It is hoped a large number of people will be interested to attend this sale.

Eunice Baldwin chapter, D.A.R., will hold a card party at the Pierce Mansion on Thursday, August 24, at 2:30. Canasta, bridge, whist or any card game may be played.

Bird and Garden Club

The Caroline A. Fox Bird and Garden club held a very interesting meeting at the home of Miss Mary Hearty at the Center last Thursday. The roll call was unusually interesting. The subject was "Wild Flowers." Members brought single blossoms and bouquets and the house was decorated with several bouquets of them. Miss Lora Craig well known for her knowledge of flowers and clever arrangements, brought a unique arrangement of unusual plants and flowers. These were set out in a bed of moss in an old-time wooden chopping bowl. There were pitcher plants in blossom; sundew with its sticky leaves; white fringed orchids; checkerberry plants in blossom; clintonia berries, and several other small wild plants. A very fine paper on "Migration of Birds" was read by Mrs. Elmar Evans, and an equally well-written one on the subject "Dahlia's" was given by Miss Mary Hearty. Refreshments of tea and home-made cookies were served in the very attractive white and blue dining room. Miss Frances Barnes poured. Assisting hostesses were Miss Barnes, (Continued On Page 7)

MAY SELL SCHOOL BONDS TO INVESTMENT BROKER

HILLSBORO, August 10 — The building committee and school board met in joint session Monday evening. The discussion centered on the procedure of issuing bonds for the new school. Because municipal bonds are tax exempt they are in great demand at present by investors. Edmunds Woods, building committee member, reported that a Boston firm had indicated that 1.75% bonds could be marketed and that in his opinion the trend was becoming increasingly in favor of the board in that low interest rates are obtainable.

Frank Horne, Chichester, of the F. W. Horne & Co., underwriters of Concord, N. H., made an offer to take the school issue at 1.96%. He urged the wisdom of doing business in N. H., with local lawyers, banks and investment houses.

Atty. R. Wayne Crosby stated in reply to a question regarding bids that no commitment to purchase by bid was made to the voters at the school meeting. (An amendment that the bonds be purchased by bid, made by Harry Nissen, was voted down at the meeting. The voters were assured, however, that the board would naturally market the bonds at the lowest rate, and probably by bid.) The board is now of the opinion that there are more advantages to selling the bonds to an investment company than by putting the bonds up to bid.

Several other investment firms have communicated with the board. Edmund Woods, Henry Martin and Sergius Bernard will investigate further and report back to the meeting Monday.

At the school board meeting which followed the joint meeting, routine matters of school opening and the purchase of coal and wood for the elementary school and two Town schools was acted upon.

The board voted to employ Leo J. Elias as teacher in the elementary school for 2,400. Mr. Elias, a World War II veteran, is a graduate of the U. of N. H. problems of teaching department and worked recently as an assistant in the recorder's office in Durham. He is married and is a native of Manchester. He was highly recommended.

Atty. James I. Hines reported that as yet the brief he is preparing for the tax commission was not completed but indicated it would be ready in a few days. (Continued on Page 5)

Schoolboard Wrong Selectmen Right, —Says Commission

Hillsboro, Aug. 10 — The State Tax Commission has ruled that the Hillsboro School Board must have taxpayers' consent to collect taxes and suggests the board call a special meeting.

In a letter addressed to Chairman Andrew Sargent, the Commission refused the request of the School Board to use the combined budgets of former districts as a basis for taxation. This ruling is in effect the same ruling given to the School Board several months ago by Hillsboro Town Counsel R. Wayne Crosby.

The School Board ignored Atty. Crosby's advice, hired James I. Hines as their lawyer, and attempted to avoid submitting the budget to the people. In spite of considerable behind-the-scenes political pressure, Hillsboro selectmen have insisted that only legally voted taxes should be collected from Hillsboro taxpayers.

The School Board's original tax scheme would have drawn from the pockets of the taxpayers more money than is needed. The consolidated district needs two less teachers and $4,400 less for teachers' salaries.

The School Board is now forced to call a special meeting of all legal voters to determine the amount of the current budget.

Covered Bridges

by JENNIE E. HUSSEY

The old time bridges have passed away
Almost to the very last.
But their memories in our hearts
will stay
Until memories all are past.

