is soil that has been guarded against erosion, fertilized properly, and carefully managed, that grows nutritious crops. Such soil will produce crops that give better feeding results and make more meat per acre.

Swift & Company

UNION STOCK YARDS, CHICAGO 9, ILLINOIS

Nutrition is our business—and yours

"WHERE DID THAT $1,308,364,155 GO?"

During 1946 Swift & Company received $1,308,364,155 from the sale of its products and by-products. By the end of the year the Company had earned a net profit of $16,394,739, which is slightly less than 1.3¢ on each dollar of sales.

What happened to the rest of that money?

Well, the largest part was paid to farmers and ranchers who sold us livestock and other agricultural products. They got $981,660,783* or 75¢ out of the average sales dollar we received for products sold, including all by-products such as hides, wool, soybean meal, etc.

The next largest portion of our sales dollar went to all Swift employees. Their share of the dollar was 12.6¢.

Fuel, barrels, boxes, paper, salt, sugar and other supplies took 4.8¢ out of the average dollar.

Transportation (Meat travels, on the average, over 1,000 miles from producer to consumer.) took 2¢.

Taxes took another 1¢. All other expenses, including depreciation, interest and miscellaneous business costs, amounted to 3.3¢.

All these costs taken out of the sales dollar left 1.3¢. This was Swift & Company's net profit in 1946—a profit of only 1/4 of 1¢ on each pound of the millions of pounds of products and by-products handled.

Back again on the job after a real day in the Bean City. Got down to the Statler at 11:45 by the courtesy of my son, Roy. Sat down with 100 members of the Outdoor Writers Association to a luncheon given to us by the management of the Campbell Fairbanks Show Corp. It was a swell dinner—pardon me luncheon. Every member was presented with a pipe lighter with the compliments of the show; also a two-day pass to the big time. Well, we then jumped over to the big show and when I say big, it's just that. It covered more space than ever before. I have been going down to this show for many years, and this is my first attempt as a free-lance. No uniform, no gun. I met many of the old boys from all over the country, but many passed me by, for they did not know me out of uniform.

At the luncheon I sat between two men from Connecticut. One was Ralph Minard of the Hartford Times and the other was Edward Barclay of the New Haven Register, but who lives in Westfield. I got to talking with them and what do you suppose they told me—both had lived in Peterboro. A couple of swell guys. I sat with them later at the banquet.

Well, I tramped around the big show until my dogs began to bark, so I crawled into the tent of the N. H. State exhibit. This was in was a swell attraction. One man Scott. The pool with the big fish charge of Stockbridge and Jessie asked me why they whitewashed two of the trout (big albinoe) from New Hampton Hatchery.

About 6:30 I went over to the Lenox hotel where we met the same crowd and sat down to a real old fashioned Maine fish supper—clams, lobsters and all that went with it, with the compliments of Commissioner George Stobue and the State of Maine Dept. It sure was a swell banquet. At 9:30 p.m. Miss Nancy met me at the hotel and we spent a few minutes with the Sanfords at Brookline and then home. Got home quite awhile before the clock struck for Sunday. It was a big day and long to be remembered.

Sure, I am a charter member of the N.E.O.W.A.; New England Outdoor Writers' Assn. Ross Stevens of the Bait and Bullet Union, of Manchester, is the new president. Just before leaving for home we ran into Conservation Officer Tutset of officials. We wish them the best of luck.

Peterboro has just found a new Rifle Club, known as Noone's A A Rifle Club. Officers are Major A. Erland Goyette, president, Roland A. Phelps, vice president, Walter Raschke, sec., Warren Williams, treas., Harold Eastmon instructor, Andrew Putnak, executive officer. Believe it or not, but I have added to the "One Was Allowed to Get Away Club," sponsored by the N.E.O.W.A. Over 450 new members in the past three months. Don't you want to join? No dues and you become a life member. We give you a pretty shoulder patch for your hunting jacket.

With not all counties heard from, the state of Maine has an unofficial deer kill of 31,686, 25% higher than 1945. Commissioner Stobie reports that he thinks it will go over the 32,000 mark.

