—Bernice Merrill, Lecturer.

Mrs. Dorothy Vigue, Home Economics teacher at Wilton High school has returned from the Marriage and Family Life Institute, conducted at the University of New Hampshire. Dr. Paul Popenoe, outstanding counseling expert of Los Angeles, conducted the course given to the teachers, ministers, counselors and others. The Family Relationships course at Wilton High school has been doing a great deal to help the girl solve her own problems by first understanding herself; to help form good judgment; to be able to make necessary adjustments; to see herself as a worthwhile person; and to be able to live happily among other people. Mrs. Vigue has been commended for the excellent job she is doing along this line with the girls at Wilton High school.

Grain Story

Before my remembrance, Walter says that all the farmers around raised their own grain, wheat, oats, etc., as well as corn, for their own use. I know we had wheat, because my mother used to steam it and we ate it with good cream and sugar. It was the most delicious cereal I ever ate. I remember too the grainary at Harvey Jones' house. A small room off the kitchen was full of grain, probably oats. It was piled in one corner, like a small hill, sloping down to the door. The grain in our community was taken up to Mr. MacAlister at Loon lake to be threshed. Sometimes there were long lines of loads of grain wait-

VOTERS APPROVE OF NEW SCHOOL AT HIGH SCHOOL SITE

HILLSBORO, July 6 — Voters of the Hillsboro school district by a vote of 164 to 76 approved the building of a new elementary school.

Over 300 attended the meeting held Thursday, June 29, to instruct the school board to raise $160,000 for the new school as proposed by the school board and the building committee.

Edmund Woods, a member of the building committee, said that the committee favored the plan which would enlarge the present High school gym and combine this to the elementary school.

The architect representing the Perley F. Gilbert Associates, said that the site could be readied for the new building at a cost of $3,700.

Anton Johnson, member of the school board, was the principal critic of the plan and condemned the chosen site and proposed plans.

The vote to raise $160,000 for the school was carried 159-61 and the vote to authorize a bonding issue was 175-35. An amendment to put the bonds up to bid was defeated when it was stated that the board would assuredly do so by Atty. R. Wayne Crosby, member of the building committee.

A voice vote to instruct the school board as to site was almost unanimous with only a few no's audible.

District officers elected were: Robert S. Boardman, moderator; Mildred S. Eaton, secretary; Samuel P. Hadley, treasurer.

The present building committee was continued to assist the school board.

It was voted to establish the salaries of the district officers and school board at the March annual school meeting.

REV. LAUNCELOT QUINN TO LEAVE HILLSBORO

HILLSBORO, July 6 — Rev. Launcelot F. Quinn is to become pastor of the new St. Christopher's parish at Nashua, it was announced by the Most Rev. Matthew F. Brady, D.D., Bishop of Manchester, this week. Rev. Morris A. Halde will be the new pastor at St. Mary's.

The appointments are effective July 21.

ing for service. One time my father was up very early in the morning and started off with a big load of grain drawn by the oxen, and followed by a smaller horse-drawn load driven by Walter. As they started up Dunbar Hill, Henry Adams came up from "down under" (the present Pope place) and close behind Walter. As they reached the top of the hill my father took the left-hand road, of course, but Mr. Andrews took the right-hand road and whipping up his horse, reached the top of Meeting House Hill before the oxen, so he was ahead by two loads of grain waiting to be threshed. Mr. Andrews was very likely to come out ahead in any deal.

Cannons, Etc.

Everybody but the very young, can remember the cannon which decorated the Grammar school grounds for so many years, and which was turned in for scrap iron during the war. But only the older people can remember, or perhaps have heard, of the cannon owned by the Center people, in the time of Gilman Barnes, Clarence Barnes' grandfather. I imagine he was instrumental in having this cannon sent from Boston, but others in the community helped to pay for it. It was always kept in the Barnes' barn. Mr. Gilman Barnes (Continued On Page 3)

Committee Members Admire Exhibitor's Collection

Three members of the Fortnightly Hobby and Craft exhibition committee pause to admire a display table of figurines and lamps, a collection of Mrs. George Donovan, now being shown at the High school. Holding a statuette is Frances Bennett while Gloria Hines, and Lucille Poluchov look on. Last day to see the exhibit is Friday.

