Many Hillsboro people will remember Marjorie, oldest daughter of Roy Johnson. I knew her as a Junior High pupil best. She was then a very capable, dependable girl and I know she will make good in any position of responsibility.

Rev. Johnathon Barnes

by Mary K. Pierce

Rev. Jonathan moved closer to his study window and found himself repeating that same prayer worded so devoutly just two years ago. He still had need of fortitude and courage. Then in gentle retrospect he entered the big commanding barn of Lieut. Bradford. How clearly he could see it all. The interior had been changed into a bower of evergreens and sprays of fruiting shrubs. He could almost touch the graceful hemlocks and smell the fragrance of balsam and pine. Benches had been arranged to accommodate the congregation and on a dais were the ministers and deacons who were to assist in the ceremony.

A smile came to the lips of the Rev. Barnes for he was only twenty-three and a wave of happiness surged over him. Never could he forget the words that had engraved themselves upon his heart.

How clear and commanding was the voice of the elderly divine who had authorized young Jonathan Barnes to "take charge and oversight of the Church and flock of Christ in this town." Then it was all over and friendly hands reached out to clasp his own.

A mist veiled the eyes of the youthful clergyman. Dear to him were all these memories, so recent in the flight of time and yet so long ago. The great barn where he had been ordained was very dear to him. Oftentimes he rode out of his way to look upon it. It always seemed so firm, dependable, and at times when troubled, so comforting and reassuring. Within it he had passed the most eventful hours of his life, for there he had been made a minister of the Gospel.

He wondered if--and then Abigail called, breaking the tenor of his thoughts.

"Come, Jonathan, the supper's on the table. Three times I've called and you have never heard me. What can you see outside the window, the day's so gray and dismal?"

Rev. Barnes turned to his wife and answered thoughtfully, "The

Soloist from New Zealand To Sing at Smith Memorial

After fulfilling radio contracts, she went to Australia to further her vocal studies with Maestro Adolf Spwakowsky, brother of Tosca, well known violinist in this country. She is well known to radio and concert audiences of both of these countries.

During the war she gave freely of her time entertaining American service men who were hospitalized in that area.

Salvation Army Drive Nears Quota of $700

HILLSBORO, April 1—The annual appeal here for The Salvation Army has reached a figure close to $500, still shy of the $700 quota, according to George W. Boynton, chairman of the appeal. An accredited solicitor from the Public Relations Department of The Salvation Army is in Hillsboro to contact those who may not have been aware that the annual appeal is now underway and to afford all an opportunity to contribute.

The Salvation Army representative is Frederick Moore, who bears a credential letter and urges all who feel that they may be elsewhere when he calls at their homes to forward their contributions to the treasurer of the appeal, Marshall A. Derby, town clerk.

Discussing the appeal, Mr. Boynton pointed out that part of the money raised here is for The Hillsboro Salvation Army Service Fund. Last year from this fund almost $300 was used to provide various items of aid to residents. Groceries, clothing, medical attention, optical and ear services, assistance to fire victims and Christmas relief were furnished through the Service Fund. Its flexibility is one of its most outstanding features since it can aid all in need once the need is Centre home and made us a call also. Her niece, Ruth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Hearty, has lived in Paris ever since her marriage. During the occupation of Paris her two children, both ill with tuberculosis, were sent to a small school up in the mountains or near Switzerland where they were kept warm and given nourishing food. When they came home both were well. Now the disease has developed again, for while they have had some heat this winter they had none last year and proper food, enough of it, is lacking even though there is money to pay for it. Bad as it seems, these children are probably better cared for than thousands of others.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Hearty and daughters, Ruth and Florence, spent many summers at their home at the Centre now the Hadley home.

The State House Journal

by Bruce Stanton

Property owners in five New Hampshire counties will get a rude awakening when their 1948 tax bills arrive later in the year. With records of nine of the state's ten counties at hand, it appears that county assessments are $315,000 higher this year than in 1947. The only county missing from the Tax commission's tabulation is Rockingham.

Excluding Rockingham county, the total cost of county government this year will be $2,560,577. All of this will be a direct burden on local property owners. The cost of running these same county governments last year was $2,245,330. The biggest percentage increase this year was in Coos county, where the cost is up nearly 50 percent. The county budget this year is $306,600, compared with $207,050 last year.