The covered bridge o'er Contoocook's stream
With the olden grist-mill near,
And the gray haired miller standing there
At the door with a word of cheer.
'Twas a joy in childhood when slacked the pace
Of the horse that drew the load
To stand in the shade of the covered bridge
Ere taking the road once more.

And to hear the horse's steel-shod hoofs
As they pounded the wooden floor,
Heading for home with its welcome rest
With the toilsome climb before.

Up the long, steep slope of Crainey Hill
To the house that is there no more.
"Well, shiver my timbers," the old bridge cries;
When they reach the river of time,

No more they'll need me to bear them across
To that mystical, unseen clime.

John Gutterson, grandfather of Miss Anna L. Childs, will be remembered by old timers past threecore and ten. Prof. Francis Lane Childs, of Hanover, is another descendant.

HILLSBORO, Aug. 10 — The School Board announced this morning that they have received notice of the decision of the Tax Commission and that they are taking necessary steps to carry out the recommendations.

The complete text of the letter is as follows:

"After careful consideration it is the opinion of this commission that it will be necessary for the School District of the Town of Hillsborough to hold a special meeting in order to adopt a budget for the current school year.

"It is our opinion that the budgets adopted by the former districts cannot be used for tax purposes, and that we cannot approve the tax rate on that basis. We therefore suggest that application be made immediately to the Superior Court for authority to hold, as soon as possible, a special meeting of the District to raise and appropriate money for school expenditures for the 1950-51 school year."

ANTRIM, Aug. 10 — The annual Garden club picnic was held Monday at the home of Miss Mabel Wilson with twenty-five attending. After supper an exhibit of corsages arranged by members was viewed. Twenty-four, all different, were in display. Mrs. Marshall Symmes of Fair Acres was awarded the prize for the prettiest, and Mrs. H. B. Pratt received a prize for the most unique. Judges were Mrs. Ross Roberts, Miss Faye Benedict, of Antrim, and Miss Isabel Hirst of Franconstown.

Miss Ruby Allen arranged the program which consisted of five films on bird life shown by Mr. and Mrs. David Howard of Annapolis, Md., and Gregg lake. Saturday, August 12, the club has been invited to join a garden tour in Dublin. Eight gardens will be open for inspection. Tea will be served. Proceeds will be used for the Crocheted Mountain hospital now under construction in Greenfield. Cars will leave the Dublin Shop promptly at 1:30 p.m.

About twenty ladies attended a party at the home of Mrs. Hattie Peaslee on Wednesday of last week. Dessert was served by the hostess assisted by the co-chairman, Mrs. Don Robinson, Miss Faye Benedict, and Mrs. R. H. Tibbals. Others in this group from the Ladies Circle of the Baptist church include, Mrs. H. B. Pratt, Mrs. Charles Turner, Mrs. D. H. Goodell, Mrs. Ralph George and Mrs. John Barstow.

Mrs. B. F. Tenney and Mrs. Archie Perkins sang, accompanied by Mrs. Albert Thornton. Because of the weather, the party was held indoors, and some of the events planned had to be omitted. A food sale was also featured.

Letters To The Editor

August 3, 1950

Editor, Hillsborough Messenger, Hillsborough, N. H.
Dear Editor:-

Enoch Shenton's column of July 27th which appeared in most of the weeklies in N. H. contained a very serious misapprehension of the facts regarding the public schools in this state—serious because a state election is near. The N. H. Citizens' Commission for Public Schools hopes that you will be fair enough to publish this letter because the health of our public school system is at stake.

Our investigation reveals that Mr. Shenton has made three mistakes regarding education this year. Last January, while the Legislators were answering the questionnaire from the Speaker to determine whether classrooms which two years ago were causing capable teachers to go elsewhere. All this sacrifice of defenseless children for what? So that our state house will not have to do what the others have been doing for a long time i. e. provide more state aid.