Friday Last Day To See Craft Show

By popular demand, the Hillsboro Hobby and Craft Show will be open continuously from 10:30 a.m. until 9 p.m. each day through July 7. It is being held in the High School, School Street, Hillsboro under the auspices of the Fortnightly club. There are approximately fifty-five exhibition of handicrafts with many different types being represented. The Craft Show has met with great success, with most people who have seen it being in agreement that it should be an annual affair. One visitor from the State League of New Hampshire Arts and Crafts was highly complimentary, and also suggested that it become an annual project. The Show had a visit from one of the writers for the magazine "Profitable Hobbies," and other visitors have come from all parts of the United States including Annapolis, Maryland, Oakland California; Providence, R. I., Cleveland, Ohio; Connecticut and Texas. Some of the Massachusetts cities represented by the visitors are Belmont, Brookline, Wabon, Danvers, and Lunenburg. Those cities in New Hampshire which have had visitors to the Craft Show are Hillsboro, Weare, Manchester, Bradford, Contoocook, Concord, Northwood, Franklin, Brookline, Deering, North Weare, Canterbury and Goffstown.

Hillsboro Population Down 95 Not 600 As First Reported

HILLSBORO, July 6 — Census returns made public Tuesday, June 27, show Hillsboro with a population of 2,174 for 1950, a decrease from 2,269 in 1940. Antrim had a population of 1,022 in 1950, as against 1,227 in 1940. Bennington tally was 1950 - 590, 1940 - 655.

Deering's population increased to 388 from 367 ten years ago. Windsor has a population of 27, a drop of 2 in ten years.

In general towns near the large cities and the larger towns made gains, while the other towns remained stationary or lost as in the case of Hillsboro.

Much excitement was caused locally when the population was given for Hillsboro as 1668 and which figure was circulated statewide. This was found to be an error on the part of the census bureau which gave the reporter the figures for the precinct alone which did not include the remainder of the town.

Robert Crooker Weds Jacqueline Hayes Miner

ANTRIM, July 6 — At a 7 o'clock ceremony in the Baptist church last Saturday, Jacqueline Hayes Miner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Miner, became the bride of Robert Crooker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Crooker of Hillsboro. Rev. Roger Floyd officiated at the ceremony.

Guests were present from Vermont, New Hampshire, Connecticut and Massachusetts.

Following a reception at the church vestry the couple left on a wedding trip. The bride chose a complete ensemble of yellow for her going away costume.

The bride is a graduate of Antrim High school and Hickox Secretarial school in Boston and is employed in Bennington. Mr. Crooker is a graduate of Hillsboro High and is a veteran of World War II. He is employed in Hillsboro.

The Clothes Line

● "That's the coolest slack I ever wore," said one of our good customers from Antrim. He was so enthusiastic about it that we personally tried a pair out over the holiday and can vouch for same. The trousers are a neat line rayon fabric that is fairly wrinkle resistant. $3.95.

● We appreciate customers telling us whether they do or do not find our merchandise satisfactory. That's about the best way of finding out whether we are keeping on or off the ball.

● A summer visitor advised us that our all Nylon Ladies' blouses at $2.98 were under the price prevailing in her home city.

● Along with good news, we also get some the other way once in a while...like a customer returning a pair of shoes because of a bad wrinkle in the lining. He received a new pair in exchange and the others went back to the factory. To err is human.

● "Bobbie-Coats"...the cute jacket-shirts as being popularly worn by the girls with shorts, pedal pushers and swim suits. The patterns are beautiful with five color combinations. Only $2.98.

● Buy of the week...men's polo or T shirts in assorted solid colors, tan, blue, green. Made by "Fruit of the Loom." Ideal for work or leisure. At this special low price... only 69c.

During the business meeting one member was reinstated and plans were made to hold a food sale at Hillsboro, Friday, July 14th. It was also voted that if the regular meeting comes during the week of a holiday, the meeting will be held the previous week, so as not to conflict with the holiday observance. Plans were also discussed about the booth for Old Home Day and Mrs. Robert Lawson was chosen chairman. Mrs. Helen G. Taylor will have charge of the fancy work table, and all members are to contribute some article for the sale, either fancy work or food. Refreshments of doughnuts, cake and punch were served after the meeting by the hostesses, and a social time was enjoyed.

