Coming Events

Friday, December 2, at 4 o'clock, the Benevolent Society of Smith Memorial church will hold its annual Christmas Sale in the church vestry. A new feature will be the Snack and Dessert Bar under the direction of Mrs. Ira Roach. Here you may purchase a bite or a meal, cafeteria style, at nominal prices. There will be grabs for the children, and tables of aprons and knitwear, candy, foods, jams and jellies, and Christmas greens, plants and decorations.

Thanksgiving Day

While thinking about this Thanksgiving, I naturally recall other Thanksgivings I have known. The first one I remember was when I was four and two-thirds years' old. This was my sister, Nellie's, wedding day. I can see her now in her brown silk dress standing beside Charlie Morgan in our parlor with the minister in front of them; and also the long dining table where Thanksgiving dinner was served to the immediate families, including grandmothers, Gay, Blanchard and Morgan. Every following Thanksgiving Nellie and Charlie, and the children as they came along, were always our guests. Occasionally, Aunt Ann and Uncle Orlando Huse or Uncle Edward and Aunt Naomi Dunbar were invited. When I was big enough to sweep the snow off our front piazza I could see "Old Bill" and the sleigh filled with a few Morgans coming up the hill. There had been a heavy fall of snow in the night, but the day was like spring. The last Thanksgiving before I came home to stay I was invited to a family party of forty. The next one I spent in the hospital, and there have been many happy ones since. I wonder, are we thankful enough for all we have, compared to those of other countries.

Benevolent Society

The members of the Benevolent Society of Smith Congregational church spent a busy day last Wednesday, beginning with a sewing meeting at ten o'clock when the Work Committee, under the direction of Mrs. A. I. Read, met with the president and others interested to fashion a layette. This, when completed, will be given to a needy refugee family. Members brought lunches and Mrs. Shem Barnes served coffee at noon, after which sewing proceeded until time for the regular afternoon meeting.

The president, Mrs. Barnes, led the devotional period, and then outlined several projects to be carried out by the Society. Mrs. W. S. K. Yeaple, announced plans for the Christmas Sale on December 2. Mrs. C. J. Whitehill, accompanied by Mrs. Philip Woodbury, delighted the audience with her rendition of the following songs: "Rose in the Bud," "I Love You," "Virginia's Lullaby."

Mrs. Henry Baldwin then gave a fine talk, taking as her subject: "Shipmates from Estonia." In a recent crossing from Sweden, Mrs. Baldwin found a large number of the passengers were Estonians, who after much hardship, privation and suffering, had finally made their way from that ill-fated little country into Sweden and were then on the last lap of their journey to America, coming to us under the Displaced Persons Act. GETS WINGS

Official U. S. Navy Photograph

Ensign Norman L. Halladay, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman A. Halladay, of Hillsboro, was designated a naval aviator November 2. He received his Navy wings and diploma at a ceremony conducted by Captain J. B. Dunn, USN, Commanding Officer of the Naval Air Station, Corpus Christi, Texas.

Ensign Halladay, a graduate of Hillsboro High School in the class of 1941, entered the U. S. Naval Academy, Annapolis, Maryland, in September of that year. Entering flight training upon graduating from the Academy in June, 1948, basic flight instructions were given at the Naval Air Station, Pensacola, Florida, and advanced aviation training was taken aboard the Naval Air Station, Corpus Christi in multi-engine aircraft.

After spending a few days leave he will report to the Commander, Air Forces Atlantic Fleet, Norfolk, Va., for duty.

Husband Kills Wife and Boarder, Then Suicides

HILLSBORO, Nov. 23 — The double murder and suicide in Hillsboro last Saturday is no longer news but will prove shocking to our distant readers away from home. As the result of mental illness, John Clark, 38, killed his wife, Dorothy Clark, and a friend and employe of Mrs. Clark, Mrs. Katherine Flanders, when informed by his wife that their marriage was a failure and that she would seek a divorce.

Mr. Clark was known to be mentally unbalanced.

Chief of Police Arthur Jackson learned of the murder and suicide when notified by a boarder at the Clark rooming house. He immediately called the state police. This was not the first time the police had been called to the Clark home and Jackson had taken guns from the man previously. The shotgun used in the slaying had been borrowed recently.

N.E.C. To Have Gym, Library

HENNIKER, Nov. 23 — Through an announcement made by a senior student, Robert Dackerman, of Richmond Hill, N. Y., whose father, Frank L. Dackerman, is a trustee, New England College's student body learned last Thursday that New Hampshire's youngest seat of higher learning will have a new gymnasium and library building.

Dackerman's announcement of the basic plans had the element of drama, since he went to the rostrum ostensibly to make routine announcements of Student Council affairs.

The disclosure, which had been a closely guarded secret, unknown even to many of the members of the Board of Trustees, set off a demonstration which was featured by a mass pledge on the part of the students to see that the gymnasium will be finished, along with the library, not later than 1952.