Home owners in Sullivan county will have to pay $207,000 for support of their county government this year. The bill last year was $155,000. In Carroll county, where most voters are pretty well satisfied with their county establishment, the 1948 budget is $124,659. This is ten percent more than the $12,035 county assessment there in 1947.

A similar ten percent increase is reported in Cheshire county, where the county government will cost $135,326 this year. The 1947 assessment was $127,200. Strafford county has reduced its budget this year to $186,350, down $8,000 from the 1947 figure. Grafton county has slashed nearly $10,000 off its budget, will raise only $179,730 by taxation this year. Belknap county is appropriating $124,170 for 1948 operating expenses, a reduction of $14,000 from last year's budget.

The worst situation exists in Hillsboro county, where the county budget is $1,039,886 this year. That is nearly 20 percent more than the $870,968 spent by the county last year. In Merrimack county, where the commissioners have been under fire from a special investigating committee for the past year, a desperate economy move resulted in a reduction of $14,000 in the 1948 county budget. The county estimates its costs this year at $256,846.

Preparing for Convention
County government, and the question of whether or not to continue its existence in New Hampshire, will be the most delicate problem facing the state Constitutional Convention that convenes May 12. Whatever decision the convention may make, any constitutional amendment it proposes will be submitted to the people for a direct vote next November. Sometimes in past years the people have voted wisely on such amendments, and sometimes they have been unwise. But never have they had to decide a question so close to their pocketbooks.

Also in the close-to-pocketbook category will be a move to revise the state's tax base. Until a dozen years ago, most state revenue came from a direct levy on real estate. The property owner got some temporary relief in 1938 when the state turned away from property as a source of taxation, and began to depend exclusively on tobacco, liquor and racing. In the past ten years, however, city, town and county governments have taken up all the slack left when the state got out of the property taxing picture. The average tax rate is now at its highest point in history.

as Jim Russell, Jeff Heath and Eddie Stanky to Boston. Instead, the Braves' optimism stems from the fact that they think they've found some solid timber in what they thought was deadwood.

I'm talking about Ernie White and Johnny Beazley, of course. There doesn't appear to be any doubt right now that when the season opens White and Beazley will be on the Braves' roster as pitchers, instead of as coaches.

Both White and Beazley have been 20-game winners. Both played in a World Series with the St. Louis Cardinals against the New York Yankees. Beazley is a tall right-hander; White, a southpaw. Both developed sore arms that were supposed to have ended their active careers.

Beazley tried to pitch last year. He appeared in nine games for the Braves. Won two and lost none. But he had an earned run average of 4.34, and wasn't much help.

White was a coach last year, but his arm came back and appeared to be strong. He pitched the annual exhibition game at Cooperstown and also pitched the final game of the year at Braves Field.

Down here, they're talking about the possibility of either Beazley or White winning 20 games this year. As a matter of fact, if they could win 20 games between them, it would almost clinch first place for the Braves. After watching the two throw those high hard ones and snap off good curves, I, for one, believe they might do it.

Wallace Party Planned
by Reds, Rieve Says

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN. — The third party movement headed by Henry A. Wallace was not launched by the Chicago convention of the Progressive Citizens of America, but was started "many months ago and many miles from Chicago by the international communist movement," General President Emil Rieve of TWUA declared here.

Rieve spoke at a dinner given in his honor by Twin Cities Joint Board climaxing an all-day education conference. He was the first national figure to appear here since Wallace toured the state last month.

"Wallace is just a good catch for the communists," Rieve went on. "They want to demonstrate to the world that even in a capitalistic nation, while they do not possess the power of election, they do possess the power to defeat those who will not play their game."

Rieve warned that the combination of Wallace's candidacy and the southern revolt on civil rights might prevent any candidate for President from winning an electoral majority. The decision would then rest with the House of Representatives and coalition government might result.

TWUA's president also rapped Harold E. Stassen, Republican aspirant for his failure to take a clear position on vital issues. He blamed Sen. Joseph H. Ball for his switch to the reactionary camp, and expressed the hope that Mayor Hubert H. Humphrey of Minneapolis—who was beside him on the platform would run against Ball in November.