LISABEL GAY'S COLUMN

was accustomed to take it out in his big field back of his house and fire it off in celebration of the Fourth of July. Its booming noise was heard down through the valley with more or less pleasure, according to the age of its hearers. Mr. Barnes always made the cartridges for it himself. In 1884 a group of grown-up boys, for the most part, decided to do something different that year. They borrowed my father's forward wheels with the long pole used with the oxen, and drew it up the hill, fastening the cannon to it and then the boys took it down the hill, through Uncle Dunbar's field; then up the whole length of Picket Hill, over rocks and bushes, clear to the top. It was an almost treeless pasture then; now, a dense forest. They turned it down the valley and fired it. The first time it was too near the big rock and broke the pole on the wheels, which didn't please the owner any too much; then after firing it several times they turned the thing around and went back up to the Center. Most of those boys aren't here now. Some of them were Dana and Sidney Powers, Fred Flint, Charlie Morgan, probably the Jones and Hoyt boys, and many others besides Frank and Walter, the only ones living. If those boys had been asked to do one-twentieth as much hard work they would all have balked to a man.

It was about 1900 when a group of people here at the Bridge, borrowed the Center cannon to help celebrate the Fourth of July. They took it to a place near what is now the town dump and after firing it several times, each time getting the cannon hotter, they placed it against a rock, or maybe it was against a rock all the time, but this last time it was fired it blew itself into bits. There was nothing left to return. The tragedy of it all was that one man named Anderson, who worked on the railroad, was instantly killed. It certainly dampened the ardor of the celebrators.

My Dream

Ordinarily my dreams are all day-dreams of the woozyest kind. This particular dream I had was the day-time between seven and eight a.m., but I was sound asleep. In my dream I was standing in a very drab, queerly furnished room in front of a bulletin board. Two women were with me, Eunice Gaddas and a woman who said her name was Madam Rosa. They said they had news for me and had come to give me items for the paper. I turned to Eunice first, but before she could speak, Madam Rosa interrupted, saying that she was in a terrible hurry and could not wait but a minute, and so I turned to her. But Eunice started away from me, so I stopped to call her back. She said she had to be at the bank and couldn't wait, so I asked Madam Rosa to say quickly what she had to say. She wouldn't talk, only to say she was in a hurry and must go. Then I asked Eunice to tell me her news. She wouldn't talk, only to say she must be at the bank. At last I was pleading with one or the other to talk and neither would say a word. I never did find out what they had for news, because when I was at my wit's end, Ethel appeared with my breakfast.

At last Jenny Wren and her spouse are at home in my little bird house. One or the other is singing most of the time. I wanted the swallows, but I am glad to have the wrens.

THE STATE HOUSE JOURNAL

By BROOK SHENTON

Top billing in the New Hampshire press last week was given to the announcement the state's population has climbed to 529,374. This preliminary census figure, still subject to substantial additions to include men and women in the armed forces and other residents who were absent from the state when the enumerators made their rounds in April, already is 7.7 per cent more than the 1940 census for New Hampshire, which was 491,524.

Rockingham county, which received an influx of thousands of war workers during the boom at Portsmouth Navy Yard, scored the biggest percentage increase of any county in the state. Its population rose 11,167 in the 10 years following the 1940 census, for an increase of 19 per cent. Some of the wartime influx, centering in Portsmouth, sloped over into nearby towns, and helped to account for a population increase in Strafford county, which gained 7,568 people.

The biggest numerical increase was made by industrial Hillsboro county. Its 1950 census tops 1940 by 11,213. The percentage gain here was only 7.7 per cent, the average, for the state. The overall picture finds nine counties gaining population and one—Coos—losing in the 10 years prior to the 1950 census.

The present figures, of course, are only tentative, but only changes or revisions will be upward, so it appears the state may have a final population of about 535,000 when the U. S. Census Bureau issues its official figures for the state, probably next autumn. As soon as the final official census is known, a special legislative committee appointed by House Speaker Richard F. Upton on the closing day of the special session May 18 will swing into action. Its job will be to reapportion the state representatives in the General Court, according to population. Some cities and towns stand to gain representation, and others to lose, by the reapportionment.