The Commission urges all voters in the state to evaluate the situation by looking ahead at the increasing enrollments, the growing shortages of teachers, the inflation-state aid should be considered at the Special Session, he MISTAKENLY wrote that the Commissioner (Continued on Page 5)

THE STATE HOUSE JOURNAL

By Enoch Shenton

Three major Republican candidates, including Senator Tobey, have primary opposition, but observers agree at this point in the campaign the "ins" have the advantage over the "outs." The Congressional delegation will operate under a handicap for the next five weeks, however, because their duties in Washington will cut into their campaign time. The top of the GOP ticket follows:

Governor - - - Gov. Sherman Adams of Lincoln, opposed by ex-Sen. Eugene S. Daniell of Franklin. The Governor will campaign for reelection largely on the issues of state reorganization, top accomplishment of his first administration, and new industry for the state, in which he is doing an outstanding job. Mr. Daniell's platform calls for more state aid to schools and cheaper electric and telephone rates, matters with good popular appeal.

U. S. Senator - - - Toby vs. Powell.

Congress - - - First district U. S. Rep. Chester E. Mellow of Ossipee, unopposed.

Congress, Second District - - - U. S. Rep. Norris Cotton of Lebanon, vs Atty. Joseph Moore of Canaan, traditional rivals for this post.

On the Democratic side of the primary, there's another struggle for power going on between the regular party leadership and the mavericks. In some cases, it's hard to know who's who. The top of the Democratic primary ballot will look like this:

Governor - - - State Sen. Robert P. Bingham of Manchester, vs. Harry Carlson of Plainfield. Bingham is known to have the blessings of the party leaders, Carlson, former national committeeman and friend of Henry A. Wallace when Hank was Secretary of Agriculture and Vice President, crossed everybody up by keeping his word and running for governor. Earlier it was understood he and Bingham had reached an understanding.

U. S. Senator - - - Ex-Sen. Emmet J. Kelly of Berlin, unopposed. Congress, First district - - - P. Rene Bergeron vs. Alfred E. Fortin, vs. Frank L. Sullivan, all of Manchester. Bergeron and Sullivan are labor union officials. Fortin is the only one of the trio who has prevailed. (Continued on Page 5)

Rev. Oliver Fraser of Worcester, Mass., formerly of North Weare, was present, as well as Miss Jennie Huzzey and Rev. Alan Keith, pastor of the Nazarene church of Concord. During the devotional meeting, Mrs. Guy Jones sang "Jesus is all the World to Me," upon request.

At the business meeting a letter was read from Mrs. Clarence Vinkent of Winter Park, Fla., asking permission to place a tablet on a boulder at Pleasant pond in memory of her husband whose ashes were scattered on the waters. SHORTAGES

Steel is really scarce. Many furnishings of which contain steel have withdrawn prices. Cancellation of prices helps to prevent stock piling - we can still buy normal quantities at little or no price increase on most items.

You Can Help

Buy what you need. Except for steel, most shortages are the result of buying panic. People buying more sheets, wool rugs, or towels than they need may be sorry when prices go back to normal.

We Will Help

At Eaton's, there is no waiting list. On scarce items we do NOT accept payments or orders for "delivery when available." Our policy enables you to know how much each thing costs and when it will be delivered. On request we will notify customers when scarce items arrive, but nothing can be reserved.

It Can Be Done

Production is still good. We are receiving bed springs, washers, refrigerators and other "scarce items," in limited quantities. America has enough for national defense and for home furnishings actually needed.

Our allocations are based on size of community, and on normal purchases. Eaton's sales record gives us a good big quota. Up to now we have been able to supply most things our customers need without much delay or increase in prices.

Hoarding will result in higher prices and poorer furnishings - don't do it. Buy only what you need now.

Elect Dr. William Mandrey New England College Prexy

Henniker, Aug. 10 — Fred T. Connor president of the board of trustees of New England college, announced last Thursday that the board had unanimously endorsed the selection of Dr. William H. Mandrey of Henniker as the second president of the college. Since Dr. Laurie D. Cox had notified the trustees of his desire to retire as the first president at the close of the academic year, a special committee has been considering candidates in an effort to secure a successor.

Dr. Mandrey, former head of two institutions of higher learning in Connecticut, has had over 30 years' experience as an administrator and has received special training for administration at the department of education of Yale university, where he received his doctor of philosophy degree.

After graduating with Phi Beta Kappa honors from Amherst college in 1915, he engaged in educational work as a teacher and administrator in the schools of East Windsor, Conn., later joining the staff of the state Department of Education at Hartford. After 12 years service there he began his work at Yale where he majored in educational administration and conducted a complete survey and study of higher educational facilities available to the youth of the state. After serving as assistant director and acting director of New Haven college, Dr. Mandrey became president of Arnold college where he developed a broad curriculum in liberal arts.