Need Athletic Center

Dackerman, who was a sparkplug of N.E.C.'s Winter Carnival here last February, was introduced by verbal endorsements on the part of two of N.E.C.'s most popular students, Jack O'Rourke, of Ridge-wood, N. Y., and Edgar Duqueneil, of Cambridge, Mass. In Dackerman's talk he pointed out how inadequate present athletic facilities are at N.E.C., as the basketball team must use Cogswell Memorial Gymnasium, home court of Henniker High and local organizations' teams. He suggested that the students themselves militantly toil, without thought of self, for the goal of building the gym and library.

He said that any rivalries in the undertaking should be competitive, class against class, fraternity against fraternity, club against club, in raising the funds.

Gift from Mrs. Neidner
Immediate support of the "three year plan" came from Max Israel, of Henniker, a trustee and a member of the College's executive committee. He exhorted the students to "do the job" and promised that he would make "a substantial contribution to the undertaking as soon as its organization has been set up."

Israel then announced that he is turning over to the project's fund-in-escrow the first large donation. He said that it is a check for $1,000 from Mrs. Cora M. Neidner, widow of the late William Neidner, of Hillsboro and Malden, Mass., who died two years ago. The gift from Mrs. Neidner gave immediate impetus to the door-to-door financial drive which is planned. Her contribution is in memory of her husband who was head of the Charles E. Neidner & Sons, Co., manufacturers of fire hose, with factories in Malden, Mass., and Coaticook, Que. Mr. Neidner, an intimate friend of Mr. Israel, was an enthusiastic admirer of N.E.C.'s fight for a place in the educational sun of New Hampshire, and regarded the College as a great asset to the communities in and about his section of Merrimack County.

To give further impetus to the building drive, Fred T. Connor, president of the Board of Trustees, spoke to the students and declared that he is delighted that the idea originated with them. Miniature bricks will be sold by the students, and members of the so-called New England College "family," door to door if necessary. No figure has yet been set as an objective of the campaign.

The Convocation exercises of N.E.C. were held today in the local Congregational church.

The District Nursing Association

by Mary K. Pierce

As the closing of the year draws near one is inclined to look back over the past months and choose the most outstanding work in our town. Undoubtedly it is the service of the District Nurse.

In times of sickness she is a source of strength and reassurance. Truly, what would we do without her? She comes to your home and to mine, kindly and dependable. Only those who have experienced her efficiency and her healing aid can rightly value her unselfish service.

Sick people, the very old and the very young, bed ridden patients and those convalescing from an illness, eagerly anticipate her visits. Oftentimes her coming is the one bright moment in long continued hours of pain.

With the same purposeful mission, to maintain health, she enters the school room. After a physician has examined the children, she often accompanies them to the oculist, and to the hospital. She tests their hearing, weighs them, and assists the dentist in the extraction of teeth. Her duties are multitude and urgent.

On April 10, 1916, the townspeople met under the direction of the Deborahs to form a District Nursing Association. The first committee was composed of George W. Haslet, Ralph G. Smith, Leolyn Annis, Mary K. Pierce and Charles F. Butler. Later the following officers were elected: Pres., Dr. B. D. Peaslee; vice-pres., Susie Pierce; sec., Harriet Grimes; treas., Lucy MacAlister; auditor, A. L. Mansfield. Today's officers are: pres., Mabel Crosby; vice-pres., Grace Perry; sec., Ruth Derby; treas., Bella K. Leach; auditor, June Pero.

Miss Etta Gile, R. N., was the much beloved first District Nurse, serving long and faithfully. Mrs. Anna Bailey, R. N., the present nurse, has endeared herself by her untiring devotion. Her assistant, Mrs. Clara Ellsworth, R. N., receives the affection and confidence of the people of our town.

In early days the nursing call was 50 cents. Today it is only 75 cents. This charge is for any hour day or night, and for anyone.

To continue this necessary work, funds are always needed. For this benefit, in conjunction with the Ladies Aid of Lower Village, the Lower Village Amateurs will present the amusing comedy, "Aaron Slick from Punkin Crick," at the Lower Village Chapel on Friday and Saturday, Dec. 2 and 3 at 8:00 p.m. Tickets are 60 cents including tax. No reserved seats.

COUNTER SUPPER AT BENEVOLENT SALE

An innovation in the form of a Counter Service Supper will highlight the Annual Christmas Sale of the Benevolent Society in Smith Memorial church vestry on Dec. 2. Here the Friday night shopper may secure a snack or a meal. Hot dogs, hamburgers, tuna salad and chicken salad sandwiches, pies, cakes, doughnuts and coffee will be on sale.

After supper bridge will be in charge of Mrs. Ronald Buttrick for those who wish to play. The supper committee is headed by Mrs. Ira Roach.