Rep. Charles A. Holden of Hanover is chairman of the interim committee that will translate the census into representation for the towns and wards. Serving with him will be Reps. George G. Carter of North Hampton, Elmer H. Downs of North Conway, Laurence M. Pickett of Keene and C. Murray Sawyer of Concord.

Political Pot Boils

New Hampshire's biennial political battle will get rolling two weeks from now, when the official filing period for candidates opens July 14. The ambitious of both political parties will have just two weeks after that to get their hats into the ring for the various nominations at stake in the state primary Sept. 12.

The lines for a couple of Republican contests already are pretty well drawn. It will be Adams against Daniell for Governor, and Tobey against Powell for senator. The congressional district situation still is pretty vague, however. No particular contest looms yet for the Democratic primary. It is known, however, that one faction in the Democratic party has approached Robert Sanderson, former Pittsfield legislator, and asked him to run for the governorship nomination. They represent the group that looks with disfavor on Sen. Robert P. Bingham of Manchester, who seeks to be his party's standardbearer in the 1950 election. Sanderson's answer was "No." He is now a resident of Florida and is back in New Hampshire only for the summer. Sanderson describes himself as no New Dealer and no Fair Dealer, just "a plain Democrat."

From usually reliable sources comes word Gov. Sherman Adams has been ordered by his physician to "slow down." The governor has grayed noticeably since he took office in the hectic (for the Republican party) period 18 months ago. He has taken his duties more seriously than any recent governor, and the strain is showing. Perhaps he'll take a vacation this summer to stomp the state against his primary opponent, Sen. Eugene S. Daniell of Franklin.

Pension Fund Grows

The reserve fund of the state Employees Retirement System stood at $3,853,093 on June 1. This represents the balance left after four years of collecting contributions from the state government and its.

Leon Grant's houseboat, which now floats serenely on the waters of Deering Reservoir, is apparently equipped for light housekeeping. There is a porch on either end, from which the fishermen can fish on any side of the boat. Inside frying pans, hanging on the wall near the stove, are ready at a minutes notice, and outside, over each door, a Navy blinker light. The boat itself is white, with green trim, and rests on grey pontoons, making an attractive spot of color on the water.

Frank Davis is band president, and business manager, J. Paul Dumm, vice-pres., and Stanley Botor, of Manchester, band master.

Ren Philbrick has added to the wharf at Lake Horace, and now has 200 feet of wharf space, with 31 boats tied up, and more coming. Every weekend Chase Park has visitors, from Manchester, Concord, and Nashua, as well as many other nearby towns. Mr. Philbrick is the new president of Weare Boat club, which is sponsoring the water carnival next Sunday.

Our Two-Party System
Two parties, pretty well matched for strength, compete for a majority of the votes and a majority of the policy-making posts in our national government. One party has to produce at least enough agreement and unity to stay in power. The party "out of power" is the watchdog and the critic. It is constantly trying to come into power. People are inclined to look at parties as good or bad. Idealists often say they are bad. They say that our two major parties are without principle and that their platforms are full of glittering generalities. They say "the politicians" merely use the parties for their own selfish ends and not the public interest. Parties, they claim, are just "conspiracies to gain office".

harmony to make decisions. The party is our way of finding out what most people want, or what they will put up with. Its principles are as clear or as clouded as a majority of its members will permit. Party appointments to some policy jobs are absolutely necessary to build an organization which can get things done.

Idealists shudder at the great national party conventions as a kind of political circus. Realists see them as great pagents in which all the colorful and varied parts of political America manage to find ways of working together. In the show-down of winning elections, realists and idealists find that they must all pull together.

Third Parties
Third parties sometimes are important too. But they are very different from the two major parties. About once in a generation a strong third party arises. Many idealists support it because it has sharper principles and purposes. But for this very reason it cannot attract a majority. The chief value of third parties seems to be to throw a spotlight on new ideas. If enough people like the ideas, the two major parties soon adopt them--at least to some extent. Third parties are more like pressure groups. Their leaders are likely to be crusaders for ideas.

How You can be the Life of the Party

Any organization--political, or otherwise--has to have two things: (1) workers and (2) money. It has to win elections.