Shortly after moving to Henniker he was invited to become a member of the board of trustees of New England college and served as chairman of a committee studying the curriculum of this unique institution which offers a full four-year program in engineering, business administration and the arts and sciences a program which is completed by the student in three years of nine terms.

In June the college awarded degrees to 79 students and is preparing 300 young men and women who to continue their studies in the fall.

League Information Service

by GLORIA HINES, for League of Women Voters of Hillsboro

Continuation of speech by G. E. Hill, II, to Mt. Holyoke Institute of the United Nations: Part III of World Health Organization (WHO):

Health Problems and Organization
"In considering health conditions at the outset of a project, the WHO has a good record. In order to give you a good picture of this work, just a few words first about the organization of our secretariat. There are three departments, Technical Service, which handles epidemiological information, various statistical tasks, quarantine regulations, sanitary conventions, and other primarily research and reporting programs; Advisory Services, which is in the military sense operations, and finally, Administration and Finance -- The bulk of the work falls on Advisory Services. For example, it is Advisory Services that is responsible for our operations in the field and for the priority programs, which were based on the following criteria: 1) The magnitude of the problem; 2) The availability of some reasonable, and here I mean financially reasonable, as well as technically sound basis of attacking the problem, and 3) The chance for quickly obtained and substantial results.

"You will be interested, I am sure, to learn that the following programs have been given and continue to hold top priorities: The campaigns against malaria, tuberculosis, the venereal diseases, and the continuing efforts to improve conditions of maternal and child health, nutrition and environmental sanitation. Increased attention has also been directed towards the technical training of medical and auxiliary personnel, the promotion of mental health, and in time what are referred to as health demonstration areas. Take Greece, a small country with a population of app. 7,250,000 people, in addition a highly malarious country for literally uncounted generations. It is an agricultural country but one short on water, and so they must irrigate, and this leads to hordes of mosquitoes that carry malaria. As a result of the disease, workers were weakened, debilitated, their efficiency gravely reduced. Production fell off, nutritional standards fell, and so on, all in a vicious circle... The WHO acted to improve malaria control and there were results. By the end of 1948, when WHO withdrew its mission, 4,733 separate communities and no less than 702,705 acres of land had been sprayed with DDT. In some areas the malaria rate was cut from 80% of the population to 5%, and it is expected to go still lower provided the Greek Government continues the work. Simultaneously, food production in some districts went up as much as 70%, while the average gross incomes of families in certain localities which before spraying program were $196. per year rose after malaria control to $358. Still unbelievably low by American standards, but you can imagine what this meant to the Greeks?"

"Take Italy, where the disease raised havoc for centuries, there are even those people who attribute the fall of Rome quite as much to malaria as to the "barbarians," the Public Health authorities report that malaria is all but wiped out and in some areas of India and South Africa control has been achieved.

"In another line of work the WHO program of medical training has been one of the largest and most successful fellowships programs in the entire United Nations system. Over 500 men and women, doctors and other public health personnel, have directly benefited under this program with stays of three months to a year abroad at WHO expense. And it takes very little imagination to appreciate what these people, who as a condition to their fellowships are committed to return to work in their home countries, are now doing. WHO keeps in touch with its fellows and I can assure you that the results of this program have been more than gratifying.

"A further comprehension of this program results when one considers that no less than thirty-three countries have been represented by WHO fellows and while the emphasis of their work as been placed on the priority programs, the WHO fellows have worked in various aspects of health administration, sanitation, communicable diseases, nursing, maternal and child health, internal medicine, surgery, basic medical sciences, and son on."

of Education regarded state aid to education as fourth in importance. Then, during the Special Session, be maintained that because the districts were spending more for education than previously and that because the teachers were benefited by a drop in the cost of living no aid was needed. And NOW, showing even less study and foresight, he writes that "N. H. public schools won't suffer from lack of state aid cash next year." These three serious errors are all on the same side of the ledger, i. e. against aid to education. Why? Are his writings influenced by people who are satisfied with their own schools and so "the devil with all others?" Concord has good schools, so why can't the entire state have good schools as well?