Items on sale include: home-made candy, baked and cooked foods, jams, jellies, aprons, Christmas greens and decorations, knitted goods, grab bag for children, Christmas cards and novelties. Chairman in charge of various booths are Mrs. Sam Hadley and Mrs. W. Ellinwood, Mrs. Irving Reed, and Miss Catherine Dusseau. Mrs. Charles Wallace and Mrs. Weldon Sterling, Mrs. Marshall Derby and Mrs. Paul Kuhn and Mrs. W. S. K. Yeaple, and Miss Emma Janowsky.

The sale opens at four p.m., and closes at nine.

BOARDMAN ENDORSES SENATOR TOBEY

HILLSBORO, Nov. 23 — Raymond Sawyer, of Plymouth, Chairman of the Men's Division of a Citizen's Committee of Younger Republicans for Tobey, announced today that Robert S. Boardman of Hillsboro has become a member of this committee. In accepting appointment on the Committee, Sawyer said, Boardman wished to emphasize Senator Tobey's long experience in elective public offices, his seniority among Republicans in the U. S. Senate, his independent and forward-looking voting record, and his spotless reputation for honesty and integrity.

Sawyer stressed the volunteer and grass-roots nature of the Citizens' Committee and urged all Republicans who wish to become members of the Committee and support Senator Tobey's candidacy for reelection, to contact him through Tobey's Concord office.

Merchants Plan Christmas Tree, Shopping Contest

HILLSBORO, Nov. 23 — The third annual Christmas Contest of Hillsboro merchants will get underway next week Monday with the distribution of Christmas tickets.

Last year over thirty merchants and professional people pooled efforts in the promotion which will give $100 to some lucky person who shops in Hillsboro.

Tickets are given with every dollar purchase. In addition the money raised will pay for a Christmas tree and the expenses of decorations and illumination, and for the tickets.

The committee is grateful for the tree offered by a Henniker resident, but it was not large enough, so a tree will be purchased this year as it has been for two past years.

Serving on the committee this year are George Boynton, chairman; Walter Heath, Henry Martin, Robert Boardman and John Van Hazinga with Joseph Eaton and John Tasker assisting.

HENNIKER MINSTREL SHOW PLAYS TO PACKED HOUSE

HENNIKER, Nov. 23 — The high school presented a minstrel show to a capacity audience in the Cogswell Memorial Auditorium on Wednesday evening. It was directed by Mrs. Mildred Porter, who was presented flowers. She was assisted by the teachers. The first part of the entertainment consisted of "The Darkies Jubilee" with Donold Jones as the plantation owner. The second part was entitled "Musical Round-Up Time" with David Colclough as the ranch owner and announcer. A surprise feature of dancing and singing by the teachers and janitor of the high school concluded the program.

East Washington

The Misses Nancy and Sally Ann Crane of the Upper Village were guests of their cousins, Miss Charline and Janice Fletcher, last Friday and Saturday.

The ladies met at the Hall Wednesday to sew for their sale which is to be held Dec. 3. Fingers and needles went fast but tongues went faster. Much work was accomplished, however.

Mr. and Mrs. James Salmon and little son, Jimmie, of Chicago were with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Sargent, last week.

Mrs. Alice Jenkins was at her place here one day last week.

Mrs. Elsie Fletcher attended the work shop at the New England College at Henniker last Thursday and Friday.

Charline Fletcher, Janice Fletcher and Louis Tucker sang with the Washington School group at the New England College.

Mrs. Clarence Gagette returned to her home in Massachusetts Sunday, having been with her son, Frank Gagette several weeks.

Norman Fletcher and Bob Porter have both been laid up with foot trouble. Norman was hit by a falling stick of wood, Bob kicked by a calf. "Fletch" can only burn the wood but Bob vows to kill the calf. He says he likes veal and can eat this one now with particular relish. But, their timing is poor, we should not have our Fire Warden and Selectman both laid up at the same time.

The Draper Co., has built a road from the Dr. Ulrichs two miles to the base of Lovell mountain and a skidway up the mountain. This can best be negotiated with a Jeep. The sight of the stand of white birch at the foot of the mountain is very pretty and well worth the rough ride. The Draper Co., proposes to log this off this winter.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to thank the many friends who remembered me with greetings during my illness in the hospital.

N. E. COLLEGE LOSES FINALE

CASTINE, Me., Nov. 19 — On a rough and wet field, New England College of Henniker, met powerful Maine Maritime Academy football team here today in its finale and suffered a 39-0 setback.

The Middies opened scoring in the first two minutes of the game on a reverse by Schyler from the NEC 20. The Middies scored again a few minutes later when White intercepted a Pilgrim pass and ran it back to the visitors 8 yard line. From there Schyler scored on an off tackle smash. This scoring stopped briefly but in the second quarter White again intercepted an NEC pass and Schyler did it again from the ten.

The third period saw only one score with NEC dominating play.

Another intercepted pass by Erickson, their stalwart center, and he raced 92 yards for another TD.