This seems very simple, but a great many citizens behave as if they don't understand it. They belong to the parties, but they contribute neither work nor money.

Then they are surprised when the party pays little attention to them.

"Elections are won in the precincts," is an old and true political saying. So that is the place to start. Most precincts are made up of 300 to 600 voters. There is a precinct captain or committeeman, with sometimes a committeewoman. There are about 125,000 precincts or election districts in the country. The place to start in party work is in your precinct. If there are other citizens who will join you, go together. Take responsibility. Work. About a million party workers are needed at the precinct level to run our major party organizations.

Above the precinct captains are the county committeemen and committeewomen. Then come the state committeemen and women. At the top of the heap is the national committee. Both major parties have an equal number of men and women on their national party committees, but this "50-50 principle" has been only partially adopted by party committees on state and lower levels. Is the "50-50 plan" carried out in New Hampshire? You find out if it is.

Party officials in most states are elected at the primaries. Do you know who nominates them? Do you know which party offices are filled at your primaries? Do you know the people who hold these offices?

This is Your Paper Local News is Big, Too

By William R. Nelson

THE WORD "newspaper" oversimplifies the functions of the institution so named, because a newspaper publishes much more than the news of its community. Virtually all newspapers regularly contain editorials, features such as this, and advertising, none of which is included when speaking of news.

Strangely enough, the histories of famous newspapers disclose most won fame because of contents other than news. That proves, editors believe, that readers approve of, want and enjoy a variety of material in their newspapers.

Functions of Newspaper

To give readers a better cross-section of current events, a newspaper impartially and objectively reports the news, discusses and interprets it with editorials, and entertains and informs in feature and advertising columns.

News is an accurate account of highlights of a happening of interest to the paper's readers. That is why it is necessary to say black is white, if that is what someone stated, even though the reporter, editor and newspaper know differently. And that is why a report about a meeting of local officials is as important news here as a session of the legislature or of the congress.

The home town newspaper's editorials and its educational and entertainment features may not receive as widespread attention, numerically, as do those of metropolitan papers, but proportionately they are even more important. They are more closely representative of what the "grass roots" of our country think, approve and disapprove, because America's home towns are the backbone of our nation.

Voice of Majority

Sixty per cent of the people of the United States live in communities such as this, or on farms. What they believe, do and say is therefore the voice, will and heart of this country. And their newspapers therefore mirror majority desires and aims.

News, editorials, features and advertising combine in the home town newspaper to accurately reflect the community, to inform it, entertain it, and give it a voice in the larger affairs of our daily lives. There is no more important newspaper, anywhere, than this one. And the local news it reports is big news, in this community.

Hillsboro Methodists Plan Summer Bible School

HILLSBORO, July 6 — A Vacation church school for all girls and boys of the community between the ages of five and fourteen will be held at the Methodist church for two weeks, five days a week, beginning Monday morning, July 10th. The Primary dept., under the leadership of Mrs. Margaret Eaton, will meet between nine and eleven. The Junior dept., under the leadership of Miss Ethel Farley, and the Intermediate dept., led by Rev. Russell E. Perry, will meet from nine to twelve.

There will be periods of worship, Bible stories, songs, games and handicraft. Mrs. Clara Richardson, Mrs. June Perry, Mrs. Edith Phelps will be in charge of handicraft, recreation and music.

The Primary dept., will study, "Jesus, the Friend;" the Junior dept., "Finding God through Work and Worship;" and the Intermediate dept., "Exploring the Bible with Intermediate."

All youth of the community who are interested in attending this vacation church school are asked to come to the Methodist church Monday morning at nine o'clock to register.

At the school meeting last Thursday the board and the building committee received a decisive vote of confidence to build a new school at the Hillsboro High school.

The board members and building committee are to be congratulated and thanked for the work done thus far and it is hoped that ALL members will continue to work harmoniously in the future.

The present direction of building activity was plainly established at the meeting and if some kicking in the traces was justifiable in the past it no longer remains so.

The fact that the High school sidewalk is sometimes inundated caused some comments to be made against the whole idea of a school. Rather than throw the baby out with the bathwater it would be more proper to properly curb and drain the School street entrance to the High school.