The most recent Shenton mistake is that because the grand total school appropriations for 1950-51 has broken all past records for N. H. everything is O.K. for all schools. (He blames the school boards for asking more than ever). A thorough study by the Commission reveals that the record-breaking appropriations are for immediate requirements of the schools and not for needed improvements. By means of herculean effort on the part of the believers in good schools and because of the great sacrifice made by the property taxpayers the majority of the districts will be able to maintain their present low level. There are many exceptions, however. There will be more classes in basements unfit for instruction. There will be pupils brought back from modern schools in re-opened one-room schoolhouses without running water. There will be more children than before without the benefit of hot-lunches, music, art, and physical education, school nurses, proper desks and lighting, high school instruction and transportation. Instead of less, there will be many more of those overcrowded airy trend, and by looking around at what other states are doing instead of bragging about our own poor records. For an honest appraisal we ask you to remember that N. H. was dropping constantly in relative position among the states up until the 1947 Legislature increased state aid and that since then we have neither regained our rightful place nor restored the backlog which accumulated during those shameful years of neglect of our schools. For a decade the history of N. H. education can be earmarked with the disgraceful words-- Too Little and Too Late or Sacrificed for Lesser Things.

Yours for better schools,

TAFT WAR CRY

Senator Robert A. Taft says we should pay as we go in this emergency. He says we shouldn't borrow a nickel; that we should pay the cost out of taxes. Taft says individual income taxes should be raised and credit stamps put on to stop inflation.

But does he think profits should be taken out of war? Does he think the war budget should be balanced by an excess profits tax?

Here is what the "Washington Post" said about him July 25: "Senator Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio) joined... in recommending an immediate increase on corporations and individuals but opposed an excess profits tax at this time. Taft said he thought a war profits tax would be of 'doubtful value' because it encouraged lavish corporation spending."

The next time you read Taft wants to lighten the belt, ask yourself, "Whose belt?" If labor must forego wage increases, pay higher prices as well as higher taxes and if the GI's overseas must fight and die for their fellow citizens, surely war profits must be taxed to help pay the bills.

Taft's policy simply stated is: Pay for the war by taxing the little fellow. Let prices rise without any controls. Let the owners of industry keep the swollen profits they make out of war contracts and high prices.

Sounds immoral and unpatriotic? It is. Taft again has shown his unfitness for public office.

What we truly and earnestly aspire to be, that in some sense we are.

HOARDING

Apparently quite a few people are rushing out to the grocery stores these days to lay in a big stock of sugar to use in the coming days of warfare when sugar, supposedly, will be scarce.

It is likely that most of them have an idea they're being pretty prudent and thoughtful.

Ironically, just the opposite is true.

For people who will take the time to think about it will see that hoarding sugar against the shortage isn't prudent at all—but selfishness.

And people who will take the time to think will see that it is pretty small stuff and pretty unimportant, whether they get one spoonful of sugar in their coffee, or two, or none at all, at a time when other men are being called on to give up, not their sugar, but their lives.

Henry Martin reported that the Supervisory Union had established a Superintendent's office with a budget of $2,000 of which $1,500 would go to a full time office employee with the selection of office help up to the Superintendent. The union will be charged $60. yearly for office rent.

W. E. Richmond recently appointed to the board took oath of office and participated in the discussion. The problem of transportation is being studied and this and the architects plans are to be reviewed at the next board meeting, next Monday.

The State House Journal

by Donald S. Kimball

iously sought election on a statewide basis. He won the party nomination for U. S. senator two years ago, is considered a party man. Congress, Second District -- No Candidate unless one has been filed by the Democratic State committee since this was written.

Newell Brown, managing editor of the Strafford Star, Dover daily newspaper, looms as likely choice for state director of Employment Security. Brown, hard-working scion of a wealthy Berlin family, was Governor Adams' first secretary when he took office and proved himself tremendously capable and energetic. Labor Comr. William H. Riley, in whose hands the appointment rests, is known to have a high regard for Brown, but isn't talking. The dope is Riley's likely to toss the appointment before the Governor and Council any day now. Background: Brown was graduated from Princeton, served with distinction in the army, holds the rank of lieutenant-colonel in the reserve. After the war he bought and published the Franklin Journal-Transcript, sold it a couple years ago when he moved to Concord as Mr. Adams chief factotum. Brown left the State House last winter to go in with Leonard Finner in the new Dover newspaper. Reports have it the "Star" isn't doing too well.