Giler recovered a Pilgrim fumble on the visitors 47-yard line and Contras went over from the foot line.

Small intercepted a NEC pass on the 25-yard line with Joe Masko going over from the four-yard line.

Thanksgiving Baskets

The kindergarten class of Smith Memorial church Sunday school, and its teacher, Mrs. Niles Stevens, sent me a wonderful basket of fruit and other good things to eat on Sunday morning. I was very happy to be the recipient of such a gift but even more pleased to know the children are learning, when young, to be considerate of older people and to know the pleasure of giving and not always receiving.

TIME-PLACE-FACT

by Jeanne Eccles

"What's the matter with this? Why can't I make it look like her? Are these these proportions right?" All questions last Wednesday evening but no answers. Mr. Bruce had one of the usual fall colds going the rounds but he will be right back on deck this week.

Louise Locke and Phyllis Blanchette visited the class and Phyllis worked with us a while. Some of the paintings that Phyllis brought for criticism showed a lot of promise and hope she will bring them back this week so that Mr. Bruce can look them over.

Mrs. Kunhardt and Mrs. Bosworth from Frankestown arrived a little late but in the short time Mrs. Kunhardt did a delightful impression of Betty Olson in her sporty badminton dress, of royal blue, and Mrs. Bosworth also made a fine full length drawing. With her racket in hand and taking several action poses, she kept us busy and interested. Sylvia Van Hazinga made a splendid pastel drawing, both as to likeness and coloring.

Kenneth Plimpton, the advertising manager for the New Hampshire League of Arts and Crafts, has decided that the first week in December will be the best time to put on their sale here in Hillsboro, and will announce the exact date in a few days, so save a little of your Christmas Club money for that special hand-made gift for that special person.

It seems to me that it behooves us to do what we can to support the evening forums being held under the auspices of the Henniker Educational Forum, either by voluntary contributions or by attending the forums in person. It is seldom the privilege of persons in small towns to hear well known speakers on current events such as Dr. Eddy Asirvantham of Madras, India, who spoke at the Cogswell Memorial Auditorium last Monday evening.

TIME: Every Wednesday evening from 8 to 10 p.m.
PLACE: The Cellar Studio in the Valley Hotel.

FACTS: You are welcome as a worker or a visitor and Stuart Bruce is our instructor.

UNCLE CY—SAYS

The young fellow that works for Elmer Robbins, the same one that fixed up the ad, with so many words spelled wrong, sure is doing better with his spelling. (Elmer says he is sparking the new teacher.) He had this sign up where we all could see it:

Loafers Attention!
There is no heat in your hot air. We think that you would do well; When you come to loaf in here, To bring along some fuel.

After reading that notice, I asked Justin Gray if he had his winter's wood up and under cover? He said, he had some of it up and near the shed door where it was handy. You know Uncle Cy-said he. I am different than some of my neighbors. They get their wood sawed and under cover for the winter, I ain't so lazy as that; I can saw enough after breakfast to last all day.

See where Scruton said he tagged Joe Loveren around when he was in charge of the kerosene street lights, and cleaned the chimneys on his handkerchief. (Joe's I mean.)

That brings to my mind when he was "Chief of Police," and the merchants and others gave him a banquet at the hotel. They bought him the largest gold plated police badge they could find and presented it to him. In Joe's speech he said, "Gentlemen: If I had found a nugget in California, in '49, as large as my head I wouldn't have been as pleased as I am tonight." The next day Charles Wood asked my father if he had seen the badge they gave Joe Loveren? He said he hadn't. Well Wes, said Charles: If Loveren came down over the Deering hills and the sun was just right, the people in Hillsboro would think it was a sun dog.

About time to be--thinking--alking--and eating "Turkey." Never could see the difference in the eating quality of a hen or tom turkey, as both are "gobbled" up. As I have lost out on a free turkey this year, guess I'll eat tripe.

THE STATE HOUSE JOURNAL

by ENOCH SHENTON

Don't be fooled by anybody else, or by your own cynical doubts... New Hampshire has substantially better than a 50-50 chance to get a new steel industry within the next 18 months. It probably will be in or near Portsmouth.

The steel companies that build the plant are prepared to invest heavily in an entirely new, streamlined steel mill. It will cost about $200,000,000, employ about 10,000 men and women. The federal government will help construction through RFC loans. But that doesn't mean states that have Democratic administrations -- like Massachusetts and Rhode Island -- will be favored. On the contrary. The steel companies themselves much prefer a location in a state with a more conservative, Republican administration. As far as politics, and the general attitude of the people and the state government are concerned, New Hampshire is sitting pretty.

John E. Kelly, consultant to the iron and steel supply committee of the New England Council, has prepared a list of six essential requirements. The site selected must meet every one of the following specifications:

1. Unencumbered site approximately 10,000 by 8,000 feet in dimensions; approximately 1,850 acres. The narrower side should front on navigable water at least 25 feet deep. About 2,000 feet of wharfage should be provided, permitting ocean-going ore carriers to tie up immediately adjoining the stock-piling area. Site should be unencumbered by railroads, highways, pipelines or other communications systems in public use.