A large art class, under the direction of Stewart Bruce, congregated in the Cellar Studio last Wednesday evening.

Several pictures resembling Ex-president Herbert Hoover were the results of the evening's efforts. Mr. Hartshorn. Priscilla Baker's father, was the model so he must resemble Mr. Hoover to a great extent.

Edward Cominsky did a quick water color in the gray tones that produced a shadow effect that was really startling.

Mr. Rigney, the new owner of the estate Eagle's Nest in Deering, has been Art Editor of "Boy's Life" for 30 years. While staying at the Valley Hotel this week, he discovered the Cellar Studio and has shown a great deal of interest in our art group. It is splendid to have a man of his standing in the art world of today in our midst. Two volumes of "Magic" illustrated by him, will soon be released.

Plans for an outdoor sketching class and for the early summer exhibition are being formed. For a small entry fee persons wishing to enter craft work or paintings done within the last year may do so by contacting some member of the Hillsboro Art group.

Plan to visit the Cellar Studio any Wednesday evening 8-10 p.m.

Mr. George Boynton was a studio visitor last Wednesday evening and lent us much moral support. His jolly good nature is contagious—come again soon, Mr. Boynton.

EDITORIAL
COMMENT*Letters to the Editor

In the "Letters to the Editor" column printed below, your Editor is taken to task for the Editorial of last week, "Good News Possible."

The editorial was not an attempt to gloss over the danger of communism, which we are aware of as much as the next man. We did, however, insist that our neighbors and townspeople, members and officers of the local Textile Workers' Union, had not suddenly overnight become Communists, and that the mill closing could not in any way, by the wildest stretch of imagination be a plan of Communist Russia.

It would serve no useful purpose to make our town out to be a hotbed of Communists. As for there being Communists in town—that is, in our opinion, a broad statement. Mr. Baldwin should name them. The vague sort of clamping down Mr. Baldwin proposes smacks more of totalitarianism than of American methods of law. The American method of defeating Communism should be to make our country so well educated, so industrious, so well worth while, that not even one individual would ever want to make the United States a Communist country.

The statement that unionism is here to stay may be a broad statement, but is nevertheless true. Unionism was not the bright idea of an individual. It had its beginning in the industrialization of society years ago when men began to work for others in manufacturing centers. It is an economic development.

If you were to crush the unions or to convert them to state instruments, as the Fascists did and as the Russians are doing today, it would be only a postponement of the day when free, independent unions would again assert themselves.

As for Mrs. Chase's concern for the workers, it would be better if she were to do something for the millions of political and slave laborers in the concentration camps of the Red Robots.

We wonder what would happen to a Republican, Democrat, or Socialist who would dare to write a genuinely critical letter to a Communist Russia newspaper?

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR*To The Editor:

The editorial on page one of last week's Messenger prompts me to express my opinion of several statements in it.

In the first place the attempt in the editorial to gloss over communistic activities is just the sort of policy Russia would like to institute all over this country—a feeling of false security. There are communists in this town, and all around us and they are not idly twiddling their thumbs. It is high time we clamped down on them.

These radicals are all associated with various groups and organizations which have as their main objective the implanting of communistic principles on the American people.

Secondly, the statement that "unionism is here to stay" is most certainly biased and prejudiced. It will only be here as long as we are willing to let a few radicals tell us what we shall do. I take no issue with labor unions as they were intended to be but I do condemn them as they are. Unionism, as it exists today, is nothing more than tyranny, and I defy anyone to prove to me conclusively that the present principles of unionism are not dictated by communists.

Finally, relative to our Woolen Mill, it is evident that the union has killed it. Certainly it would be running today if there had been no union difficulties. There is no need for anything more than a local union or grievance committee in a privately owned, small-town mill.

It is too bad that a few men are so small and self-centered that they have no regard for the welfare of the town or its people.

H. C. Baldwin

To The Editor:

We were somewhat puzzled by your editorial on the present unemployment situation in Hillsboro.

May I ask how Communism and the Soviet Union comes into the picture of the Woolen Mill shut down? There were those who used to blame everything on "that man Roosevelt," now if is Communism and the Soviet Union.

It is undoubtedly true, as rumored, that a certain group in Hillsboro and out side forces, are opposed to trade unions, and for them, this as as good a time as any to break the union.