This writer had a bad week all around. Facts about New Hampshire school appropriations reaching an all-time high mark brought rebuttal from Donald V. Kimball of Franklin, chairman of the N. H. Citizens' Commission for the Public Schools. He admits the schools will have more money to spend than ever before, but says only 10 percent of them did anything to improve their programs. He makes one point: this the money available for the coming school year won't be enough for the following year, unless it's increased at 1951 school district meetings.

This column restricted itself to the coming year, in its comments about available school funds. The following year will be discussed when the facts are available. Meanwhile, Mr. Kimball and his associates carry the burden of proving to their local voters that more money is needed for the following year.

It is good discretion not to make too much of any man at the first, because one cannot hold out in that proportion. —Bacon

Miss Helen Shattuck, and Mrs. Joy Sher, who was unable to be present. Guests were Miss Craig and Mrs. Nellie Hayes, who is staying with her sister, Mrs. George Van Dommele.

Miss Marjorie Chen of Shanghai, China, was the guest of Mrs. Donald S. Baker this last week. During the week Miss Chen met the League of Women Voters at an informal tea. She is employed by the United Nations and answered questions on this subject as she and the guests watched a meeting of the Security Council on television. At a tea for the neighborhood ladies she told of her travels into the interior of China, a six-month's trek through the War Zone. Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Reed entertained Miss Chen at dinner and in the evening the teachers of the elementary school discussed with her the education of young children. Mrs. Wayne Crosby joined Miss Chen at a children's party on the lawn. Mrs. Crosby and Miss Chen told children's stories, translating bits into their own language. Miss Chen drew with the members of the Art club, was delighted with our band concert, as auction and a bean supper in Henniker, and with sightseeing around Hillsboro and Concord, she carried back to the city a fair picture of New England.

Sulphur Hill

Fifty or more years ago the Messenger had correspondents, not only at the Center and Upper and Lower Villages, but at Concord End and Sulphur Hill. Concord End could speak for itself now if so inclined, but the news of Sulphur Hill would be limited to one family now, that of Wilfred Bumford, who lives on the Hiram McCauley place. He was the man who didn't want blinds on his house, but his wife did, so she bought blinds and had them put on the house. Of course, he wouldn't allow them to stay there, so he took them off and put them away until they were sold at auction many years later, good as new.

Strange enough, Sulphur Hill has a bit of romance about it. John McCauley and Elizabeth Gibson, the first two children born during the first settlement of Hillsboro, fled with their families when all the settlers were frightened away by the Indians. Twenty years later, John Hill, anxious to develop the settlement further, tried to persuade some of these settlers to come back. He found John and Elizabeth were lovers and induced them to return to the second settlement by promising to give them a farm. He kept his word and gave them a farm at the very top of Sulphur Hill where they lived happily ever afterwards, but there is nothing left of their home but the story now.

One time many years later, Frank took his girl for a ride up Sulphur Hill. They were climbing the hill slowly when the horse spied a white rock in the wall. He jumped and turned right around, breaking the shafts, and started off down the hill, leaving the amazed couple sitting in the buggy, which had rolled down into the ditch. Frank never told anybody about it until long, long afterwards, but he had to tell his mother, because it was her top buggy in which they were riding.

Birthday Party

Susan Olson, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Thor Olson, was eight years old on August 4. Her mother helped her celebrate the occasion by entertaining a party of Susan's friends from two to eight o'clock. Mrs. Olson took all the children up to the swimming pool where they splashed to their heart's delight from two to five o'clock. Then they came home to enjoy the birthday supper and games until time to go home. Before supper Susan had to endure a spanking from each child, but it didn't rain to spoil her fun. She said if it did rain she would go up in the clouds and plug up all the holes. Susan's guests were Karen Rasmussen, Millie Feldblum, Carol Tasker, David Buttrick, David Cooper and David Kendrick.

this house in 1896, the hay on the Frank Merrill (now Woodbury) corner lot has been cut without getting wet but a very few times. It was out last week and we had rain. Too bad haying doesn't come oftener.

Miss Louise Teixeira, who is teaching in Texas, is spending her vacation with her family here.

They stayed overnight at the Spalding Cabins and visited us Saturday afternoon and Sunday. They enjoyed a ride to the Center and Villages and called on other friends.