And since School street will have even more student pedestrian traffic it is also a good time to have sidewalks on both sides of the street from the Square to the school.

SOCIALISTS?

The American Medical Association (AMA) reports that nearly 13,000 of the nation's 201,000 doctors are in Federal Government service. That's more than 6 per cent.

Question for the AMA: Are they Socialists?

The Henniker Post Office has now changed from a third class to a second class post office. This depends on the amount of business which a post office does. There are good and bad points about the new change. The good point for the public is the fact that the windows have to remain open for business while the mail is being sorted. However, although the lobby opens at 7:30 a.m., the windows do not open for business until 8 a.m. Postmaster Edward Damour reports that he used to do quite a bit of business early in the morning. The postmaster and clerks are not allowed to give a person's mail to someone else. They must bring the key to get it. The late Hattie Wilson was the first, she being Department President in the year 1911 and Mrs. Doris Parker, the second, she holding office in the year 1932. Other members of the local auxiliary who hold office in the Department are Mrs. Hattie Brown, a member of the Council; Mrs. Ruth Muzzey, department secretary; Mrs. Addie French, chief-of-staff; Mrs. Doris Parker, who is her daughter's personal aide.

Miss Barbara French and Miss Gloria Spiller have begun their work for the summer at Tall Pines camp, Whittemore pond.

Last Henniker One Room School Closes Doors

A Messenger Publication—7
Thursday, July 6, 1950

The ending of the school year this June probably marked the final closing of the last district or one room school of all grades in Henniker when the Quaker school, Friends District or old number 10 closed last week. This was its number when the town has 13 small school buildings in various locations.

In early settlement times when pioneer families came from Wear and nearby places, the school house used to stand on a corner lot at the foot of Henri Aucoin's hill with the Friends Meeting House directly opposite, but the cry for centralization in those days resulted in a move for both structures farther north up the road.

After starting in 1866 school report that the school house was a "standing disgrace to any district, much more to this whose people take so much interest in the welfare and education of their children," a new schoolhouse was built that same year under the district committee of James B. Brown, father of the late Mrs. Ida Morse. This makes the present building after the close of the Civil War, for report of the following year reads that "It is a pleasure to record here that the old school house No. 10 is no more". Unfortunately the new building was not completed before the cold weather of the winter came. But the good people of the district entered the unfinished school room and furnished it with chairs and tables from their own dwellings; sent in their children, and in these novel surroundings the teacher, Miss Susan Marsh, daughter of Elard Marsh whose portrait hangs in Tucker Free Library, had a pleasant and profitable winter.

Oliver Pillsbury, Member of the school board in commenting on the new building in 1868 said, "The people having taxed themselves about a thousand dollars to build a beautiful school house, seem to be working zealously and harmoniously to make their school what it should be and the prospect is that they will for years to come, rank as they now do, as the model school district of the town." Later school boards wished for every district as good a school room, but with far more blackboard surface and some possible way of ventilation which this one did not have.

The winter term beginning in 1876 is of special interest as it was taught by Miss Annie J. Newton, now Mrs. Frank Garland who observed her 92nd birthday this month. It was characterized as one of the most advanced schools in town. The scholars appeared to be orderly, studious, and respectful to their teacher and the parents also deserved great praise for attention to welfare of the school. A candid comment stated that having good scholars, a correct home influence, a prompt, energetic and well qualified teacher, such as Miss Newton, that the term as a matter of course could not fail of being successful.

The school report of 1885 speaks of there still being only two terms, a summer and a winter one of 22 weeks in all. Sometime later on statistics began to be printed and the first ones mention two pupils who were present every half day of one term, namely Lona (Morse) McDonald and Arthur Huntington. In 1900 Eva M. (Huntington) Jameson was on the roll of honor for seven years.

About 30 years ago the building was completely renovated with new windows put in and others closed in to avoid cross lights and a wing was added to the house. Electric lights were installed recently and a piano furnished by Arthur Huntington.

Among former teachers now living in town are Mrs. Cora (Peaslee) Noyes, Harry Garland, whose magnificent salary was $24.00 a month; Evelyn (Rowe) Hollis, May (Fowler) Huntington and Jennie A. Huntington.