All during the war, Mr. Woods and his associates, made large profits from the labor of his workers, now that he no longer can make as large a profit, the mill is closed without a thought to the welfare of the community.

Thieves Ransack Summer
Cottages In Deering Area

DEERING, March 27 — State trooper Roger Hilton of Antrim is investigating a break in the Dr. Bercovitz home as the usual spring crop of summer home robberies comes up.

The thief took little of value but gave the house a thorough going over. A few months ago the Cleveland house on the East Washington road was broken into in spite of tear gas warnings conspicuously displayed. Not much of value was reported missing here. The Bucklin summer home on the same road was also entered.

Egg, Poultry Prices
Going Up Experts Say
by Charles Whitcomb

HENNIKER, March 29—Poultrymen from Merrimack and Belknap Counties met at the State House for their annual meeting. Leonard S.
Hill of London was chairman.
Several from Henniker attended this meeting.

A panel discussion, "Hatching Eggs Vs. Commercial Eggs" was discussed by Henry L. Stevens of Epsom, Benjamin E. Smith, London,
E. L. Bike of Sutton, and Victor N.
Colby of Franklin.

The first objective of the hatching industry is quality plus liability and growing ability. The main objective of the marketing egg producer is quality alone. We of the market egg production owe much to the breeders and hatchers for producing better birds, more eggs per bird, and greater liability.
"Brooding and Rearing" by extension poultryman, Richard Warren, was very informative.

The Extension Service leads the way to better breeding, better health and greater production. Radiant heat for brooding without hovers is one of the latest developments. Sulfa drugs are the only definite cure for coccidiosis. There is not any flush that will effectively kill it. Sulfa drugs used in water are most effective. Soda ranges have proven the best in producing superior birds and cutting feed costs as much as fifteen per cent.

Prof. T. B. Charles spoke on "Ventilation of Poultry Houses."
The goal for us all to work for is to keep the temperature inside ten degrees above the outside temperature. In winter this prevents damp houses. We can achieve this through insulated houses. Thermostat controlled fans with air chutes within fifteen inches off the floor have proven most effective when run at ten day intervals. Sand is proven the best litter.

Frank D. Reed spoke on "Where are we going?" He spoke on the recent experiment of the Extension Service of Maine in determining the most efficient strains for broiler production. If you are interested in the results of this experiment, send to the Division of Animal Industry, Augusta, Me., and ask for the broiler test report.

"Recent Breeding Developments" by Dr. C. W. Hess was a report of the progress being made in producing improved quality fowl through progeny testing.

"Disease Problems" by Dr. George Faddoul of the University of New Hampshire, discussed all types of respiratory diseases. The Poultry Experiment Station stands ready to help you at all times. If you are having trouble with diseases in your flock you can send four birds to the station and they will be examined and a full report sent to you.

Supplies of scrap for the steel furnaces are critically low. The furnaces thrive on a diet of about equal portions of pig iron and scrap. More scrap is urgently needed, if there is to be enough steel for making farm implements and countless other products. More than three million tons of steel scrap lie idle on America's farms, according to the latest estimates — scrap that only litters up the place, scrap that is wasted where it is. How much is there on your farm? How about the old car body, that rusted cultivator, those old plow bottoms, discarded tools? Every bit helps — and it is needed now.

IT'S HARVEST TIME FOR SCRAP

There's a bumper scrap crop to be harvested this spring — and there's money in it for you. Your scrap dealer will pay for everything usable. You can do three good turns in one scrap harvest:

1. You make some money on what you can't use.
2. You get your outdoor spring housecleaning done.
3. You help the steel mills turn out more steel for the implements and equipment you'd like to have on your farm.

Scrap means savings to you — if you'll collect it and sell it. On the first rainy day, when you can't plow or sow or cultivate, put on your oldest clothes and get that scrap together.

HERE'S WHAT TO DO

1. Pile up every bit of iron and steel scrap on your place.
2. Take a payload into town the next time you go. You'll make more money out of it that way.
3. If you can't drive it in, call your scrap dealer and ask him to pick it up.
4. If there is no scrap dealer near you, call your implement dealer. Ask him how to get your scrap started toward the steel furnaces.