Mrs. Francis Stasulis is staying with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Colby, while her husband is employed by the Marion Electrical Instrument Company in Manchester, until they can find a place to live in that city.

Mrs. Nellie Widger and her daughter, Miss Clara Widger, of Washington, D. C., are staying at their camp in Gilmanton for the month of August. Her other daughter, Mrs. Hamilton Rumrill, makes them frequent visits.

CORRESPONDENT

This correspondent is of the same mind as the other correspondents. We send in our news and wonder what we will read in the paper when it comes out. How in the world the word "Emblem" could be printed Tableaux is beyond me. Mrs. Orser is Emblem chairman on the N. H. Federation Executive board, not Tableaux as reported.

The next meeting of the Concord District President's club will be held in Hillsboro, November 13th, at the Congregational vestry where the Deborah Society will serve the luncheon.

THE STORY OF TEN LITTLE FREE WORKERS

THESE ARE THE WORKERS

REDDY DOCTOR RAILROADER MINER STEELWORKER FARMER LAWYER GROCER SALESLERK REPORTER

Ten little free workers in this country fine and fair. But if you cherish your freedom—worker have a care! Ten little free workers—Reddy was doing fine Until the socialists got him—then there were nine.

Nine little free workers laughed at Reddy's fate Along came federal medicine—then there were eight.

Eight little free workers thought this country heaven But the government took over the railroads, then there were seven.

Seven little free workers—'till the miners got in a fix. Uncle said coal's essential and took over leaving six.

Six little free workers 'till the day did arrive The steel mills too were federalized—then there were five.

Five little free workers—but the farmers are free no more. The farms have been collectivized—that leaves only four.

Four little free workers 'till the government did decree All must have free legal advice—then there were three.

Three little free workers—the number is getting few. But with government groceries selling food—then there were two.

Two little free workers—our story's almost done. With clerks at work in federal stores—that leaves only one.

One little free worker—the reporter son-of-a-gun. Mustn't criticize government—so now there are none.

Ten little workers—but they are no longer free. They work when and where ordered, and at a fixed rate you see. And it all could have been prevented if they'd only seen fit to agree. And work together instead of saying "It never can happen to me."

Richard Smith of Dover is a deep sea fisherman and last week had good luck fishing off Rye Harbor, half way to the Isles of Shoals. When you can catch mackerel with a fly, you are good.

Have been reading the past week some of the books by experts on the habits of birds and animals. One expert comes out and makes the statement that raccoons wash all their food. In my twenty odd years raising raccoons I know this to be false. I know that raccoons do wash some of their food, like a stale piece of hard bread, but feed them an ice cream cone or candy or a nice piece of cake and do they wash it no, they don't. When these experts disagree, what are we supposed to believe.

Do you know how to tie a fly to catch your trout and salmon? Well, if you don't just buy a copy of the August number of "Outdoor Life" and turn to page 46 and in 25 pictures you get the whole story. Best thing we have seen yet on how to tie a fly.

Last year's duck kill was 18,500, 1,000, beating the year before by 1,500,000 birds.

The Wildlife Service reports that only 37 Whooping Cranes remain alive in the U. S.

According to Wildlife Management Institute study in Maine by Cooperative Wildlife Research Unit proves that the vicious snapping turtles prey heavily upon wild ducks including adult birds. Of 35 turtles trapped, three contained no food, the others contained the remains of birds. On the other hand we have so called experts that tell you that the snapping turtles are a benefit to a pond. Boy, they sure have us guessing. But we believe the government experts and the three turtlemen from East Rindge, Messrs. White, Raymond and Baldwin.

A duck banded in California in 1934 dodged bullets until October, 1949 when it was shot many miles from where it was banded.

A golfer in Alabama hit and killed a lark while making a long drive. The fish and game department did not consider that hunting. Was that a birdie?

The state of R. I. is doing big things towards anti-pollution in their state.

Last spring I sent out an SOS for someone to hatch out some goose eggs. There were three parties that wanted this help. I tried everywhere without success, so a lot of eggs no doubt spoiled. Ross Watts of Mont Vernon saw my request and this week brought me over two one-week old goslings. Is any one else sorry for me?