The last teacher Mrs. Minnie V. Smith has completed eight years. She has been a beloved and successful teacher, and with her pupils has gladdened the neighborhood with fine entertainments besides doing innumerable deeds of good in the district and town. The close of the school will much miss and regretted, but its influence will be felt for years to come.

"Hy" Stafford Wins His 4th Game; Hillsboro Second in Tri-Mountain Standings

by JOE M. EATON, JR.

HILLSBORO, July 2 — Hy Stafford tossed his fourth win of the season as the Hillsboro A. C. crushed the Bradford Townies by a score of 13-8. The Pagemen supported Stafford with 23 hits including a pair of doubles by Norm Bosse and a double by Walt Whitney. Hillsboro scored five times in the second and added to that total in every inning but the third and sixth.

Everett Murdough made his debut as a pitcher for the locals but was not too impressive as he was shelled out of the box and Stafford was called in from the outfield to relieve him. Murdough was put in at the start of the eighth inning and when Bradford rallied for six runs Stafford put out the fire.

As our own "Iron Man" Stafford was leading Hillsboro to victory. Warner without "Iron Man" Bates was absorbing an eleven to one shellacking from Sutton. It was Warner's first defeat of the season but we predict that the loss of Pete Bates will mean more losses before the season is ended for the Warner entry.

Norm Campbell and Fred Stamatelos led the Hillsboro attack with four hits apiece and Campbell also racked up four RBI.

"Here's the Pitch"

By "Bump" Hadley

WBZ, WBZ-TV Sportscaster and
Former Major League Pitcher

THE OLD FAMILIAR cry of "What's the matter with the Red Sox?" has changed now to "What happened to Joe McCarthy?"

and I wish I knew the answer. I see where a lot of sports writers are saying that Joe McCarthy had lost his grip, and others are saying that he never was anything but a "push button" manager anyway. That's a pretty natural reaction, because Joe was pretty curt to newsmen at his best, and when he was losing, he was even worse. The writers resent that kind of handling.

But don't ever believe that story about Joe's being a "push button" manager. I had five years under Mr. McCarthy and got four World Series' checks from his management. And I honestly believe that he was the best manager I ever worked under. I worked under quite a few well-known managers, too—Bucky Harris, Lou Fonseca, Walter Johnson, Rogers Hornsby, Connie Mack and for a brief period, Bill "The Terrible" Terry. McCarthy is still tops in my book.

It may be that the times have passed McCarthy by. It may be that you don't want a leader and a strategist for your major league ball clubs these days. Maybe a good male nurse would be more successful.

If McCarthy made one big mistake, it was in coming out of retirement to try and mold the high-priced Red Sox stars into a ball club. They gave McCarthy some nice material to work with. A Dropo for first base. A Good-man for utility. A Zarilla for right field. As a matter of fact, they gave Joe everything he needed. Except a few pitchers.

Here is a party that wants to know where they can buy Z-I-P to keep the deer out of his garden. Try the Farmers Exchange in Concord. Those that have used it say it sure works.

There must be a big increase in the population of Quillpigs. Many a dog has got peppered the past few weeks and the "vets" have been working overtime. As I have said many times before, don't try to pull them out yourself, see a vet. One small quill may kill your dog. Be sure you get them all.

We doubt if there is another town in the state that can boast of three "vets" in one town. Dr. W. B. Loring, who has been at it for over 50 years, on Elm street, Dr. Homer MacMurray with an office at Nashua but a home at Richardson's Crossing, and Dr. Paul E. Fessenden, Federal hill road.

Last week I had letters and post cards telling of homing pigeons that have been blown down or just plain tired out. I have the list of American Union (A-U), also I have the (I-F) International Federation. Let me know the letter and number and I will tell you the owner.

In fishing from a bank or a boat, never wear bright clothing. The fish are not dumb. Last week I told about never to fish from a boat with a bottom that is painted white. I have a letter from an old fisherman that says I am 100 per-cent correct in that statement.

Never have we heard so many fishermen for pout that have got their limit. It's a pout year.

Speaking of fans, I have got one fan out in Indianapolis that is tops with me. Every once in a while and sometimes even oftener he sends a bunch of Fish and Game magazines for me to read. I guess he must be a subscriber to most every magazine in the good old USA.