Our honor roll for tinfol for the crippled children this week goes to Margaret Naylor of Peterboro, Nancy and Georgia Lee Kendall, Framingham, Mass., a box from Boston, Mass., with no-name.

Here is a land owner who wants to know if he can hunt and fish on his own land if he posts his property. Why not, you own your land!

Man in Peterboro has seen a bear and wants to know the law on same. Bear are vermin in the eyes of the law and the state pays a bounty of five bucks on his head. Collect from the town where the bear is shot. Benjamin Rice of Peterboro says one has paid him a visit this last warm spell. Several skunks met an untimely death on route 101 during that warm spell. One was nearly all black.

Some dogs still persist in chasing deer. But the conditions are not quite as bad as a few weeks ago. Dog owners should still check on their dogs if they want to save a good stiff fine.

I was somewhat disappointed that more of the big gun manufacturers were not at the show.

The Federal Hatchery exhibit from Nashua, was upstairs this year, but they put on a fine show. Their trout and other fish were much better than I saw in all the

There is one place where they count their chickens and their egg yield by the thousands. That's at the Larabee poultry plant in Peterboro. Ran in there the other day and the young fellow who came out to see us told us the egg yield per day and the hatching of the big machines every week. Well it staggered us. We thought we could tell a good story, but I was not in it with this fellow for a minute. What a business!

The Frye Kennels at Wilton now have a new litter of corks and they are corks.

Well, if you believe in the old groundhog, we are in, for 6 weeks more of old man winter. But who ever saw old man winter die in the sky?

The annual bulletin of the Associated Sportsman's Club of Fitzwilliam, is out and a nifty little booklet it is. Gives a lot of valuable information with a good big membership and live officials.

Have you seen some of the freak bills in the Legislative hopper? Lots of them will die a sudden death in committee, and no one will be sorry but the man who introduced them.

ON THE STREET

By Paul S. Scruton

Back in 1893 the town of Antrim evidently sensed the value of properties and reports in brief were: This town has a few deserted farms, as follows, The Tenney and Dutton place west of Gregg's pond, owned by Mary Butler of Bennington, and adds—The buildings could be occupied with about $100 expended for repairs. The farm comprises 270 acres and is appraised for $960. Luther Wilkins farm, buildings in good repair, 100 acres, owned by Margaret J. Parkhurst, appraised at $600. The Noah Ferry farms, formerly the Coolee place, owner unknown, valued at $450. John Duncan place in East Antrim, owner Ruel Conant. The Frank Dunton place in the western part of town, owned by Mason Dustin, building in good repair, assessed at $600. The James Wood place, $1,950 was just bought by Oscar Robb of Hillsboro Bridge. Evidently the Antrim Town Fathers knew good things when they saw 'em. What these same places are worth today would probably stagger the imagination.

Lester Rysnik joins the February 15th, birthday list in town which is the big day for Mrs. Frances Sweet, Mrs. Walter Kelso, Mrs. Wing, Mrs. Mabel Crosby and last and least Paul Scruton. Charles Valentine Patten chose February 14th, for a birthday. There are others too who were born on the 15th, but memory fails me in my advanced years, especially after 80.

Back in 1894 this town had two drug stores owned by W. S. Scruton and H. Marcy and Sons. The Marcy store was in the block where the Butler store now is. It was the oldest drug store in town, having been bought in 1837 by Cyrus Sargent. It was the only one until 1857 when Samuel Barnes opened one in the Taggart store where the Child's block now stands. In 1858 Horace Marcy bought out Sargent. We had three drug stores in 1909.

Who can remember the days of The Hillsboro Fairs, when the old fair grounds had horse racing and all the things that go with a country fair?

About this time of the year we recall the days of the big snow roller once used and long since abandoned, and skating on Cranberry meadow now forgotten by nearly everybody. Henniker hill was a favorite sliding place for double runners on frosty moonlight nights and when the snow was packed hard and no automobiles were in sight or hardly known. Now Jackson street is used for sliding and should be made safe for the children who still love to coast. The kiddies should have at least one safe place to slide.