(Such a site exists in the Great Bay area. Portsmouth has the deepest salt-water harbor on the East Coast, plenty of vacant land near it.)

2. Although raw material will reach a New England plant by water, the finished products will move by rail to buyers in these six states. It is essential that the site be served by rail and roads.

(The Portsmouth area has adequate rail and highway service.)

3. Plenty of fresh water is needed. It takes about 17,000 gallons of water per ton of steel. The proposed plant will have a capacity of 300,000 to a million tons of steel a year. The water must be free of salt and other injurious chemicals, but need not be drinkable.

(The Piscataqua river discharges an ample supply of fresh water into Great Bay.)

4. Adequate labor accustomed to heavy metal work, is another "must." The plant would employ from 10,000 to 12,000 almost entirely men.

(Portsmouth shipyard activities during the war trained thousands of Maine, New Hampshire and Massachusetts men in the handling of heavy metal. The comparatively high wages paid by the steel industry would attract all the men needed to man this plant, as did wartime wages paid at the navy yard during recent years.)

5. Financing, with assurance of a stable taxation policy, would interest management in picking the site.

(New Hampshire's taxation policies are admittedly the most conservative in the nation today. Company executives would enjoy the state's lack of personal income taxes, and all employees would appreciate the presence nearby of the "most concentrated recreation and resort area in the nation.")

Other states that want to push a site for consideration by the steel interests have a long and involved job as site planning and surveying job of site planning and surveying ahead of them. Not so New Hampshire. The entire Great Bay region has long been recognized as having a tremendous industrial potential. Before World War II, the state-Planning Commission completed a detailed and comprehensive investigation of the entire area, and even laid out likely sites for various types of industry that need deep-water harbors. The basic job is done; only the selling remains.

Gov. Sherman Adams already has set up an advisory committee to handle the N. H. steel project. In addition to a general committee made up of industrialists, labor leaders and civic leaders, the governor has an executive committee that includes in its membership two managers of nearby cities -- Edward C. Peterson of Portsmouth and Woodbury Brackett of Dover. Everything that can be done to lure the steel industry to New Hampshire is being done.

Phinney is Miffed
State House circles are watching with interest an intra-administration conflict over the issue of how far the state should go in prosecuting state officials who violate law or ethics in the administration of their jobs. Atty. Gen. William L. Phinney is reported on the outs with Governor Adams for simply clearing the records in two cases by accepting the resignations of Chief Engineer Daniel H. Dickinson of state Highway department and John J. Hensen, state commissioner of weights and measures.

Adams has taken the view the public interest is sufficiently served by getting rid of civil servants who violate their trusts. Phinney, point to the attitude of the Dale would prefer to prosecute. He can administration during which criminal charges were lodged against state Comptroller Stephen E. Story, and a $230,000 civil suit brought against state Treasurer F. Gordon Kimball. Story already has been convicted and sentenced to prison, and Kimball's trial is pending this autumn.

Presumable Phinney would like to take similar steps against Dickinson and Hensen, but Adams said, "No."

About New Hampshire
Concord became the sixth New Hampshire city to adopt the council-manager plan of government last week. The first council under the new charter will be elected Nov. 8. The Capital City set a surprising record in last week's referendum on adopting the manager plan. At the biggest primary election turnout in history, the city voted 4,255 to 1,672 in favor of the change. This was done without receiving any city official of corruption, and without the existence of any blatant scandals. Douglas B. Whiting, an insurance company officer who helped draw up the actuarial tables for the teachers', policemen's and firemen's pension systems in New Hampshire, headed the committee that hammered away at cold, impersonal facts to put across the manager plan.

Curiously enough, the new Concord charter is almost identical with the manager plan charters in Claremont, Dover and Portsmouth. It was drafted as a "model" charted by a committee of Concord men in 1941, then forgotten during the war. Three other cities adopted it two years ago, before the Concord committee was prepared to launch its campaign.

So many scandals have occurred in Concord during the past two years people are asking, "Who's next?" Latest is a $7,900 shortage in the funds of Concord chapter, American Red Cross. Louis P. Elkins, former speaker of the N. H. House of Representatives, after 25 years as treasurer of the chapter, has turned over his home to the Red Cross to make up part of the shortage.

Truck Dispatcher: "I'd like to place an ad offering $700 reward for the return of my wife's pet cat."

Newspaper Adtaker: "That's a mighty big reward, sir, for one little old cat."

Truck Dispatcher: "Not this one. You see, I drowned it."

Mr. Bergh who is employed at Rowe's Garage had gone home to get some warmer clothes as the day was extremely cold. No one was at home and he found a hole burned through the floor by the stove. As the buildings are small it wouldn't have taken long for a fire to go through them. It is believed that the blanket of a young dog had been pushed by the dog against the stove and caught fire.