That mallard duck with the large family on the Whiting pond right in Wilton village has attracted a lot of attention. She knows me and will come for her meals with her large family in single line. How those little fellows can skim across the water.

Have a letter from a party many miles from me. They want to know if goats are considered wild animals. They have a neighbor who has a large number of them—and they roam all over the town, having a wonderful time in the gardens. Nope goats are domestic and can be confined by orders of the town authorities. This party said it had got their goat although they don't own one.

It's outboard boating time. Better get one of those gadgets that you attach to the outboard and hitch to your boat. Many a nice outboard is lost when it falls overboard. These things can be purchased from your nearest sporting goods store and may save you the loss of the motor.

Attach your boat lock key or outboard motor lock key to a piece of cork and it won't sink if you happen to drop it in the water. A wire is fastened to the key and run through the cork. The end of the wire is turned back. The key folds flat at the side of the cork.

All the Fish and Game Departments are urging everyone to leave young wildlife alone. Nine times out of ten the mother is nearby and can take better care of the young than you can. In fact, it's against the law to take young wildlife in the closed season.

Here we have a fine letter from Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cleveland, who have been spending some time at Eugene, Oregon. They have been there two months and are leaving for their New Hampshire home in Upper Village, Hillsboro. They are driving back. They say Hillsboro will look good to them. He will have to take a new route home as some of the highways are still blocked by snow.

Would you be interested in a three year old bull-terrier? Must go on a farm. Loves children. Owner can't keep him. Good watch dog. None better.

Civil servants now covered by the Retirement System include 3,208 state workers and 1,018 employees of cities, towns, counties districts and five village districts and school districts. Eight cities, 14 towns, all 10 counties, 56 school and precincts have adopted the plan.

Since pensions went into effect Jan. 1, 1948, a total of 277 employees have been retired. Of these, 33 have since died. Director Robert Jewell reports 240 now receiving monthly pension checks, with a payroll totalling $14,336 a month.

About New Hampshire
On Saturday, custody of the famed Daniel Webster birthplace in Franklin, mecca of thousands of tourists each year, will be turned over to the state Recreation division. Secretary of State Enoch D. Fuller, who has been custodian of the great statesman's birthplace for many years, will turn the keys over to Recreation Director Russell B. Tobey at simple ceremonies.

A three-cornered race may develop for the Republican nomination in the Ninth State Senate district, it is rumored. Rep George W. Boynton of Hillsboro and Rep. Lester Connor of Henniker already have announced their candidacies. The dark horse may be ex-Sen. John P. H. Chandler, Jr., of Warner, publisher of the Kearsarge Independent and descendant of two U. S. senators.

Herbert F. Georges of Portsmouth has begun publication of "The Shoreliner," a sort of hometown magazine of the Seacoast Region.

Summer theaters are springing up all over the map of New Hampshire, bringing a taste of professional and good amateur acting to the home folks and their summer guests. No important town is more than 15 miles from some unit of the "straw hat" circuit.

Historic houses at Portsmouth are now open to visitors, at a small fee. Represented are the examples of Colonial architecture.

The University of New Hampshire is in the midst of its summer schedule of institutes and conferences. Opening July 9, the famous Girls' State.

Did you ever hear of corn-fed horned pout? Well, I have them in my pond. In feeding my ducks, I throw some of the orn into shallow water so that the boys and girls can see the ducks stand on their heads to get the grain. In dressing some of the pout we found corn in their stomachs. Perhaps I have introduced a new breed of pout corn-fed pout.

Have at hand a nice letter from a man that read my article about taking a dog to a vet to remove the quills. "That little item saved the life of my valuable pointer. But for the trip to the vet I would have lost my dog." Nice to get a letter like this.

Conservation Officer Don Daniels of Milford took a ten day old fawn deer to the game preserve at Newport a few days ago. It was found by someone in Amherst. There is a good stiff fine for picking up such wild bird or animal unless you know the mother has been killed by some accident. It was a lively little fellow.

A party in Virginia, 10 miles from the national capital, sends word to me asking what to do about a small pond full of snapping turtles. I told them to get in touch with the maker of the turtle trap, R. G. Smith of Killingly, Conn. Hope they have turtle for dinner.