Nice letter from Sybil M. Beatham of Mason. She disagrees with me when I say there is a scarcity of little black and white pussies. She has seen plenty of them in the past few weeks. One night last week she saw two walking down the center of the Maine street of Greenville. A horn warning and they started for the sidewalk. She has seen deer and other wild birds and animals.

Talk about your mail, last week in three days I had plenty of mail. How to remove a skunk from her gift shop basement? How to get rid of wasps on his porch. How to clean out bats from his garret. Wanted to find homes for dogs, cats and kittens galore. Well, I tried to answer them all as best I could. Thanks to those who put in a stamp for reply.

If the party who was interested in white angora rabbits will get in touch with Mrs. Marion Parkman of Hillsboro, she has some real ones.

All my folks went to the beach last Sunday but my wife and I stayed at home to watch the shingle business. We sat in the front room and watched the Braves win a doubleheader. Better than sitting in the sun at the ballpark on a soft pine board.

The Granite Fish and Game club of Milford, Eugene Sylvester, went on a deep sea fishing trip the other day. What did they get besides being seasick?

Here is a man who wants to get a lot of common pigeons to train his hunting dogs. I will tell you who this party is if interested in the project.

SUTTON A. A. WALLOPS HILLSBORO PITCHERS

by JOE EATON, JR.

HILLSBORO, August 6 — The Hillsboro A.C. absorbed its second straight defeat at the hands of the Sutton A.A. by a score of 12-4 at Grimes Field.

Everett Murdough started on the mound for the locals, his first start of the year, and was pounded for nine hits and six runs in the four and one-third innings that he worked. However, it was not all his fault. True, he was hit hard, but the Pagemen turned up with the worst case of fumbleitis they have had all year. Almost any ground ball hit to the infield was good for one base.

Hy Stafford, although suffering from a sore arm, came in to pitch with one out in the fifth and he gave up six more runs, nine hits and received the same very poor support.

Your writer and the official scorer disagree on the number of errors made by Hillsboro. The locals were given four errors but I felt, along with many others, that the total was seven.

Going into this contest Hillsboro and Warner were in a two-way tie for first place and the results of Warner's game is not known.

We noticed that last Sunday Pete Bates saw some pitching duty for the first time in seven weeks. This is good news for Warner but rather disheartening to the rest of the League as Bates, a great competitor and the spark of the Warner club, can make things very tough in the league playoffs.

A Suggestion If We May

The slipping Hillsboro Townies need several things which will enable them to play better ball and thereby draw larger crowds.

In my opinion they should have—
1) Our very expensive diamond (infield) raked before every game to cut down errors due to bad hops by ground balls.

This gold-plated investment is falling into very poor condition for good baseball.

2) Practice sessions more often and better attended.

3) More pepper and chatter from the team during games. Our club shows less spirit and enthusiasm than any team in the league—including the cellar-dwelling Bradford nine.

4) A young man with more speed at second base. Manager Page should be in the lineup as he is one of the club's best hitters but even he must realize that second base is too fast a spot for him.

Henniker Man Coach of N. H. "Little League" Champs

HENNIKER, Aug. 10 — An All Star team of N. H. "Little League," baseball players from Concord have earned the title of N. H. champions by virtue of two successive wins from the All Star team of Manchester in a series held last week. Concord won the first game Tuesday night at home, 12-6, and won the second game at Manchester on Wednesday, 3-2, in a spectacular rally in the final inning.

This team will travel to Pittsfield, Mass., to compete in an Eastern Area Championship series starting on August 11 and will play against Westerly, R. I., for the opening game, the champions of "Little Rhody." The winners of the tournament in Pittsfield, Mass., will go on to Schenectady, N. Y., for the Eastern sectionals, the third week in August and the National finals will be held in Williamsburg, Penn., later in August. Members of the "Little League," are under the teen-age, from 8-12 years. The league is a new venture for Concord in organized baseball for younger athletes.

Franklin P. Annis, formerly of Henniker and principal of Rumford school, Concord, is coach and co-manager of the boys with James Ceriello, well known Concord athlete, organizer of Boy's club activities and member of the Concord police.

Mr. and Mrs. Grover Annis have attended many of the games this summer and report that the boys play a whale of a game of baseball.

5) More strength on the bench which could be gotten by breaking in some of the young ball players in town and having them ready for Town team ball when the time comes.

6) More pitching. "Nuff said." It's too late this season to do much of anything about these things but other years are coming.