EDITORIAL
Thanksgiving means many things to different persons. To some it means Turkey, to others a time of religious thanksgiving. It should also make us conscious of early America, of the Pilgrims, Puritans, and of Roger Williams' group, who could not find peace in either the Pilgrim or Puritan tenets and who established their own colony in Rhode Island.
The Pilgrims, unlike the Puritans, were complete separatists in that they separated church or religion from civil authority. The Puritans, while they wanted to "purify" their religious beliefs from that of the English church, nevertheless, in practice, subordinated the community to the religious organization. This resulted in its degeneration one of the causes of the witch trials of later years.
The Pilgrim philosophy of separation of church and state won out in Europe and America. It was not until two centuries later that their philosophy was to win out in the political arena - the American Revolution.
Roger Williams' fight for tolerance, his belief in political democracy was an out-growth of his belief in religious democracy. In short, he did not believe that the civil state had any right to coerce anyone to believe in any specific creed or doctrine.
He was truly one of our great ancestors. Judged not by present day standards but by what they did in their time the early Americans were men to be revered.

AVOIDABLE
The double murder and suicide in Hillsboro last week should make us all stop and think. It was avoidable.
Mr. Clark had been known to be unbalanced for years, yet he was allowed his "freedom" to kill others. Who is to blame? Is it the law which protects known homicidal? Is it the penurious attitude of the citizens of New Hampshire, represented by the General Court, who fail to properly maintain mental institutions and to seek out the mentally defective for treatment?

HILLSBORO
The American Guernsey Cattle Club announces the election of The Board of Home Missions (Congregational) to membership. They have a herd of registered Guernsey cows on their farm, formerly known as Valley View Farm.

George Boynton left this week with Rev. Moli Farmer and family to spend Thanksgiving with Mr. Farmer's mother.

"Is thar a reeward out fer ye?" asked the old galoot cautiously.
"No," said the Safety Director. "What does that matter?"

"Wal," came the slow reply, "no matter a-tall, 'ceptin' yer still lost."

Weare

Mrs. Irene Flanders
CORRESPONDENT

Cynthia Marshall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Marshall, of North Weare, (Marshall's Apple Orchard), had a birthday party at her home Saturday afternoon. Seven girls, all her schoolmates, enjoyed an afternoon of games. One which made a big hit, brought out some clever witticisms, as the girls wrote poems about each other. The decorations were pink and green, and Mrs. Marshall served the birthday cake, punch, candy and nuts in the dining room, with the girls joining in "Happy Birthday." Those present were Nancy Tenney, Sylvia Bruy-nel, Jane Flanders, Janice Wood, Irene Merrill and Theresa Hight.

Mrs. Edith Purington, matron of the Eastern Star, gave a dinner party Friday night for the officers at the Fire house. Including her family, twenty-two sat down to the super dinner. The decorations were timely, including a large star in the center of the table, with a candle in each star point. The sandy and nut baskets at each place were in the O.E.S. colors. Following dinner, the party adjourned to Mrs. Purington's home to enjoy an evening of television.

Most of our young people will be home for Thanksgiving, at least for the day or the weekend. "Mike" Purington will be home for the day, from Exeter, but his sister, Marietta, in training at Mary Hitchcock hospital, in Hanover, gets home for the weekend. Mary Flanders at Duke University, will spend her Thanksgiving at home.

Leon Taylor and Walter Holden are in the construction business. High on the hill top, I understand, overlooking Deering and Hillsboro, they are building a camp. It will be closed in before cold weather, enabling them to work inside, regardless of wind or weather. Down in Riverdale, "Woody" Wilson, who after army life, decided that Weare is a good place to call home, has his new home well underway, a Cape Cod style house that fits in with the surroundings nicely, overlooking the river.

Joyce Warren, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Warren, was taken to Hillsboro County General hospital, with bronchial pneumonia. At last reports she was coming along very well.

Mrs. Jennie Felch, of East Weare, is spending the winter with her daughter, Mrs. Charles Stafford, of North Weare.

Fall is moving time. The William Adams, assisted by Mrs. Mildred London, are redecorating the former Woodbury home, preparatory to moving in. The Ian McLean's have been in their remodeled home, just up the street, some little time. We older folks are very happy every time one of our younger generation either buys or builds, with plans to make their home in the old home town.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Regan, and Mrs. Charles Eastman went to Manchester to attend the piano recital of the five-year old boy pianist, and reported it was an evening of inspiration.