Some of the city folks who came here as summer resorters stay the year around and with the wind howling outside tonight and the temperature about ten degrees down the clappers, we like to picture these city bred folks sitting about the old fashioned fire-places and sense the warmth and contentment they find up here in the country. So very many of the homes in this section are closed from October to May of each year that the other side of the picture is one of loneliness and chill. The old sun is getting higher, the days are longer and February will give way to March soon. Then comes the April showers and spring. The April fool is always the person who takes down the stove funnel before the first of May and finds an empty wood box or an oil can.

Another 200,000 cords are lost through disease, fire, etc. Foresters estimate that the annual growth of new wood is about 900,000 cords. In other words, New Hampshire is spending almost twice its timber income each year. On another head, in 1928 the state realized $1,100,000 from taxes on standing timber. In 1946 it realized $339,000, about a third.

SEVERANCE TAX

To rectify this situation a number of bills are before the Legislature. House Bill 18 is a revision of the "severance" tax bill which was defeated in 1944. It would eliminate the present annual tax on standing timber; and in its stead would assess an eventual tax 12 percent on the value of that timber at the time it is cut. The land on which the timber grows would continue to be taxed in the normal way. It is reasoned that this 12 percent "severance" tax would eventually equal the revenue produced by the present tax on standing timber. This would not immediately be the case, of course, and thus the law provides that over the next few years communities may make up the difference by borrowing from the state. These are the primary provisions of the law.

The 1944 bill differed from this one mainly in that the eventual severance tax was 10 percent; and a fund to pay off, not loan, the communities was to be appropriated by the state. Since money for this fund would come from the state as a whole, communities without much timber would be helping support those with a lot of timber. Much of the opposition to the 1944 bill came from non-forested communities. There has also been objection to a flat percentage figure which would not vary with community revenue because there was no "purely conservation bill to go along with it.

"8 INCH" BILL

This year such a "companion" bill has been introduced, House Bill 21 prohibits the cutting of most trees having a diameter of less than eight inches. The six Advisory Forestry Boards throughout the state, who drew up this act, would interpret and administer it. Enforcement would be the business of the state forester who would get an appropriation of $25,000 to handle the job.

Proponents argue that generally peaking it doesn't pay to cut under eight inches, and that this bill would work for conservation and better forestry methods. Some opponents say it would be impossible to enforce. Other opposition is expected from those who are sick of government regulations, be they state or national.

NO TIMBER TAX

A third bill, which is gaining wide support from farmers, is Senate Bill 17. It would not tax timber at all either standing or when cut, while under the same ownership as the land whereon it stands. (This latter provision is aimed at portable sawmill operators and may not be constitutional). Forest-growing land would be taxed on its ability to produce timber, whether or not that ability was being used to the utmost or not. It would be the business of the Tax Commission to determine in dollars and cents the potential productivity of a given piece of land at a given time.

Hillsboro Feed COMPANY

Advocates of this bill say that it puts a reasonable ceiling on what a timber grower can be taxed (the basis is ability to grow only, not, as at present, what has been grown); that it will encourage better methods and the use of more land for forest; and that, in a sense, it merely legalizes current practice. Opponents find the law only a statement of purpose without means to accomplish it. They believe it impossible to administer. And they point out that if, as is the case, foresters cannot agree on a formula for determining the productivity of forest land, how can the Tax Commission write and administer such a formula?

Another bill submitted, HB 110, would tax growing timber at 50 percent of full value and cut timber at flat amounts per cord or foot, taking no account of market fluctuations.

PASSAGE?

All these bills and others possibly to follow are controversial in detail, although there is universal agreement on their objective. Whether or not New Hampshire gets new laws this year to at least stop the rapid depletion of her forests capital depends on the ability of the proponents of some law to agree on a law or laws.

Recent visitors to Washington have brought back the information that the federal budget can and may be cut to 30 billion for the coming year; without interfering with this country's foreign obligations, national preparedness, and other important items. Such a reduction from the President's 37 1/2 billion budget would mean $20,000,000 in savings to New Hampshire, or almost the total amount spent by the state's towns and cities in a year. It is further reported that Congressmen in general are in favor of this reduction, but have been hearing only from constituents who want continued spending for pet projects. These Congressmen are said to be anxious to hear from economy-minded voters, before Feb. 15, when the budget is submitted.