Sunday night sing this week was of special importance, as it was "Mother's" birthday. Mother is Mrs. Agnes Stevens, mother of Mrs. Ruby Sargent, and to every one else who knows her. The singing had extra enthusiasm, as every one but mother knew there were two birthday cakes as well as birthday cards, singing. Guests from Manchester were Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Flanders, also Mr. and Mrs. Straw and Oscar came in later. Mrs. Nettie Flanders was the first pianist, followed by Irene Flanders; after lunch Edwin Flanders took over, with old songs and finally Oscar, who doesn't need any music, made the piano fairly talk. The presence of Mr. and Mrs. Kamp would have made it perfect.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Whitney are entertaining for the Thanksgiving holiday. Mrs. Duncan MacNichol, Dr. Angela Greeley, of the Vandome Hotel, Boston, and Mrs. M. Dresser, also of Boston. Mr. Whitney, who is quite the expert in that line, always has entire charge of cooking the turkey.

Mrs. Thomas (Betty) Dobbs, and son, Tommy, have been staying with Mr. and Mrs. Ed Ketchum the past two weeks, while Mr. Dobbs, who recently joined the Coast Guard, is on a two weeks cruise to Bermuda.

Mrs. Barbara Mawhar, who, with her children, James Bruce and Barbara Jeanette, and her mother, have been staying with the Roy Bruce's, has gone to Yuma, Arizona, to join her husband, M/Sgt. Larry Mawhar. As soon as the Army camp at Yuma is closed, they are driving to Camp Caak in California. Mrs. Mawhar plans to return to Weare to spend Christmas with her children.

James Wilson, known as "Jimmie" through the Weares, is having a Thanksgiving furlough. He wrote home that he was one of 28 boys from the camp chosen to represent Fort Dix at the Armistice Day parade in Camden, New Jersey.

Mrs. Marianna Eaton was in town for a few days, at her home on Flanders Memorial road. She was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Simonds, of Wellesley.

Rev. Lawrence Moore was minister at the North Weare church Sunday morning. The Sunday preceding, a member of the Gideon group, held services.

Mrs. Chester French had a party of 133 at the card party at Weare Center last week, with 7 tables in play.

When storing apples, the cooler that the storage place is the better, but the temperature should not go below freezing.

Pierce Lake Waterline Higher Than Year Ago

HILLSBORO, Nov. 23 — The waterline of Pierce lake may be down this November but it is higher than a year ago, according to Dr. Harrison Baldwin, who is interested in the lake because he has a cottage on the shore.

Pierce lake resulted from the building of the Jackman dam by the Public Service Company of New Hampshire some 20 odd years ago, and much of the land now flooded was once farmland. Today with the lake low, however, portions of the old stone walls of long ago are seen.

Under the shadow of Gibson mountain the big bowl of the lake now has more than 50 cottages on the Hillsboro and Antrim lakesides. The lake is a mecca for summer residents and plans are being made by Martin Palhof, owner of "Breezy Point" to make use of the big lake during the winter months, particularly for ice boating, skating and skiing. The slopes of Gibson mountain offer great possibilities for skiing in the opinion of Mr. Palhof and his sons.

Long ago engineers warned folks then living close to the lake's edge that the slowly rising waters would eventually engulf their homes. The Dowlin home, more than 160 years old still stands although water has surrounded it during early spring floods. Most of the other homes nearby, however, have long since been abandoned.

Sunapee Region Proposes Town Resources Check

LEBANON — The Dartmouth-Lake Sunapee Region Association has proposed a test check on town resources throughout the region. A "Test Check Your Town's Resources," pamphlet, prepared for use in all types of group meetings has been printed by the association. It will show what assets a town has and the opportunities that it is neglecting. Towns and cities in the region all have increasing costs facing them in the future and one way to lessen this burden is to increase the town's assets and attractions, association officials pointed out. The Region association will supply copies of the check list in any amount desired by interested groups. Interested parties should write to Albert S. Carlson, Executive Sunapee, Dartmouth-Lake Sunapee Region association, Box 181, Lebanon.

Matthew Meaker, a theatrical producer of New York City, is closing his summer home on Loom Lake this week and will spend the winter in New York City. Mr. Meaker was the last of the resorters to remain in his cottage and said the weather during the past two months has been ideal at his lakeside property. The men's night at the Smith Congregational church vestry last Thursday proved to be an enjoyable meeting. Following the singing of songs led by Dwight Crim, Kodachrome slides of South America were viewed. Warren Hall of Concord has been to South America twice and liked it so much he will go again this winter. Sam Hadley assisted by Olo York and Henry Martin served piping hot coffee cheese and hot dogs.

Milford's Black Bear Is Offered For Sale

Want to buy a bear? The black fellow in the cage at the White Elephant Shop on Nashua street, Milford, is for sale, according to Nick Fitton, the owner of the famous antique palace.

He can be purchased for $50. The bear was brought here as a cub, after its mother was shot in Maine. Whether or not there are enough fores, chucks, ribs, shoulders, and roasts in the beast to make him worth that price is not clear. Mr. Fitton says the animal would not make a good pet.

Making your blessings count!

They can slip through your fingers so quickly—those blessings we count on THANKSGIVING DAY. Yet, this year, as in all years past, Americans have plenty to be thankful for—because we know the secret of multiplying our good fortune. . .

The secret is sharing . . . We share our plenty with people of other lands—our food, clothing, raw materials and medicines—and America prospers . . .

We help bolster free governments abroad—with the Marshall Plan and the Atlantic Pact, with security weapons—and American democracy is safer . . .

At home we protect the rights of all Americans of every race, creed and ancestry—with laws for fair practices in employment, and equal opportunity for all in education, in housing—and our own freedoms grow stronger, more secure . . .

Good fortune grows when you spread it around.

By sharing generously with our friends abroad . . . by defending the rights of our neighbors at home . . . by making our blessings count, we build a better, happier life for all.

It's the American way!

One day I was in a local store when a man came in with a huge Alredale. Two men got to talking about dogs, when one of them said, "No one can call that dog away from me." The other man said, "Here is a five spot that I can make your dog follow me home." The owner was hot and offered to bet a hundred that he could not as that dog was a one man dog and "I am the one man." The first man went up to the dog and let him smell of his closed hand. Then the first man said, "Well, Jack, let's go home." And what happened? That dog followed the first man across the street and well towards his home. Why? Well, the first man had a piece of a horse's frog in his hand and a dog or a cat can't resist it. The owner was puzzled until the first man explained. All bets were off.

A mother cat in San Diego, Cal., has adopted a litter of skunks while the mother skunk has taken over the cat's kittens. Some exchange of families.

Looks like a big fur trapping year as many a trapper is around asking for land permits. November brings the trapping season. November also closes the pout season.

Are you interested in a camp on a pond or lake? Have had many a letter the past week offering sites and camps, some of them furnished.

A friend of mine, John Hubbard of Marshfield, Mass., sent me up five beautiful Muscovy ducks born in 1949. He has a large number of this kind of duck. Noiseless ducks.

Farmers and poultry men and others not classed as such are reporting that they are overrun with very large brown rats and are looking for a rat terrier or a good big cat. If that can't do the job call on the Stanton Grocery in Wilton and get a tube of Common Sense Rat Exterminator. That will do the trick. Another stunt is to get a de-scented skunk. No rats or mice if a skunk is around.

The raccoon hunters are having good luck. I know of one hunter who has got nearly his limit so soon in the season. Plenty of raccoons and a good dog is the answer.

The boys and girls of the local high school are doing their bit in trying to keep the grounds neat and clean and are planting more shrubbery around the buildings.

The boys have formed a fire company and are checking on the fire fighting apparatus. One day last week they held a fire drill and emptied the big building in less than one minute.

It won't be long now to the deer open season which starts December 1 in this neck of the woods. All owners of dogs that like to run in the woods had better confine them during the open season on deer. Many a fine dog has met his end when he drove a deer away from a party of hunters.

A few years ago a party of rabbit hunters went to the north country to hunt rabbits. They took eight nice beagles with them. Sorry to say the men came home without the dogs. So play safe and don't hunt rabbits in the deer season if you value your dogs. A real sportsman will never shoot a dog but we have a few of the other kind that would.

Another deer open season is soon with us and will this season tell us any more about the black panthers? Many a hunting crowd from this neck of the woods have been hunting up around Corbin Park, near Newport. Not a man has seen a wild boar yet and they have made many trips to that region.

A black bear was seen crossing the road not far from this town one day last week. Must be headed for the rock heaps in Mason for the winter sleep. Men that saw it said it must have been well over 400 pounds.

Here is a brand new one for the book. Monday, a big woodchuck got its head stuck in a tin can back of the Wright's Quick Snack on the 101 route and smothered to death. This is the first time I ever knew a woodchuck to get stuck in a can. Many cat and skunk have met a similar fate, but this is the first chuck.

Many a place will be posted unless some of those would-be sports stop killing the farmer's cat, stealing his apples, and knocking down the stone walls.

Forest Notes is a publication devoted to forestry in New Hampshire. If you believe in our N. H. forest you should have this booklet on your reading table. Get your copy from 3 North Street, Concord.

Ever read N. H. Health News? The articles by Dr. Dyer on "Tooth of the Month" are well worth a second reading.

The Fountain House, situated on Burns hill on route 101, will entertain hunters with meals and nice soft beds. And can Rudy put on the meals.

Three white porcupines reported in the same week—all different towns, Mont Vernon, Washington and Peterboro. This must be a freak year for quillpigs.

Last Sunday a hunter drove into my yard and said something like this: "Will you let me go up and look at your cock pheasant? I want to see what they look like." Then another hunter got his limit that same day.

If you are looking for something that's a little out of the usual run of things, you want to visit Marshall's zoo on the Daniel Webster highway. They have everything that runs, walks and crawls. Just a short ways out of Nashua towards Manchester.

If you find a good specimen of a small animal or bird killed by a car, don't destroy it for if it is in good condition our taxidermist would be pleased to get it.
